ROOSEVELT TALKS WITH LA FOLLETTE

Insurgent Legislation Their Theme, Says Senator, and the Colonel Is in Fighting Trim.

AT HIS TREE CHOPPING AGAIN

Greets the Reporters with His Trusty Axe—Laughs at Reports of Throat Trouble.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., June 27.—Robert M. La Follette, United States Senator from Wisconsin and the father of Republican insurgency, spent two hours this afternoon talking politics with Theodore Roosevelt. He left Oyster Bay wearing a broad smile.

Senator Elmer Burkett of Nebraska, another out-and-out insurgent, is coming to Sagamore Hill after Col. Roosevelt returns from Boston. He, too, will talk politics.

Representative Madison of Kansas, irreconcilable insurgent and ardent defender of Gifford Pinchot as a member of the Ballinger-Pinchot Congressional Investigating Committee, will be at Sagamore Hill probably late this week. His theme will be politics.

Within the last few days Col. Roosevelt has talked politics with Gifford Pinchot and his ally, James R. Garfield.

Senator La Follette arrived early in the afternoon. He had with him G. E. Roe, a New York lawyer who was formerly his law partner. Col. Roosevelt's chauffeur was waiting for them and whisked them away to Sagamore Hill. The Seantor had pulled his hat down over his eyes and tried to escape unseen. But he was caught fairly at it by a group of newspaper men who saw the Roosevelt auto. They tackled him on suspicion, although nobody recognized him, for his hat hid his famous pompadour.

"Not a word," he said. "I am going to Sagamore Hill, but I don't want a word said about it."

When he returned just in time to catch a train for New York he looked like a schoolboy who had just won a medal. He was smiling his most expansive, persuasive smile.

"Its all right, boys," he cried jovially. "The Colonel says I way talk to you."

The train pulled out and the interviewers jumped on with the Senator and rode to the next station.

They Talked Politics.

"Did we talk politics?" he replied to the first question.

"We did." And he emphasized the affirmation.

"We talked of the legislation of the present session of Congress, from the attitude of those members of the Republican Party whom the newspapers are pleased to call insurgents."

"Can you go into details?"

"No, I prefer that they come from Sagamore Hill. I am very much pleased with the result of my visit with Col. Roosevelt, very much pleased, indeed."

The Senator paused for a moment, recalling the happenings of the afternoon. Suddenly the smile left his face for the first time, and he said impressively:

"I want to tell you that Col. Roosevelt is the greatest living American, and," he added slowly and significantly, "he is in fighting trim!"

An hour later the Colonel received the interviewers, who told him just what Senator La Follette said about him and their meeting. The Colonel smiled as though he liked it.

"I think there is nothing I can add to what the Senator has said," he commented.

Speculation among Oyster Bay politicians is keener than ever because of today's occurrences. One story going the rounds is that the insurgents have come and seen, but have not conquered. Yet there is another group of equally positive persons who insist that the Colonel has shown clearly by his acts that he is veering toward the radicals. All agreed, however, that it is entirely a matter of opinion.

When Col. Roosevelt received the interviewers he was standing on the side of the hill which slopes down from his home. He wore crash golf trousers and golf stockings and a soft brown shirt, open at the throat. He was hatless. One of a group of four thickly clustered trees he had chopped half through.

Chops Down a Tree.

"Wait just a minute, please," he called out. He raised his axe and whacked at the tree with a hard, true stroke. In another minute the tree quivered and then fell prostrate.

"Great exercise," said the Colonel, as he sat cross-legged on the fallen trunk, his axe across his knee. "It is about the only exercise I get out here. I have just been in the hay field.

"I spent all the morning in going through this morning's mail," he continued. "I am willing to work as hard as any man, but I like to get somewhere. It reminds me of the famous cat, which fell into the well and climbed up one foot every day only to fall back two feet at night. The volume of mail has become so great that I left word at the Post Office to have it all sent back to my editorial office in New York."

The Colonel said that Senator La Follette and Mr. Roe were the only visitors of the day, except two men who had come to consult with him about his Western tours. He agreed definitely to-day to speak before the Milwaukee Press Club on his Western tour, which begins the last of August. He also decided to make another trip early in October, in which he will speak to the Knights of Columbus of Peoria, Ill., on Oct. 12, and in Atlanta, Ga., on "Uncle Remus Day," which, he said, he thought was Oct. 17.

Col. Roosevelt was asked about the report which was published to-day to the effect that an operation on his throat was to have been performed this morning. He laughed aloud in his boyish way.

"Why, the first I heard of it," he said, "was when Senator La Follette arrived here and told me that he had read that report. I have never even heard of the doctor who, it was said, was to perform that operation. How do you suppose such stories about me became current? You can see for yourselves that not only is there nothing wrong with my throat, but that I am in perfect physical condition."

Belittles His Throat Trouble.

He added that he had had no trouble with his throat since his return from abroad, or, in fact, since the time King George's physician treated him.

"I contracted bronchitis when I was in Norway," he explained. "I was very anxious to make all the speeches I had BOATS CRASH IN HELL GATE.

The Yale and the Middletown Rake Each Other in the Swift Current.

Several hundred passengers aboard the Boston Line steamship Yale and the Hartford Line steamer Middletown had an exciting time last evening as the two boats jammed into each other sidewise while racing through Hell Gate against a strong ebb tide on their way to the Sound.

From the shore passengers aboard the Yale were seen at dinner in the dining room in the afterpart of the boat. Dinner was also being served aboard the Middletown. Scores of passengers crowded the decks of both boats.

The two boats got into the Hell Gate channel together. The Middletown was slightly in the lead, but she was overhauled by her rival. On one side they had the jagged rocks that line the Astoria shore. On the other, dividing the channel with them, were the big Government dredges which are blasting out the reef on Flood Rock and have been the cause of several mishaps in the channel. Sharing the narrow channel, the two big boats went racing along, the swift current drawing them closer together.

The Middletown was hugging the Astoria shore and the Yale was trying to keep in midstream. Almost abreast they raced, when, as they were just about rounding Hallet's Point, the Middletown was suddenly driven dangerously close to the jagged rocks along the shore. She immediately veered out to deeper water, and at the same time the Yale was carried inshore by the current. Then came a crash and the sound of tearing and grinding of wood. Panic-stricken diners rushed on deck, but it was all over in a minute.

The two boats sped on close together until the dangerous bend was cleared. Then they straightened out for the Sound and made an inspection of the damage. As far as could be seen from the shore, the woodwork on the starboard afterpart of the Yale was smashed, while the Middletown, catching the blow amidships, had her woodwork damaged for several feet. The trouble was well above the water line and both continued their trips.

SHOOTS IN CUBAN CONGRESS.

Manuel Lores Fires at Antonio San Miguel, Editor of La Lucha.

HAVANA, June 27.—A sensational attempt to kill Antonio San Miguel, Congressman from Pinar del Rio, and editor of La Lucha, was made in the lobby of Congress this afternoon a few minutes before that body was to open its session. Congressman Manuel Lores of Oriente was the assailant. The single shot he fired went wide, but almost hit another Congressman standing near.

San Miguel was standing in the lobby awaiting the opening of the session, when he was approached by Lores, who had several friends with him. Lores whipped out a revolver and fired at San Miguel at short range. The bullet missed its mark, but grazed the head of Congressman Antonio Gonzalez Lanuza, leader of the Conservative Party, who was standing behind San Miguel. The latter drew a pistol, but before further shots could be exchanged the combatants were separated.

The attempted assassination created a great commotion, and it was some time before quiet could be restored. The session of the House then proceeded. It is believed that a duel between San Miguel and Lores is inevitable.

The cause of the murderous attempt was the attitude of Congressman San Miguel in denouncing as a colossal fraud the proposition to exchange the Villanueva station of the United Railways, on the Prado, for the Government's arsenal lands, of which scheme Congressman Lores and his colleagues are ardent supporters.

LINER LOSES A PROPELLER.

The Koenigin Luise Breaks Her Port Shaft—Making Port Slowly.

The steamship Koenigin Luise of the North German Lloyd Line broke her port shaft in the stern tube, losing her port propeller, on Saturday. Capt. Harrassowitz immediately communicated with the company's offices in Bremen and with Oelrichs & Co. of this city by wireless, saying he would continue the trip, using the starboard engine.

At noon on Sunday Capt. Harrassowitz sent a wireless message via Capt Race, received here yesterday morning, saying he was 1,044 miles east of Ambrose Channel, and expected to arrive on Friday afternoon. The Koenigin Luise, according to this latest information, is making between eight and ten knots per hour.

In the event repairs cannot be made at the Hoboken piers of the North German Lloyd, the Koenigin Luise will be sent to the dry dock at Newport News. An extra propeller blade to replace the one lost will be sent from Bremen on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse on Tuesday, arriving here July 5. It is possible that the steamer may have to be furnished with a new port shaft, in which event her scheduled sailing on July 9 may be delayed several days.

The Koenigin Luise left Bremen on June 18 for New York, stopping June 19 at Cherbourg, but omtting the usual stop at Southampton. The steamer has recently been in the Australian and Far Eastern service. She has on board 185 cabin passengers and about 415 in the steerage.

DROWNS BEFORE A CROWD.

Rudolph Mertz of New York Steps Into a Hole at Island Beach, N. J.

Special to The New York Times.

HIGHLANDS, N. J., June 27.—Before a large crowd of bathers the first drowning accident of the season occurred here yesterday when Rudolph Mertz of 216 West Fifty-third Street, New York, lost his life. He came here with Leonard Denner, Jr., of 778 Ninth Avenue, New York, on Saturday night.

They went over to Island Beach, between this place and Highland Beach yesterday, the use of which was recently given to bathers by the Government. Mertz, who had not been feeling well, and was unable to swim, was wading off shore when he suddenly sank into a hole, where the water was fourteen feet in depth. Denner and other bathers saw him go down and swam to the spot to rescue him.

The fact that he never came to the surface gives rise to the belief that he was stricken with heart disease through fright and died almost instantly. Chris Larsen, a fisherman, dived for the body and brought it to shore.

SIR PURDON CLARKE QUITS ART MUSEUM

Forced by Ill-Health to Resign as Metropolitan's Director—Sends Letter from London.

EULOGIZED BY TRUSTEES

Will Act as Honorary European Correspondent and His Salary Continues—His Career and Services to Art.

The Trustees of the Metropolitan Museum of Art accepted yesterday the resignation of Sir Caspar Purdon Clarke as Director of the Museum. The resignation was due to ill-health. The board passed resolutions of regret lauding the Director, who is now in London. No successor was selected. Dr. Edward Robinson, the Assistant Director of the Museum, who has been Acting Director during the past year, will continue to perform the duties of Director. Sir Caspar Purdon Clarke will act as Honorary European Correspondent of the Museum. His letter of resignation, which was placed before the Trustees by J. Pierpont Morgan, read:

I asked my doctor to state his opinion respecting my proposed return to New York, and although he considers that I have sufficiently recovered from the troublesome complaint for which he has been treating me during the past year to resume my work in New York, he is decidedly opposed to the idea of a continued residence in America, especially during the Winter season. I beg, therefore, to place in your hands my resignation.

Board Adopts Resolutions.

The resolutions unanimously adopted by the Board of Trustees were as follows:

Resolved, That in accepting the resignation of Sir Caspar Purdon Clarke as Director the Trustees of the Metropolitan Museum of Art desire to congratulate him upon the degree to which his health has been restored and to express their regret that that restoration is not sufficient to warrant continued residence in America during the Winter season.

By his geniality and kindly manner, as well as by his broad artistic sympathies, he has endeared himself to a large and constantly increasing circle of friends, not only in our own city, but throughout the whole United States. His long and varied museum experience in Europe and the Far East, which was crowned with the Directorship of the famous Victoria and Albert Museum in London, better known perhaps as the South Kensington Museum, a position which he resigned to take the Directorship of our own Metropolitan Museum of Art, made his services of special value to us; and his sympathy with all kinds of artistic development, modern as well as ancient, and notably with industrial art, has helped to give our museum the breadth of development which it has manifested during the last five years in which he has held office.

Further resolved, That Sir Purdon's full salary as Director be continued for the year following his resignation—that is, until June 1, 1911—and that thereafter he receive salary at the rate of $5,000 per annum.

Further resolved, That he be requested to continue his connection with the museum by accepting the position of honorary European correspondent of the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Sir Caspar Purdon Clarke's Career.

Sir Caspar Purdon Clarke's salary as Director of the Museum was $15,000 a year. He is 64 years old, and was born in Richmond, County Dublin, Ireland, in 1846. He was knighted in 1883, the year he became Director of the South Kensington Museum.

Sir Purdon was graduated from the National Art Training School in 1865 as an architect, and first became connected with the South Kensington Museum four years later. In the year of his graduation he received a national medallion for architectural design. He was engaged by the English Government to prepare plans for the remodeling of the Houses of Parliament, which, occupied the next two years. He was then transferred to the South Kensington Museum and prepared plans for the architectural courts of that museum and the Bethnal Green Museum. In 1870 and 1871 he was engaged on plans for a museum in Italy. During the next three years he was employed by the South Kensington Museum to purchase works of art in Russia, Greece, Turkey, Syria, Spain, Italy, and Germany.

Sir Purdon was appointed architect to the Royal Commission for the Paris Exposition in 1878 and received medals for art work and the decoration of the Legion of Honor. In 1880 he became directly connected with the East Indian Department of the South Kensington Museum and spent the following year in India collecting works of art for this department. On his return from India he was appointed Director of the Museum, to succeed Sir Philip Owen, and the decoration of the Order of the Indian Empire was bestowed upon him.

In 1884 Sir Purdon visited the United States for the special purpose of investigating homes and dormitories for women students, and on his return built the Alexandra House at Kensington. The British Government sent him to India the following year to arrange for the Colonial and Indian Art Exhibition of 1885 and the Colonial and Indian Exposition of 1886. In 1887 he designed and built Lord Brassey's museum. He was architect to the British India section of the Paris Exposition in 1889 and received a gold medal.

Takes Charge of Metropolitan.

His coming to the United States in 1905 to take charge of the Metropolitan Museum of Art was due to the persuasions of J. Pierpont Morgan and was heralded as the beginning of a notable epoch in American art. John Lane, in a special pamphlet written on that occasion, said:

"On my arrival in New York recently I read the cabled reports of the appointment to the directorship of the Metropolitan Museum of Art of Sir Caspar Purdon Clarke, whom it is my privilege to know. I thought there must be some mistake. He has been so long and so popularly connected with the arts and crafts of the Victoria and Albert Museum that one would just as soon have thought of the building itself or indeed the British Museum being bodily removed here.

"Sir Purdon has the rare faculty of being an expert in antiquities as well as of knowing all that is best about the modern arts. Indeed, I can recall nothing more fascinating than to hear him describe the causes and effects of the various constituents employed in, say, producing a piece of pottery, enamel, or some Oriental fabric, be it ancient or modern. The fact is, he seems to know how everything is made. He appears to be chemist, scientist, artist, craftsman, antiquary, archaeologist, and alchemist combined. He has also the instinct of at once recognizing the genuineness of an antique, as well as its beauty. These are too often diverse qualities. It should be remembered that not all things which are old, or even unique, are beautiful or have any special educational or monetary value. It is this rare combination which has equipped him as one of the greatest experts in Europe.

"In England his departure can only be regarded as a national loss. Mr. Morgan has annexed many men and things in Europe, but the removal of Sir Purdon is the one irreparable loss that British lovers of the arts will not soon forgive. Mr. Morgan must be congratulated, too, on obtaining such distinguished services for $15,000 per annum. Just think of the number of buyers there are at the various stores on Broadway who draw annually $20,000 or $25,000. It is evident that Sir Purdon has not been induced to accept the position from pecuniary motives. Indeed, I believe that he at once recognized the unexampled opportunity of impressing his personality and enthusiasm on the art of 80,000,000 of the most alert people in the world—a people overeager to assimilate new ideas to the old ideals, as nothing remains for the young, the modern, but to give out new versions and new readings of the old."

In order not to miss the many notable features in next Sunday's Times it is important to place orders with newsdealers to-day.

27 GIRLS GRADUATE IN DOLLAR DRESSES

Home-Made and Looked as Well as Gowns That Cost 100 Times as Much.

A LESSON IN ECONOMY

Done at the Suggestion of Teachers in the Washington Irving High School.

Twenty-seven of the 243 girls who graduated from the Washington Irving High School last night received their diplomas wearing dresses some of which cost as little as 72 cents complete and none more than $1. Among the other 216 some had on dresses that cost as high as $75, while at least fifty had on gowns that were valued anywhere from $40 to $50. More than 1,000 persons saw the girls graduate, but not one person was found who was able to pick out one of the twenty-seven girls whose dress had been made complete for less than $1.

The identity of the girls who wore these dresses was kept secret by the school authorities, whose object in getting them to wear the dresses was to impress upon the school girls of New York that it is not necessary for them to spend all of their savings for one graduation dress, since just as well appearing cloth can be bought for 8 cents a yard and made into a neat garment. That they succeeded in proving this to be a fact was the unanimous verdict of last night's audience.

The exercises were held in the auditorium of the De Witt Clinton High School, at Fifty-ninth Street and Tenth Avenue, the auditorium being the largest of any school building in the city. Patrick F. McGowan presided as the representative of the High School Committee of the Board of Education, and he was among those who admitted his inability to sort out the twenty-seven girls who wore the less than a dollar dresses.

The idea of making last night's graduating exercises an object lesson in dressing originated among the teachers in the dressmaking department of the Washington Irving High School, at the head of which is Miss Muriel Willard. She was an enthusiastic advocate of the experiment, and was ably seconded by Misses Ellen Richard, Martha Hurlburt, Marie Gurnee, Christine Thompson, Mary V. Linden, and Lillian Belle Sage, all of whom are connected with that department.

About two months ago these teachers had occasion to talk over the burden that the commencement season is to many of the poorer girls, and they all agreed that the graduation dress was the most expensive of all the items and that it was one expense that certainly could be reduced to a minimum. At class the next day Miss Willard called the attention of the dressmaking pupils to the needless expense they went to when they bought dresses costing anywhere from $10 to $75 to graduate in. She pointed out that it was a foolish waste of money, and said that she was prepared to show them how they could get their graduation dresses for a dollar and still look just as neat as the more expensively dressed members of the class.

The class took kindly to the idea and at once began making the dollar dresses. Twenty-seven in all were made, and when Mr. McAndrew, the Principal of the school, learned what had been done he said he wanted the dresses worn on graduation night in order to give those who were present a chance to prove whether or not they could tell a 72-cent dress from a $72 one. Even the parents of the girls who wore the experimental garments were kept out of the secret last night. One man, whose daughter graduated and who he supposed was wearing a fine $45 tailormade gown, appeared in a dress that cost about 85 cents, and her father never knew the difference.

"All of our teaching has been for economy and to fit girls for their varied walks in life," said Miss Richards after the commencement exercses, "and it would be against the very things we are most anxious to impress upon them to allow them to spend large sums of money for graduation dresses when we know that so many of them can ill afford to do so."

In his speech to the graduating class last night Mr. McGowan said that he had never seen so many pretty girls in one place before. He referred to the fact that seven years ago, when the first class graduated, it had only six members. Next year, he added, Washington Irving High School will enroll 4,600 girls, and within the next few months the cornerstone of the Washington Irving School Building will be laid.

Miss Madeline Ford made the opening speech last night. Miss Florence Blum had the salute to the flag, and Miss Jennie Milikofsky, another member of the graduating class, introduced Mr. McGowan. It was requested that none of the girls should carry bouquets, but when they marched nearly every girl carried a huge bunch of roses or carnations.

ELEVATED PASSENGERS HURT.

Shuttle Train Fails to Stop at Grand Central Till It Hits Bumpers.

With an impact which threw passengers from their feet, a two-car shuttle train running between the Forty-second Street station of the Third Avenue elevated road and the Grand Central Station, smashed into the bumpers at the Grand Central end at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The iron work at the front end of the car was twisted and broken, although it did not damage the motorman's box, where Thomas F. Howley was at the lever.

Many of the passengers were bruised and all were frightened. Among those aboard whose names were obtained by the police were William O'Mara of 310 East Ninetieth Street, Michael Ellery of 290 Broadway, John Murphy of Dover, N. J., and Policeman Harry J. Schrutter of 359 Steinway Avenue, Long Island City. Schrutter said that his spine had been injured. He refused to go to a hospital.

Howley said that he had his train under perfect control and was slowing down to stop at the station when he felt the cars "slipping along" despite his efforts to bring them to a halt.

ROBERT TAFT IN AUTO RUNS OVER LABORER

Machine Driven by President's Son Seriously Injures an Italian at Beverly.

PRESIDENT IS DISTRESSED

Wires to Victim, to Son, and to Friend Asking That Best Surgeon Obtainable Attend the Man.

BEVERLY, Mass., June 27.—One of President Taft's automobiles, driven by his son, Robert A. Taft, to-day ran over and seriously injured an Italian street laborer named Michael Thisthwolla. At the hospital it was said that there were indications that the workman's skull was fractured.

Robert Taft, with two college friends, Lendall King of Minneapolis and George Harrison of Washington, started out from the Taft Summer home this morning for a spin along the Massachusetts north shore. Robert Taft, who has been driving automobiles about the city a good deal since his arrival last week, was at the steering wheel, and his friends sat behind him.

At Pride's Crossing, about two miles from home, the streets were being oiled by a gang of men. The automobile was slowed down, the horn was sounded, and most of the laborers stepped aside. One of them, however, was not quite quick enough, and the machine struck him, tossing him into the gutter. He was unconscious when picked up by Robert Taft and his two friends.

A near-by physician was summoned and the injured man was sent to the hospital, whither the President's son and his friends followed soon afterward.

The hospital surgeons said that the skull appeared to be fractured and that the man was in a serious condition.

All those who saw the affair said it was purely an accident; that the automobile was going slowly, and that the man stepped directly in front of it.

Robert Taft this afternoon received a long telegraphic message from his father regarding the accident. The exact contents of the message are not known, but it is generally understood that the President instructed the young man to render whatever assistance he possibly could to the injured man and to his family.

The serious condition of Thisthwolla has caused a hurried change in the plans of the Taft family, who were preparing to depart on the Sylph for New London to-morrow morning to attend the Harvard-Yale regatta. Instead of attending the races, which take place on Thursday, the family will remain in Beverly, unless there is an unexpected change for the better in the man's condition. The report from Beverly Hospital to-night was that his name was on the dangerous list, and he had only a slight chance of recovery.

Dr. S. J. Mixter of Boston, sent at the request of the President, arrived here late this afternoon, and he is working with the hospital authorities doing all that can be done for the injured man.

Robert Taft was badly broken up over the affair and spent much of his time this afternoon at the hospital. He refused to go out in the motor car again to-day.

Chief of Police W. A. Ferguson has received instructions through the President's attorney to see that the injured man obtains every possible care and attention until the President's arrival, when Mr. Taft will take care of the matter himself. Robert Taft has been in conference with the Chief several times.

Secretary King of the Board of Trade received word from the President's secretary to-day stating that the President would arrive in Beverly early on Wednesday morning.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—President Taft was greatly distressed when he learned of to-day's unfortunate accident at Beverly. He immediately sent a long telegraphic message to his son, the text of which was not given out, but which is said to have contained instructions to do everything possible for the injured man. The following telegram was then sent to an old college friend of the President:

Samuel Carr, 96 Ames Building, Boston, Mass.:

By an unfortunate automobile accident at Beverly my boy, Robert, struck a street laborer, fracturing his skull. He is at Beverly Hospital. Will you not call up by 'phone the best surgeon in Boston and have him visit the hospital at once and tender service to the resident physician, and do all he can for the injured man?

WILLIAM H. TAFT.

The President then sent a personal telegram to the injured man, expressing his profound regret over the accident and conveying to the victim his earnest hope for a speedy recovery. This telegram was not made public.

ERIE YIELDS ON RATES.

Other Roads Into New York Have Already Agreed to Delay.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Indications now are that all of the railways operating out of New York City will accede to the request of the Inter-State Commerce Commission to suspend their advanced commutation rates until Aug. 1 in order to afford the commission opportunity to consider the matter of jurisdiction over those rates.

The commission on Saturday issued an order suspending the commutation rates filed by the Erie Railroad because that line had declined to accede to the request of the commission for a postponement of the effective date of the tariffs. All of the other lines had agreed to the commission's proposal temporarily to suspend the tariffs. On the Erie's refusal, the only thing left for the commission to do, in its judgment, was to suspend the Erie's rates, and this was done.

Communication was reopened to-day between the Erie and the commission, with the result that, probably to-morrow, the order will be revoked, the railroad having consentel to submit the matter to the commission.

MORE PAY FOR ENGINEERS.

Reading Road Puts Up Wages of Yard Firemen Also.

READING, Penn., June 27.—The engineers in the yards of the Philadelphia & Reading Railway will have their wages increased to 40½ cents an hour and the firemen to 28 cents, as a result of conferences held with General Manager Dice, which came to an end to-day.

The rate of wages to be paid engineers and firemen on the road was not announced.

YOUNG MORSE TO BE A COWBOY

Son of Convicted Banker Will Go West to Work on a Ranch.

Erwin E. Morse, second so nof Charles W. Morse, it was reported yesterday, will leave on Thursday to start life as a cowboy on a Wyoming ranch. Young Morse was graduated last week from Yale. Many opportunities, it is said, were offered Morse by business friends of his father in this city and in Maine, but the young man refused them all.

His father, who is serving a fifteen-year sentence for violation of the National banking laws, is said to have given his consent to young Morse's plans. No member of the Morse family could be reached last night to confirm the report.

NEW ZEALAND AFTER TRUST.

Premier Says an American Company's Monopoly Must Be Stopped.

WELLINGTON, N. Z., June 27.—Sir Joseph Ward, the Premier, in a speech to-day foreshadowing the Government's anti-trust legislation, said it possessed clear evidence that a powerful American company was exercising a restrictive and prejudicial influence in New Zealand.

He added that it had created a monopoly of the worst kind, which must be stopped.

The Premier did not name the company.

RAILROAD SUIT DISMISSED.

Court Acts Under Taft's Agreement Regarding Freight Increases.

ST. LOUIS, June 27.—In accordance with the agreement reached between railroad Presidents and President Taft, United States District Attorney Charles H. Houts to-day asked for dismissal of the injunction suit brought in the United States Circuit Court by the Government against railroads composing the Western Trunk Line Committee to restrain the proposed increase in freight rates.

Judge Dyer, who signed the restraining order at Hannibal, ordered the suit dismissed.

THREE IN FIGHT FOR GIRL.

Two Italians Badly Cut—One Uninjured, Now Held, Expects to Wed Her.

KINGSTON, N. Y., June 27.—Three Italian laborers on the Catskill Aqueduct at High Falls, suitors for a pretty Italian girl, agreed to settle their claims by a three-cornered fight.

They fought yesterday with knives. Michael Rusinia may die from his wounds. Frank Siskos will be badly disfigured. Frank Holuka escaped unhurt and expects to marry the girl if he escapes prison. He is held now on a charge of assault.

INSURANCE JURY DISAGREES.

No Verdict in Perjury Trial of Official of Syracuse Concern.

SYRACUSE, June 27.—The jury in the case of Willard H. Peck, former Secretary of the People's Mutual Life Insurance Association and League, charged with perjury, reported to Justice De Angelis to-day that it was unable to agree, and was discharged. The jury had been out since Saturday afternoon. It is understood that it stood eleven for conviction and one for acquittal.

Peck was indicted for perjury in having sworn in the State Insurance Department examination that he believed his contract with the company was a valid claim against it, while having knowledge that the contracts were of no financial value.

ABANDONS NAVY TO WED.

A. C. Bruce Vanishes from Coaching School at Annapolis with a Girl.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 27.—Alfred C. Bruce of Chilgress, Texas, ran away from his coaching school here on Saturday with Miss Leona Meade and married her at Towson, near Baltimore. He had only that morning completed the hard entrance tests, and did not wait to ascertain whether the Academic Board had accepted him.

The couple have not returned to Annapolis. In addition to giving up his naval career, because the Navy Department forbids Midshipmen to marry until two years after graduation, Bruce has transgressed in giving his age to the license clerk as 23. Had he been taken into the academy he would have had to swear that he was under 20 years of age.

The elopement is the second within three weeks where the bridegroom has been a Naval Academy candidate. The first was James M. Saunders of Georgia, who ran away with Miss Henrietta N. Franklin.

THOMAS KING DIVORCED.

Judge Grants Decree to His Wife on the Ground of Intoxication.

BOSTON, Mass., June 27.—In the Supreme Court to-day Judge Richardson granted a divorce to Mrs. Cornell Peabody King, the wife of Thomas King, the New York clubman, on the ground of intoxication. Mrs. King and Wentworth C. Bacon were exonerated on the charge made against them by her husband. Mrs. King is to have the custody of their two-year-old daughter, Cornelia Haven King, and the father is to see the child once a month. Mrs. King is to get $10 a week alimony.

Mrs. King asked that she might have the privilege of resuming her maiden name, but as Mr. King objected to this she dropped the request and the court did not rule on it. On the witness stand Mr. King denied that he was a drunkard.

LONG TERM FOR TREASURER.

Framingham Official Jailed for at Least Ten Years for Forgery.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 27.—Prison doors closed to-day for ten years, if not for life, on John B. Lombard, former Town Treasurer of Framingham, who had confessed to forging town notes aggregating $300,000 during the past ten years.

When his name was called in the Middlesex County Superior Criminal Court to-day, Lombard tottered as he arose from his seat in the prisoners' cage and clutched the railing in front of him. His counsel asked leniency because of his client's age, 60 years, but Judge Sherman said that clemency rested with the executive rather than with the judicial branch of the State Government and that Lombard's offense was a grave one.

Lombard collapsed when the Clerk read the sentence of not less than ten nor more than fifteen years in State Prison.

FIRE IN PATERSON DESTROYS A BLOCK

Van Dyk Furniture Co. Wiped Out and Flames Spread to Adjoining Buildings.

TENANTS IN PERIL RESCUED

Loss May Reach $500,000—Fire for a Time Beyond Control of Department—Near By Towns Asked for Help.

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., Tuesday, June 28.—Fire started in the show window of the Vandyk furniture store at 11:30 o'clock last night, and soon the building was in flames. Damage of $150,000 had been done within an hour. The flames spread rapidly, and were soon sweeping the block in which the Vandyk store stood.

Several families in a three-story tenement next door were rescued with difficulty. They were carried down the fire escapes by firemen.

The Vandyk Company has the largest retail furniture and carpet house in Northern New Jersey.

At 1 o'clock the firemen lost control of the situation, the flames extending to Cross Street from Main. The whole Main Street business block bounded by Ward and Market Streets was threatened.

Chief Stagg asked for help from Haledon, Clifton, and surrounding towns.

The Paterson Opera House, built about ten years ago, was in danger for a time and only heroic work on the part of the firemen saved it.

The Vandyk Company store, where the fire started, was completely destroyed. This was a modern building, but contained such inflammable material that the heat of the flames crumbled the walls.

Daly's moving picture house and Donohue's café and bowling alleys next to the Vandyk Company caught fire and were soon destroyed, Donohue's building extending from Main to Cross Street.

Lockwood's furniture store, another four-story structure, was the building which threatened the destruction of the opera house. This structure was filled with carpets and furniture. It also contained a large paint shop. The flames from the Lockwood Building surmounted the seventy-foot fire wall of the opera house and it burned rapidly. The opera house runs diagonally from Main to Cross Streets in such a way that it touches houses on Market and Cross Streets.

The streets were soon filled with merchants carrying valuable papers from their stores, men and women carrying household belongings from their threatened homes, and stablemen with horses and wagons recovered from the stables in the centre of the blocks. The block where the fire started is just one block from the path of Paterson's big fire of 1902. It was a question at 1 o'clock whether the fire could be kept from crossing Market Street into the most valuable business block of the city.

At the time the fire started a heavy gale was blowing which carried burning embers for a long distance. It was this heavy wind which was responsible for the rapid spread of the flames. Many small fires were started by blazing bits of wood carried to the roofs of neighboring houses. These were put out in some instances by the occupants of the houses with buckets of water.

At 2 o'clock this morning the firemen had begun to get control of the flames, and it was thought they would be confined to the block in which the fire started. At this time Fire Chief Stagg said the loss would be at least $500,000.

PULLS PISTOL ON AUTOISTS.

Dobbs Ferry Policeman Arrested for Threatening New York Officials.

HASTINGS, N. Y., June 27.—An automobile owned by the City of New York, containing a man who said he was Chief Clerk in the Controller's office, and an assistant chief clerk, had just passed through Dobbs Ferry and entered the corporate limits of Hastings to-night, when they were brought to a halt by a man standing in the road. Alongside of him was an automobile, and in it was a man who appeared to be helpless. The man in the road ordered the occupants of the New York auto to turn around and tow the machine into Dobbs Ferry.

The man said he was Frank Springsteel, a policeman. He said his companion was Dr. Parleycole, a dentist, of Dobbs Ferry. He said they had been out for a ride, and his companion was no longer able to drive.

The chief clerk refused to tow, whereupon Springsteel, according to the occupants of the New York auto, drew a revolver and threatened to shoot. Then he demanded to see the driver's license, and not only took possession of it, but ripped the number off the back of the machine. The chief clerk attempted to prevent him, whereupon, it is asserted, the policeman drew his club and hit the clerk.

The clerk overpowered Springsteel and took his club away. A man named Duddy was passing, and the chief clerk wanted him to come here and send help. Two policemen at once went up in a machine. They arrested Springsteel and brought his companion in the automobile, towing it here. Judge James E. Hogan was summoned and paroled Springsteel in the custody of J. J. Hill, the Warden of the White Plains Jail.

While waiting for Judge Hogan's arrival, Springsteel drew his revolver in the police station, but was disarmed.

UNITED WIRELESS CHARGE.

Company's Western Representative Is Put Under Arrest.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 27.—George H. Parker, fiscal agent for the United Wireless Telegraph Company for the territory west of the Mississippi River, was arrested to-day on a Federal warrant charging the use of the mails to defraud. Mr. Parker was released under $10,000 bonds.

The warrant on which Parker was arrested was based on a letter written to E. B. Sheppard of Des Moines, Iowa, April 8, in which Parker, it is alleged, misrepresented the affairs of the company for the purpose of selling stock.

Parker is reputed to be a millionaire, and is said to have made his fortune within the past few years.

CORPORATIONS PAY A MILLION IN A DAY

Collections of New Tax Likely to Reach $10,000,000 by the End of June.

RETURNS REMAIN SECRET

Will Furnish Much Information to the Government Authorities and Some Will Be Made Public Later.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—To-day's issue of the daily Treasury statement, giving the state of government finances at the close of business on Saturday, shows that the officers of corporations are beginning to realize that the end of June is almost at hand. For the first time since receipts on account of the corporation tax began to come in to the Bureau of Internal Revenue the amount credited to that source in Saturday's statement reaches a considerable sum. It was $1,001,251.70, making the total collected to date $4,239,404.88.

Indications at the Treasury this afternoon were that the payments for to-day would exceed those of Saturday, and there is a chance that an aggregate of above $10,000,000 may yet be reached for this month.

Thus far there has been absolutely no publicity of corporation tax returns. Under the law as originally enacted there was a provision that all such returns should be treated as public records and held open to inspection as such. That provision evoked a tremendous protest from corporations all over the country, especially the smaller ones.

The President finally sent a message to Congress setting forth the fact that there was no provision in the original law for the employment of the clerical force necessary if the tax returns were to be handled as public records. This gave Congress an opportunity to redraft that feature of the law, which it did in the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation bill.

The new provision is that only such returns shall be made public as the President directs. In a recent interview the President gave his idea of what returns should be made public. He declared that he would hold open for inspection the returns of all corporations whose stocks are listed for sale on any Stock Exchange or which are advertised for sale, as well as of those corporations in which the public has any legitimate interest, such as public utility corporations.

In view of this declaration by the President, the correspondent of THE NEW YORK TIMES has made several efforts to obtain the returns of some of the larger corporations, the stock of which is dealt in on several Exchanges. At the office of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue he was referred smilingly to the circular issued by the bureau some time ago, setting forth the decision of the bureau to keep all returns secret. Thereupon appeal was made to the Secretary of the Treasury, but Mr. MacVeagh was no more inclined to make public any returns than was Commissioner Cabell.

Then the matter was taken to the White House, along with a copy of the President's interview. There the reply was that the President intended to have regulations established very soon under which the returns for which he deemed publicity proper could be examined by those who were interested in seeing them. Nothing has been done as yet about these regulations.

The President is more than ever of the opinion that the working of the corporation tax law will be of vast benefit to the Government in the line of information as to the real doings of corporations which it will furnish. Within the last few days he has spoken of it in the most enthusiastic terms, expressing the opinion that it would prove to be the act of greatest public benefit adopted by Congress in all his term. Apparently, however, the publicity which appeals so much to him is not to be of the general kind in which the newspaper reading public shares. It is to be for the officials of the Government charged with enforcing other statutes in which the corporations are concerned. After a while, when the new regulations are in force, general publicity of the returns of a certain range of corporations, chiefly railroads and the big participants in inter-State commerce, will be established.

CANNON SAYS HE'LL RETURN.

Will Depend on Republican Party Whether He's Speaker, He Says.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—"God willing, I'll be here next session, and it will be for the Republican majority to determine who shall be Speaker."

Speaker Cannon paid a farewell call at the White House to-day, and the above is what he had to say about his future plans.

"To make a hare pie," continued the Speaker, "you must first catch your hare. I may not be living when the next session of Congress comes around. But if I am, I will be in the hands of the grand old Republican Party, to do with me as they will. There are a lot of folks who think chaos would reign if I came back as Speaker. They prate about Czarism and all that sort of thing, but let that go.

"In all my life I have never seen a situation so full of promise for a Republican victory in the Fall. It always happens that the Democrats win hands down at this time of year, but when the ballots are counted they come out behind, as usual."

HOURS OF SERVICE ACT VALID.

Its Constitutionality Was Contested by the Illinois Central Railroad.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Announcement was made by the Inter-State Commerce Commission to-day that United States District Judge Page Morris, holding court in Iowa, had decided that the Federal law regulating the hours of service of train crews on inter-State railroads was constitutional. In its statement the commission says:

"In the interpretation of the Hours of Service act, which limits the service of the train crew to sixteen hours in any twenty-four-hour period the court held that the performance by the engineer of duties required by the rules of the company in preparation for a trip during the half hour previous to the scheduled time for the departure of a train from an initial terminal made such engineer on duty during such half hour, and that this time must be included in the time of permitted service."

$20,000 FOR PARR JULY 1.

He Must Wait for Remainder of $100,000 Sugar Fraud Reward.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Twenty thousand dollars is to be paid July 1 to Richard Parr, the New York customs employe whose vigilance in detecting frauds in underweighing sugar imports saved the Government more than $2,000,000.

Parr's total reward is to be $100,000. For the remaining $80,000 Secretary MacVeagh will ask Congress to make the necessary provision. The money to be paid on the 1st of July will come out of the moiety funds.

UNDER BILLION, SAYS TAWNEY

WASHINGTON, June 27.—The annual review of National appropriations and expenditures was made public to-day by Chairman Tawney of the Appropriations Committee of the House and Representative Livingston of Georgia, ranking Democratic member of that committee. Chairman Tawney makes the claim that the actual probable fixed charge against revenues during the fiscal year 1911 will be $893,120,761, while the Democrat insists that Congress at the session just closed again passed the billion-dollar mark, pointing out, what even Mr. Tawney does not dispute, that the appropriations for expenses of the Government made during the session aggregate $1,027,133,446.

Mr. Tawney's fixed-charge statement is based on deducting from the aggregate the authorizations which carry no appropriations, Panama Canal cost which bond sales will pay for, the $20,000,000 for reclamation projects which an issue of indebtedness certificates will cover, and deficiency appropriations and miscellaneous acts for payment of claims and other special matters expendable the present fiscal year instead of the next.

Mr. Tawney credited the Executive Administration, by careful preparation of its estimates to Congress, with saving a great many million dollars, and declared there was a substantial reduction in current military expenses, while Mr. Livingston asserted that under the reclamation issue and naval appropriations "we have a policy that stands for interest-bearing bonds issued against the humble homes of the settlers and the lavish handing out of millions upon tens of millions of dollars raised by onerous taxation to satisfy the greed of shipbuilders and armor-plate contractors and to maintain a National policy of pomp and splendor."

Mr. Tawney figured that the total deficiencies appropriated for at the last session are less by $7,587,654 than those of the previous session, and $11,825,789 less than the average annual deficiencies since the Spanish war. Mr. Livingston, comparing the four years of Roosevelt's term with the last four years of Cleveland's Administration, said there was "nearly $4,000,000,000 for four years of Republicanism as compared with less than half that sum for the same period by a Democratic President."

POSTAL BANKS SOON.

Hitchcock Plans to Get System In Operation In a Few Months.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—The Administration is going to put the new Postal Savings Bank law into practical operation as soon as possible. This afternoon Postmaster General Hitchcock, the Chairman of the Board of Trustees, charged with the administration of the law, called the first meeting of the board, which will be held at the Post Office Department to-morrow afternoon. The other members of the board are Attorney General Wickersham and Secretary MacVeagh of the Treasury. Mr. Wickersham is now out of the city, but is expected back to-morrow morning.

It is the desire of the board to get the new system working in a few offices as soon as may be in order to get a practical test of its operation. The meeting of the board to-morrow will be devoted to a general discussion of the new law and to outlining plans for organization.

Postmaster General Hitchcock has already communicated directly with the heads of the various foreign postal departments under which savings bank systems are operated with a request that he be furnished with full information as to the workings of the banks in their countries, and especially with their administrative regulations and copies of the blanks and forms used in carrying on the business. It will take some time for all this information to come in, but meantime the Board of Trustees will go ahead and get as much done as possible. The Postmaster General now has a committee of department officials at work on the preparation of tentative forms and general instructions to subordinates.

He said this evening that he was desirous of pushing the organization of the postal banks as rapidly as posible, but he does not believe that it will be feasible to establish any depositories for some months.

The law clothes the trustees with power to designate the Post Offices that shall serve as savings depositories.

SEPARATES COUPLE A YEAR.

Court Hopes They Will Have Enough Sense to Live Together Then.

Justice Kelly of the Supreme Court yesterday handed down a decision in the separation suit brought by Mrs. Irene Domingo against her husband, Charles C. Dominge, who formerly lived on Decatur Street. Relatives and private theatricals were responsible for their matrimonial troubles. Part of Justice Kelly's decision read:

"I will decree a separation for the term of one year, the plaintiff to have the use of the house and the defendant to pay her $5 a week for the support of the child. The mother may have the custody of the child, but only upon condition that the father be allowed to see the child at all reasonable times as long as he conducts himself in a reasonable manner.

"It is wasted time to advise litigants in cases of this kind, but if these parties will only make an effort for their own sakes and the sake of their child, there is no reason why they cannot live together. But to accomplish this they must move away from their present home, and the wife must give up her relatives, and the husband his relatives and theatrical associates, and they must endeavor to acquire and use a little common sense."

WHITEHOUSECOUNCIL DOOMS PORK BARREL

Senate and House Committee Heads Agree with Taft on Rivers and Harbors Reform.

ENGINEERS TO MAKE PLANS

Scheme for Annual Appropriation Bills to Supply Money as Development of Projects Requires It.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Rivers and harbors legislation for the future was the subject of a long conference this morning at the White House between the President, Senator Nelson of the Senate Committee on Commerce, and Chairman Alexander of the House Committee on Rivers and Harbors. The upshot of the meeting was that the three men found themselves in complete accord for abolishing hereafter the pork-barrel system of river and harbor improvement and following the plan outlined in the President's special message of the last day of the session for having improvements carried on by annual appropriations, to be expended chiefly on recommendations of the army engineers.

The plan is to have everything mapped out several years in advance, all with a view to the harmonious development of a system of waterways and harbors. The engineers will recommend or refuse to recommend projects, make careful estimates of costs, and advise Congress as to when the projects should be begun. They will also have power to recommend other projects. While their recommendations at first will be subject to the vote of Congress, the sense of the meeting today seemed to be that eventually the engineers might receive the same responsible control over these improvements as they now have over the construction work on the Panama Canal.

"The President," said Mr. Alexander, speaking for himself and Senator Nelson, "wants an elimination of unimportant projects, even though heretofore approved by the engineering department, and the systematic completion of the more important projects. The act of 1910 prepared the way for an annual bill of moderate size, not to exceed $25,000,000 or $30,000,000, which is the only way of overcoming the present so-called piecemeal policy.

"With an annual bill once established, the Board of Engineers, by indicating the amount of money actualy needed for each project each year, can practically select the projects first to be improved, fix the time for their completion, and indicate those projects which should be abandoned."

BEAT DEFENSELESS NEGRO.

His Two White Assailants Escape In an Auto—One Eye Put Out.

William Bottoms, a middle-aged negro porter, of 211 West Sixtieth Street, was standing at Eighth Avenue and Forty-eighth Street, about noon yesterday, when an automobile in which were six men came to a stop a block away. Two of the men jumped out and, running up behind Bottoms, struck him over the head with empty bottles. Although there are two corner saloons at Eighth Avenue and Forty-eighth Street, and Bottoms yelled loudly for help, nobody went to his assistance. Nor were any policemen in sight.

Bottoms begged the men to be merciful, but they only laughed and replied that they were going to kill him. Under repeated blows Bottoms sank unconscious to the ground. Then his assailants signaled the automobile to come up, and a moment later they were off. An ambulance was called from Flower Hospital, and Dr. Reid, who answered the call, found Bottoms in a serious condition. His left eye was so badly cut that it had to be removed. When he regaind consciousness Bottoms told the police that he never had seen either of his assailants before.

At the West Forty-seventh Station, a block and a half distant from the scene of the assault, it was said last night that the police had no clue as to the guilty parties. A general alarm has been sent out for them.

ASK HIGHER DUTY ON BOOKS.

Binders Say Ornamental Leather Covers Should Pay 40 Per Cent.

Delegates from the New York and Brooklyn branches of the International Brotherhood of Bookbinders returned from a three weeks' convention in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, yesterday, accompanied by International Secretary J. W. Dougherty. They will report to the unions this week. Secretary Dougherty said that one of the most important things considered was the question of a tariff of 40 per cent. on imported books with ornamental leather bindings instead of 25 per cent. as at present.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

AEROPLANE RACES

AVIATION WEEK AT ATLANTIC CITY

It is not a far cry back to "Darius Green and his flyin' machine" when aerial navigation was considered impossible.

To-day Atlantic City is preparing for a great Aviation Meet from July 2 to 11, when three of the greatest flyers of the modern world will demonstrate their mastery of the air.

Glenn H. Curtiss, the holder of the world's record for speed, will fly daily from July 4 to 11.

Walter E. Brookins, who holds the record for high flying, will give exhibitions July 7 to 11 in a Wright aeroplane.

This is the first contest between the Wright and Curtiss machines.

It is also expected that Charles K. Hamilton, the great long distance aviator, will be present and race from July 7 to 11.

There will be prize events each day, including a fifty-mile flight over a five mile circular course, and prize high flying, July 7 to 11, directly over the beach front and ocean.

The Pennsylvania Railroad is the direct route to Atlantic City, and excursion tickets are on sale from all points.

DAKOTA DROUGHT UNBROKEN.

Latest Reports from There Give No Promise of Rain.

The telegraphic canvass of the Spring wheat counties of the Northwest printed in THE TIMES yesterday, with its note of encouragement, was accepted in Wall Street yesterday as a reassurance, after the preponderance of pessimism in the scattered advices on which the Street depended for its information last week.

The weather news of the day was without feature, but the trend of sentiment was decidedly less pessimistic, as a result of the conservative estimates of damage telegraphed from the field on Saturday and Sunday. Some of the banker correspondents of THE TIMES supplemented their reports of Saturday with further advices.

In North Dakota the continuance of the drought was noted, but from Minnesota, where rain has been satisfactory in the last few days, the tone is more encouraging. President Chamberlain of the Security National Bank summarized the situation in that State yesterday, saying:

"There are sections of the country where the crop outlook is as good as it has ever been, while on sandy and high locations it is pretty well burned out. It looks now as though the drought were broken and with timely rains I believe we shall have a fair crop."

Professional advices yesterday were generally in line with the consensus of opinion expressed in THE TIMES's canvass. B. W. Snow wired from Minneapolis that after a 1,500-mile trip through Minnesota and the Dakotas he found the situation far from calamitous, although admitting the seriousness of the drought in North Dakota, which has not been broken west of the James River Valley.

George M. Lecount of Finley, Barrel & Co. gave particular attention to the critical situation in North Dakota in his dispatches yesterday, saying that the heavy loss at present indicated could not be repaired. The whole of North Dakota is very dry, he reported, and, with the exception of widely scattered localities where rain has fallen, no more than half a crop can be expected even with immediate rain.

The late weather reports last night gave no promise of rain to-day in any of the three States.

TURKEY WANTS TROLLEYS.

America Asked to Submit Bids for Lines in Constantinople.

One tangible result of the Young Turk régime at Constantinople was yesterday the announcement from the Ottoman Consulate General in Pearl Street that the Government had decided to install a modern system of electric traction in the capital, and that bids from American contractors were wanted.

The new Turkish Government offers to the successful bidders franchises for five lines in and around the capital, and while specifications in detail are not yet available, one of the conditions is that all timber used in the construction shall come from native forests. Also the contractor must be prepared to carry dogs, but only such dogs as may pass the scrutiny of conductors.

Once admitted to the cars they are to be transported at a price of 4 paras for each kilometer. Children under three carried on the knees are to be transported free, but between 3 and 7 they will pay half fare.

The bidders may submit proposals for other lines which may be accepted by the authorities. Bids must be submitted within six months. Full specifications would be to-day obtainable at the Consulate. In addition to the Constantinople project similar plans have been made for electric traction in Salonica.

FIRE ENGINE OVERTURNED.

Driver Injured When Machine Hit a Rut Going to a Small Fire.

While on its way to a fire Engine 107, stationed at Pearl and Concord Streets, Brooklyn, struck yesterday a rut alongside the car tracks at Myrtle Avenue and Pearl Street and overturned in the street. John Henderson, the driver, was thrown from his seat to the pavement, receiving a fractured foot. He was removed to the Brooklyn Hospital.

The engine was righted with a block and tackle rigged to the elevated structure and taken to the repair shops. Traffic on the surface line was tied up for forty-five minutes while the wrecking crew was at work.

The fire, which was in a moving picture place at 158 Myrtle Avenue, was slight, causing a damage of $200.

agreed to make, and I did make them, every one. But in England I got what is called the 'campaign throat.' Singers call it the 'opera singers' throat.' Then the physician simply sprayed it; he did not even paint it. It wasn't even as serious as if he had been doing something with my little finger."

The Colonel said that the only similar occurrence in his life had been the campaign of 1900, when he was running for Vice President. He had the "campaign throat" then for a short time.

Getting back to the La Follette conference, the Colonel wished to make it clear that he had not "summoned" Senator La Follette. La Follette and Senator Burkett and Representative Madison, he said, had wired him asking if they might come to Sagamore Hill.

It was so late in the morning when he found the telegrams amid the day's grist of mail and wire messages, that, although he telegraphed for the three insurgents to come, only Senator La Follette received his reply in time to reach here to-day. The others he expects soon.

As he finished this explanation the Colonel took his axe again. "One more and I'll quit," he said.

All the way down the hill to the gate the whack, whack of the woodchopper's steady blows could be heard resounding through the woods.

PRAISE FOR THE INSURGENTS.

After Seeing Roosevelt, ex-Secretary Garfield Commends Their Work.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, June 27.—Significance is seen in the indorsement to-day by James R. Garfield, former Secretary of the Interior, of Congressional insurgency. Roosevelt, Garfield, and Gifford Pinchot recently conferred. Garfield's words echo those of Pinchot.

"The good in the Conservation bill was put in it by the friends of conservation inside and outside Congress," he said. "If they had not fought the original Ballinger, or Administration, bill, great injury to conservation would have resulted. The public domain would have been opened to the land-grabber.

"The Rate bill, too, was amended by them. As introduced it did not at all meet the needs of the country.

"The country owes a debt of gratitude to Cummings, Clapp, Dolliver, La Follette, Beveridge, and those who compelled amendment by inserting clauses of direct benefit to the people.

"Progressive legislation in the last Congress would have been impossible except for these men. The cause of government for all of us rather than government for a few special interests has advanced—but only because of the so-called insurgents, both in House and Senate.

"They cannot be read out of the party. They are Republicans, fighting against the rule of party and Nation by selfish special interests."

NOT LOEB'S WORK.

Collector Denies Arranging Meeting Between Roosevelt, Hughes, and Taft

William Loeb, Jr., Collector of the Port, said yesterday that the reported conference between President Taft, Col. Roosevelt, and Gov. Hughes at Beverly, Mass., next Wednesday was a surprise to him, and that instead of having arranged it he had no knowledge of it until he had read the morning papers.

"I have not seen Col. Roosevelt since last Wednesday," said Mr. Loeb, "and I do not know anything about the plan for him to meet Gov. Hughes or the President in Beverly. The report may have originated from the fact that ex-President Roosevelt, who is President of the Harvard alumni, and Gov. Hughes, who is to deliver the oration at the Harvard commencement, will meet on that occasion. I have not communicated with him regarding the meeting, and do not know that such a meeting will take place outside of that at Harvard."

Mr. Loeb admitted that he had been doing all he could to help the passage of Gov. Hughes's Direct Primary bill, or the Cobb measure, which he said had drawn practically all the support of those who were first in favor of the Hinman-Greene bill.

HOPES ROOSEVELT WILL LEAD.

Bourne Says Issue Is Popular Government Against Delegated Government.

CHICAGO, June 27.—The position that ex-President Roosevelt may take in American affairs was outlined by Senator Bourne of Oregon, who passed through Chicago on his way to speak at Peoria on the Oregon plan of electing United States Senators.

"I believe the great issue before the American people will be popular government against delegated government," he said, "and I hope Mr. Roosevelt will take the leadership and advocacy of the general adoption of popular government, by which I mean direct accountability of all public servants to party and general electorates rather than to irresponsible political machines.

"The people undoubtedly will weigh carefully any ideas he may have to submit. His position in history will depend as much upon the doctrines he may attempt to promulgate as on his accomplishments while President.

"The work of Congress is extremely satisfactory so far as it goes," said Mr. Bourne. "It has been more progressive in effort and partial accomplishment than any other Congress for several decades."

Roosevelt Lecture in November.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Theodore Roosevelt will lecture in Washington before the National Geographic Society some time in November. The date has not yet been fixed.

Manufacturers Wholesalers

Do you pay $1.75 for insurance? We can probably bring it down to ten cents for you. Do you pay $4.25 for insurance? We can probably bring it down to twenty cents for you. No doubt this sounds too good to be true, but we are doing it for no end of big, well-known merchants and manufacturers. Would you like to know who they are? Drop us a postal, and we will send you their names— we will send you letters from them, in which they tell of the thousands of dollars we save them yearly and HOW.

TO CHANGE COURTS TO FIT NEW LAW

Buildings Themselves Must Be Remodeled to Avoid Confusion Before the Magistrates.

MANY SEEK MAYOR'S PLUMS

Applicants Aplenty for the New Places on the Bench — Ex-Policemen After Attendants' Jobs.

The Board of City Magistrates will meet on Thursday afternoon in the West Side Court Building. This will probably be the last meeting of the Magistrates before the provisions of the bill of Assemblyman A. E. Smith reorganizing the inferior courts of criminal jurisdiction in New York goes into effect.

It is expected that Mayor Gaynor will soon appoint some one to fill the newly created office of Chief Magistrate for Manhattan and additional Magistrates to fill the number required by the new measure. When this is done, it is said, the work of redistricting the Magistrates' court districts will be begun. There are to be two divisions and two Chief Magistrates. It is probable that the coming meeting of the Magistrates will be taken up by a consideration of meeting the new conditions.

The new law radically changes the manner of administering justice. One of these changes is that the complaint clerks must be in a separate room from the courtroom, and all persons having a complaint to lodge must go before the clerks instead of going directly to the Magistrate. This method of conducting business is now being tried by many of the Magistrates. Magistrates Corrigan, Breen, Butts, and House have separated the clerks from the courtroom, and yesterday in the Yorkville Court Magistrate Krotel put the complaint clerks in an unused room of the Fourth Municipal Court.

"The new bill has many good features, and already some have been found to work well," said Magistrate Kernochan in the Night Court last night. "Some changes in the court buildings have got to be made to carry out the provision separating the complaint clerks. In most of the court houses the rooms available are wrongly placed, and there is bound to be some confusion at first. The rooms are located so that it will be necessary for complainants to come through the courtroom to get access to the clerks. Then, again, a suitable place will have to be found for the blanks and other necessary papers. In this court, for example, they are all behind the Magistrate's chair. In my opinion the present system is best for the Night Court."

There is much discussion among court Magistrates, clerks, attendants, and others as to how some of the provisions of the new law are to work out.

Some are wondering whether the Chief Magistrates are to rotate with the other Magistrates or whether they will hold court at all. It was figured by one Magistrate last night that during the first months the Chief Magistrates will have all they can do to make appointments and get the courts going smoothly under the new method of procedure.

The new law provides that each Chief Magistrate is to assign the Magistrates to the Court of Domestic Relations and to the Night Courts. There is speculation whether Magistrates will be permanently assigned to these courts or whether the Magistrates will rotate. If the appointments are permanent, it was pointed out by one, a Magistrate in disfavor can be assigned to remain in a Night Court just as a policeman is relegated to the suburbs for "the good of the service."

Perhaps the one feature which will bring sorrow to those who stand for the old order is that the law makes it obligatory that all persons detained in police stations or district prisons may notify promptly friends or relatives by letter or telephone. The sending of such messages has long been a source of revenue. Recently a man arrested by a United States officer and taken to a police station had to pay $2 before he could get a message to a friend. Another significant clause is that no Magistrate or Justice can be a member of any political organization.

A provision of the new law is the appointment of civilian probationary officers and attendants. Already it is said that hundreds have made application for these places, and that many of the applicants are retired policemen, now on pension.

Dozens of applications and recommendations for the new lower judicial places to be created under the bill passed by the recent Legislature and approved both by the Mayor and Gov. Hughes, were filed yesterday with the Mayor. Besides the many letters received by him, hundreds of persons called during the day with reference to appointments. Many of the men who presented themselves are high in the local judiciary. The Mayor said late in the day that he would have no announcement to make on the appointments until late in the week.

The bill creates two new Police Court Magistrates, one in Manhattan and one in Brooklyn; three new Justices of the Court of Special Sessions, and gives the Mayor the power of designating a Chief Justice of the Court of Special Sessions and two Chief Magistrates, one in Manhattan and one in Brooklyn.

FATHER BILL DALY IN TROUBLE

Racing Man, His Wife, and the Coffee-pot Figure in Court Records.

William F. Daly, known to the racing world as "Father Bill," dashed yesterday morning up to the Coney Island Court in a horse and buggy with his daughter, Aileen, aged 12 years, and his son, William, Jr., 10 years old, and asked Magistrate Voorhees for a summons against his wife, charging her with assault. He exhibited a burn on his left arm, which, he said, she had caused by pouring boiling coffee on him.

The summons was being made out when Mrs. Daly, dragging her seven-year-old daughter, Nana, rushed breathlessly into the courtroom. Her face and head were swathed in bandages. The odor of arnica followed her.

"I want a summons against him for assault," she shouted, pushing toward her husband.

When Magistrate Voorhees saw Mrs. Daly's wealth of bandages he held up "Father Bill's" summons, and then Mrs. Daly told her story from the depths of much cotton and linen swathing.

She said that William, Jr., ("Sonny Bill") and Aileen had started the day with an encounter at fisticuffs, and that her husband advised the boy to kick his sister. The boy obeyed, thereby reducing Aileen from a state of active belligerency to one of supine passivity upon the floor. Then, Mrs. Daly said, she ordered the boy to cease, under penalty of seeing her floor both him and his father.

Apparently "Father Bill" was not backward in taking up the gage of battle, for Mrs. Daly said he took up also the hot coffeepot, throwing its contents into her face, hitting her upon the head with it, twisting her nose, and choking her. She said, when she threatened to get a summons for him, he anticipated her by impressing the family horse and buggy and whipping his way posthaste to court, leaving her to find her way there by trolley car.

"Father Bill" pleaded "not guilty" to all his wife's charges. He insisted that she had struck him first with the hot coffeepot, and thereafter spilled the hot contents over herself. He said the cook would corroborate him.

But Magistrate Voorhees looked once at Mrs. Daly and said it would be unnecessary. He held "Father Bill" in $1,500 bail for examination.

REPUBLICAN LEADERS HERE.

But Rumors of Conferences Cannot Be Verified.

A large number of up-State Republican politicians were in the city yesterday, and their presence led to the circulation of all sorts of rumors about conferences on the special session of the Legislature.

As far as could be learned, however, little of importance happened. Among those in town were Congressmen Fassett and Malby, State Senator Wainwright, Assemblyman Phillips, William Barnes, Jr., and James W. Wadsworth, Speaker of the Assembly. Their presence naturally led to the supposition that "something was afoot," but when one or the other was seen he did not seem to know who else was in town besides himself.

Lloyd C. Griscom, Chairman of the County Committee, and Timothy L. Woodruff, Chairman of the State Committee, were both ignorant of any conference.

William Loeb, Jr., the Collector of the Port and Col. Roosevelt's former secretary, who is believed to be one of the biggest factors in the Gubernatorial choice this Fall, was seen during the day, and in reply to questions said that he had not talked to a "politician" in weeks.

Much interest is being expressed as to whether or not Col. Roosevelt will come out for Mr. Loeb's candidacy for the Gubernatorial nomination. That he has the "bee" no one denies, but it is generally conceded that he must have strong backing to get the nomination.

AMATEUR SLEUTHS SUCCEED.

Athletic Club Members Trail Stolen Trophies and Arrest Thieves.

Without notifying the police of the theft of five trophies from its rooms, at 18 Howard Street, the Old Timers' Athletic Club turned its members into detectives, and not only did they recover the stolen treasures, but they arrested two men, took them to the Tombs Court, and arraigned them before Magistrate Appleton, who held them in $1,000 bail each for examination on Wednesday.

From men employed in a stable across the street the members got a description of two young men who had been seen leaving the club.

Dividing themselves into squads, the members started out. One squad went to Harlem, where they got a clue which took them to Essex Market, where they found Daniel Spurdetti, 17 years old, of 70 Mott Street. Just what was said to him is not known, but he took them to his room, where the five trophies were found.

With Spurdetti safely in their hands, the amateur sleuths again went on the trail, and this time they got hold of William Alderman, 21 years old, of 170 East 110th Street.

A complaint was made against the two, charging them with burglary.

LAUTERBACH SUIT DROPPED.

Disagreement Between Mother and Daughters Settled Out of Court.

Supreme Court Justice Giegerich signed an order yesterday discontinuing the suit brought by Mrs. Edith Lauterbach McDavitt and her sisters against their mother, Mrs. Amanda F. Lauterbach. The memorandum accompanying the order states that the difficulties between the parties have been adjusted by common consent.

The order removes the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company as receiver of the property held by Mrs. Lauterbach and in which her daughters claimed a trust interest, and relieves Mrs. Lauterbach from the necessity of making any further accounting under the alleged trust. Mrs. Lauterbach has instituted a suit for separation against her husband, Edward Lauterbach, whom she accused of instigating the litigation which was dropped.

Extra Boats on Hudson Day Line.

The full Summer schedule of the Hudson River Day Line is now in operation. In addition to the regular service between New York and Albany there will be a second morning boat, daily, except Sunday, to Poughkeepsie and return, leaving New York one hour later than the regular service and returning in the early evening. This gives an opportunity to visit West Point, Newburg, and Poughkeepsie, returning in the cool of the early evening.

Healthy and Happy at 104.

Josiah Zeitlein is making preparations at his home, 136 Lexington Avenue, Brooklyn, to celebrate his 106th birthday on the Fourth of July. Mr. Zeitlein is healthy and happy and is able to discuss intelligently all matters that come up in his family circle, and indulges moderately in alcoholic drinks and smokes his pipe daily. He was born in Lodz, Russian Poland, in 1804. His youngest daughter married I. B. Krinsky, with whom he now lives. Zeitlein's oldest son is said to be seventy-eight years old and lives in the Bronx.

BANDITS STOP TRAIN; ROB ALL PASSENGERS

Every One in Oregon Short Line Cars at Ogden, Utah, Held Up at Pistol Point.

EXPRESS SAFE LOOTED

Bandits Injure Four, Tear a Woman's Earrings from Her Ears, and Escape—Two Arrests.

OGDEN, Utah, June 27.—Three masked bandits held up the second section of Oregon Short Line train No. 1, northbound, which left Ogden at 1:30 o'clock this morning, at Second Street, in the northern part of this city. All the passengers in the train were relieved of their valuables, and the express messenger was compelled to deliver the contents of the safe. The exact amount the robbers obtained has not been reported. Two passengers and two trainmen were injured.

The robbers stopped the train by placing railroad torpedoes on the track. When the engineer brought the train to a stop the head brakeman went forward to ascertain the cause of the delay, and was struck with a revolver by one of the robbers. He was then taken, at the point of a pistol, to the express car, and compelled to call to the messenger to open the door.

As soon as the door was opened one of the bandits crawled in and commanded the messenger to open the safe. After rifling the safe the robbers turned their attention to the coaches. As they started for the coaches N. B. Franklin, rear brakeman, was met as he was on his way forward. The bandits commanded him to halt, but he disregarded the order, and two shots were fired at him. He then stopped, and one of the bandits knocked him down. Franklin rolled into a ditch, where he feigned unconsciousness. After seeing that he was not watched, he got up and ran three blocks to the home of Deputy Sheriff John Hutchens, whom he aroused and informed of the robbery. The Deputy Sheriff hurried to the scene, arriving just as the train pulled out.

The train robbers went through each coach with a deliberation and calmness that showed they were not novices at the game. When H. L. Williams, a conductor, left the train he was stopped by one of the robbers and ordered back into a coach. While one of the desperadoes stood guard over Engineer Kirkwood, the other two, with drawn revolvers, went through the train, ordering each passenger to hand over his valuables. Mrs. J. H. Ball's diamond earrings were torn from her ears. A foreigner, whose name was not learned, was assaulted by the robbers. He did not understand what was going on, and was beaten with the butt of a revolver. After the train had been robbed the bandits fired their pistols to terrorize the passengers. Then they got into a buggy, in which they had driven to the spot, and hurried away. There were nearly 100 passengers on the train, every one of whom lost something.

Sheriff Wilson gathered a small posse and started in pursuit. A special train carrying a posse also reached the scene of the robbery early to-day, and the officers at once became active in rounding up suspects. Two are under arrest.

Weakfish Dropped from the Sky.

RED BANK, N. J., June 27.—While Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Adlem were chatting with friends on their porch this afternoon a large weakfish dropped out of the sky on the lawn. Soon they heard fish-hawks, and then they saw one large hawk chasing a smaller one, which had caught the fish in the Shrewsbury River and was carrying it away to its nest. How the hawks settled the "scrap" is not known, but it is known that the fine supper which the hawk lost was enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. Adlem.

FIGHTERS BEGIN LAST WEEK'S WORK

Jeffries and Johnson Putting on Finishing Touches for Their Big Battle.

JEFFRIES IS WHIMSICAL

Trainers Use Strategy to Learn His Plans—Cooler Weather Helps the Principals.

By JOHN L. SULLIVAN.

Special to The New York Times.

RENO, Nev., June 27.—With this morning's sun came a breeze so strong and cooling that every soul in Reno welcomed it with heartfelt thanks. The scorching rays of old Sol yesterday had about made every one disgusted with the place, and there were all manner of questions being asked about the high altitude tempering the sun's heat and the winds sweeping across the snowclad mountain tops producing the desired Summer effect and all that sort of thing. But there was nothing doing in the cooling department yesterday. I am told that some thermometers showed 96. I did not see any of these. The only one I saw registered 87. But the nights are good. Nobody complains about sleeplessness on account of the pressure of atmosphere or height of temperature, and for this and to-day's change of conditions we are truly thankful. The atmospheric favor extended to the training camps of the two fighters. Jeffries put in one of his biggest licks since his arrival here. He just about wore his bunch out with the strenuousness of his morning's work.

"I think my wind is better here than it was down in Rowardennan," he said after the grueling he went through. "I am strong, anyway."

Pleased with his own showing, the big fellow, who was in a particularly good humor, jollied his trainers and sparring partners all the way through the session. It was a little after 8 o'clock when Jeffries and his handlers appeared outside of the cottage. The big fellow looked, and seemed rather relieved when no crowd answered his gaze. As usual, the punching bag claimed first attention, and the inflated ball moved so fast under Jeff's wallops that it could not be followed by the human eye. After twenty minutes of bag punching, Jeffries turned to the pulleys and worked first backward and then forward. Then came the boxing. Sam Berger was the first victim to toe the scratch. Sam's skin showed white and clear when he started, but red blotches were discernible all over his body when he quit. Sam boxed a round, and then Joe Choynski was taken on. Joe's long hair floated in the breeze. His thin legs flashed about as he tried to keep clear of the champion's wallops. Two rounds were enough for Choynski.

Then Jim Corbett was called to the front. Jim seemed such a lite fellow compared to Jeffries that there was some fear felt for him, particularly as he has been considerably under the weather for the last few days. He has, indeed, been suffering from an ailment that is about as persistent and irritating as one could have. I gave him some of my old medicine Saturday night, and he got immediate relief, but he was feeling bad again this morning, and he told me that he had been walking around the grounds and up and down the road pretty nearly all night. Notwithstanding all this, he piled into Jeffries and tore about as though he were training for a fight himself. He only got one good return from his big, bearlike friend during the encounter. He allowed fewer blows to land on him than either of the others. Right up on his toes every minute, Corbett ducked in and out, sidestepping and dancing around so that it was impossible for Jeffries to get to him.

Altogether, Jeffries boxed eleven rounds, two with Berger, two with Corbett, three with Choynski, and four with Bob Armstrong, and then he had two rounds of wrestling with Farmer Burns. It was after this little job that Jim declared that his wind was better than it had been up to now. In the afternoon the big fellow sat around and fished in a small stream a quarter of a mile away from the house.

Johnson took his usual run this morning. He, too, was encouraged by the cooling breeze that offset the sun, and reeled off about ten miles before he got back to his camp. Jack was perspiring freely all the way, but finished strong, and sprinted past his trainers when he was within 200 yards of his quarters. After his rub down and breakfast he sat around a while and then came in to Reno for a conference with Rickard at the Hotel Golden, where I am living. The conference lasted about half an hour. It was held in Rickard's room, across the hall from mine, and there were all manner of rumors floating around downstairs as to what it was about. I have an idea from several authoritative sources that Jack must have wanted a little spending money and came to Rickard for it.

I started for Johnson's camp soon after he left the hotel, and spent pretty much all the afternoon there, driving back in a roundabout way by Jeffries's place. There was quite a large crowd around the boxing platform at Ricks when Johnson appeared for his afternoon workout. Al Kaufman, Dave Mills, and Monahan, the ex-amateur, boxed with him as usual, and the big champion showed if anything a little more activity than he did the day before. He took Kaufman on for four rounds, Monahan for four, and Mills for two. Mrs. Johnson was an interested spectator.

In the old days at this stage of the game we were about letting up on hard work, but with the two principals engaged here they could go along with the boxing they have been doing right up to the day before the fight without doing them any harm. Neither one of them tries very hard to do up his sparring partners, and in that respect the exercise is not taking much out of them. Of course I do not know what their plans for the rest of the week are, and they probably do not know themselves.

Jeffries is a rather whimsical creature and does not make up his mind about anything that he will do until just before the time he does it. They have a lot of fun with him in this respect out at Moana Springs. Choynski and Corbett put up little jobs on him in an effort to find out what the next day's work will consist of. Corbett will say in Jeff's presence, "I think, Jim, that we better box to-morrow morning," but Jeff will say, "No, I am going fishing in the morning," and it will be practically agreed on that this will be done. A short while after Choynski will come along and say, "I don't think we had better have any boxing to-morrow morning; I think it would be a good idea, Jim, for you to go fishing." Jeff is as likely as not to say, "No, I am not going fishing in the morning; I am going to do a little bit of boxing."

When notes are compared there is generally a laugh all around. Jeffries seems to be aware of the perversity of his nature in this respect and gets in quite a deal of fun in upsetting the plans of the others.

Jack McAuliffe arrived to-day, and he made an early start to Moana Springs. After he returned I asked him what he thought of the big fellow and he had the same story that all the rest have had right along. The thing that appeals to McAuliffe though more than anything else is how Jeffries was able to bring to bear all the will and determination that must have been required to get him in the shape he looks to be in. That, of course, would naturally appeal to McAuliffe because he never was much of a hand at sticking to hard work himself, and any one he sees in this line of endeavor is more of a freak to him than anything else.

McAuliffe also paid a visit to Johnson's camp in the afternoon and saw the big negro box. This is the first time that he has seen either of the two men for several years.

Reno at the present time presents a spectacle that probably has never been equaled before in the history of the world's sport. There are more old fighters, expert writers of sport, here at the present time, to say nothing of what it will be this time next week, than was ever known for an event of this character. I have seen every principal fight in America and Europe for the past thirty years, and the situation is a marvelous one to me, but in all this gathering the astonishing thing is the number of various opinions and viewpoints about the principals. The fighters, as a rule, favor Johnson for the coming contest. The sporting experts are about equally divided, and so are the newspaper men. The Johnson admirers base their opinion on the one contention, and that is the fact that Jeffries has been out of the game too long to come back. At the same time they have very little logical stuff to hang on their principle.

On the other hand the Jeffries admirers eliminate that inactivity period feature for their man and point to his wonderful condition. As far as I am concerned I have seen Johnson do as much real work in a day as Jeff has done, but it must be taken into consideration that Jeffries has been working longer and does not take to his labor as good-naturedly as Johnson does. This, however, is only a matter of temperament. I was a good bit like Jeffries. I hated the hard work. It was all work and no fun. I used to look upon my trainers as personal enemies and friends in disguise. Then I would have good days of great jubilation, and they were the days that I was in my right senses. I could see that everything that they were planning for me was for my own good.

This matter of temperament is going to cut a big figure in the coming fight. If it is one of the days when Jeff feels good and Johnson, who generally does feel that way, will be in the same condition, it will be one of the greatest fights that the world ever knew, and it will be a longer battle than if one or the other is temperamentally grumpy when he steps into the ring. I have never felt so undecided about a fight in my life, and I think that every new sign is making me keener to see this coming encounter than any in all the years I have been in and around pugilism.

JOHN L. SULLIVAN.

BOTH FIGHTERS TRAINING HARD

Cooler Weather Results in Best Day's Work Since Arrival in Reno.

Special to The New York Times.

RENO, Nev., June 27.—The best part of the day's doings here to-day was the improvement in the atmosphere, and this, of course, being communicated to the training camps livened things up a bit for all concerned, for the fighters even got the spirit and put in their best day's work since the camp became established. Jeffries only performed once, and that was during the morning, but it was a strenuous session. He went through thirteen rounds of activity altogether and jumped around like a colt after it was all over. In the afternoon he sat around and did a little fishing. Johnson put in a full day, starting in the morning with a road stunt and boxing in the afternoon.

Each little incident that happens has some bearing on the fight, consequently it is the signal for argument, pro and con. The sidewalk conventions are most interesting sights at this time, and the floating population of Reno, which has increased probably 2,000 during the last week, is an open-air gathering. None of the visitors here use his lodgings except for sleeping. Every one is either on the street or at one of the camps, and at night the two main streets and the saloons hold them all.

The principal topic of the morning conversation was the attack of a Methodist minister on the fight in his sermon last night. His text was "Reno's disgrace." Admitting that it was impossible to stop the fight, he deplored the condition of the law that permitted such an exhibition in the city.

The clergyman held Reno up to be a godless wallower in the mire before the temple of Mammon, and the brutalizing effect of the fight itself with the anticipated consequences from the influx of a horde of riff-raff humanity, the scourings of the country, was treated in lurid terms. Referring to Reno as a city in the possession of saloons, gambling houses, and divorce courts, he said that the eagerness with which the citizens welcomed the fight was the climax of wickedness. "Even California," he said "notorious as she is for her crude standard of morals, rejected the fight, but Reno fell all over itself in its effort to land it."

The newspapers of Reno, as well as those outside, came in for a heavy share of responsibility for encouraging public sentiment in favor of the fight, and even those who worked two weeks before to raise $116,000 for the Young Men's Christian Association were condemned for turning about to work for the Fourth of July affair.

As an example of the evils accompanying prizefights, he cited the fact that a lawyer had lost $4.08 in stamps from a desk in his office, and declared that there would be more outrages of the same sort. He warned people not to go far from their homes when the evil day came. Ladies from the East, he said, intended to see the fight from a section of the arena screened off from the men so that they might be enabled to witness the exhibition without being observed by the spectators. This, he said, is the crowning distinction between the people of the East and the West. The people of the East who come here know what they are about to do, and they are ordinarily ashamed of it, but the Westerners are not even ashamed.

Now that we have got down to the last week everybody is beginning to talk about his ringside seat or his bleacher seat. Matters concerning the fight itself are coming to a head, and with the arena construction going forward at a rapid rate, the actual doings of the day of the contest are being forecast. The city officials are getting right down to business, too. For several days past they have been laying their plans for handling the crowd and preserving order. They have held many a conference with Rickard, and he has suggested several things to them with idea of helping them in every way possible. He will swear in as a Deputy Sheriff himself and work until the bell rings, provided that the officials deem this necessary.

Among the notable arrivals to-day was Capt. Fox of the Nevada State police and six experienced desert scouts. Cox comes here to help the Sheriff and Chief of Police preserve order on the Fourth of July. He has been ordered here by Gov. Dickerson, and instructed to perform his duty to the last detail. Nothing will get by him if his plans are carried out. His present force will be materially augmented here next Monday.

"The first man to yell 'Kill the nigger!'" said Cox to-day, "will be thrown out of the arena, and I don't care if it is one of the head State officials or Jeffries's chief second. Apparently, however, Johnson need have no fear of race prejudice on the day of the fight. His color is not going to make any difference with the big crowd that is expected. If he beats Jeffries he will receive all the credit in the world for defeating the greatest fighter of modern times outside of himself. If Jeffries beats him, there will probably be a continuous banquet in Reno lasting into the following week. It must be said for Johnson that he has no fear of any hostile demonstration, for he has not made any demand for protection. On the contrary, he seems to believe that he will have plenty of the crowd shouting for him, because of the fact that for every Jeffries bet there will be a Johnson end to it. Johnson has never been unruly in any of his fights, and he has never done anything to incite a crowd to a demonstration.

Two hundred workmen that Contractor McLaughlin had on the arena job were augmented by a hundred more this morning. At first it was thought that labor was going to be difficult to get, because all through this Western country the building and carpentering supply is far behind the demand. One sees in the new towns coming through on the train any number of tents because of the inability to get enough workmen to construct the houses wanted. Reno men, though, have been known to leave steady jobs to lend their aid in constructing the arena.

James W. Coffroth, who arrived here to-day, received a cablegram from Jimmy Britt, who is living in England, to the effect that the betting on the other side is 10 to 8 in favor of Johnson, and that he is backed steadily.

Part of Johnson's business on his visit to town this morning after his exercising was in connection with the picture rights. A vaudeville man of New York has offered $150,000 for the Canadian rights in the pictures. As this is purely an outside feature of the fight and concerns neither of the principals, because of their having disposed of these rights, not much attention is paid to the matter, except to marvel at the amount of money involved in the big fight nowadays.

Tex Rickard, the nerve centre of Reno, had his first real day of rest yesterday since Gov. Gillett of California issued his ultimatum. Rickard is more than pleased with the way the arena is going up. The inclosure is planned to seat 17,000, and he fully expects every seat to be taken. For a time Rickard was worried because he thought the arena would not be finished in time. He says that the contractors are ahead of their schedule now, and that the worry of the building is entirely off of his mind.

It was pointed out to the local committee here this morning that there would be quite a number of the colored people for the fight, and that no preparation had been made to take care of them. Work was started in this direction immediately. A real estate firm secured four empty stores, and these will be fitted with cots. An old station building has been rented by an enterprising local negro, which will be immediately turned into an eating and lodging house for colored patrons at the big fight.

NEW YORKERS START FOR RENO

Stakeholder Tim Sullivan Heads Party Which Left Last Night.

Conservative estimates place the number of New Yorkers who will witness the fight at less than 200. Of these probably half will go direct to Reno, while the others will arrange to take in the fight as an incident to a business or pleasure trip. Out of more than 700 reservations which were made prior to Gov. Gillett's refusal to permit the fight to take place at San Francisco, not more than 110 have carried out their original plans to go West, the remainder having canceled their reservations.

The British party, which was to be headed by Lord Lonsdale, has also abandoned the trip. Arrangements were made with J. B. McCann, General Manager of McCann's Tours, to provide accommodations for 250. At the first sign of trouble the representative of Lord Lonsdale cabled instructions to cancel all arrangements, and but one man—George McDonald—made the trip. He was a member of "Big" Tim Sullivan's party, which left last night.

The special trains promoted by William Gibson, Frank Johnstone, Bob Murphy, J. B. Starkey, and others, as well as the Wall Street Special, were all abandoned, owing to the many cancellations, and the only train direct to the scene of the championship heavyweight battle was the McCann Special, which left at 6 o'clock last night. This party will reach Reno Saturday morning. Among those who formed the party were:

Tim Sullivan, who is stakeholder for the fight; Nat Goodwin, George Considine, Tom Sharkey, Phil Hyams, A. Clemens, W. Brady, George Campbell, W. J. Doyle, Frank Kneightley, Councilor L. Applebaum, George Goldsmith, George McDonald, Dr. D. Martigery, Harris Merton Lyons, Dan Whiteley, John A. Parker, William Murray, Walter McGinley, Thomas Clark, Jack Skelly, Gus Foehl, Timothy Gowan, John Holan, Joe Tuths, John A. Williams, Bert S. Smith, S. J. Johnson, T. P. Valle, John W. Cusick, William A. Robinson, John Herst, Frank Nemyar, William Benedict, John A. Little, William Percival, Jack Elliott, George Thompson, William O'Reilly, Charles Walter, B. F. Grady, George Schmidt, Thomas Langman, William Buzzler, Thomas Calhoun, A. Marks, D. A. Dressler, J. Hearne, J. T. Hilleary, William Larner, Edward Murphy, Thomas S. Larking, and Bob E. Weiller.

PASTORS ATTACK NEWSPAPERS.

Pass Strong Resolutions Condemning Publicity Given to the Fight.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 27.—Resolutions condemning publicity in connection with the Jeffries-Johnson prizefight were passed at the Methodist ministers' meeting here to-day. They read, in part:

"We, the Methodist preachers' meeting of Greater Cincinnati, a body of more than 100 ministers, including representatives from ten different annual conferences, look with grave alarm on the disastrous moral effect of the proposed wide publicity to be given through the daily press to the coming encounter between Jeffries and Johnson.

"The iniquitous stream of influence to be poured forth by the wholesale delineation of the revolting details of this fight to the finish, between two pitiable bullies, can scarcely be computed.

"We heartily indorse the 'Walter Smith Anti-Prizefight bill,' which proposes to prohibit the transportation of any picture or description of any prizefight or encounter of pugilists, under whatever name, or any record or account of betting on the same."

TROOPS TAKE BANDIT DYING IN HIS FORT

Holds Off Militia Till He Is Wounded and His Ammunition Exhausted.

THEN HIS HOUSE IS RUSHED

Children Were Sent Out When Soldiers Fired Volleys Into Building—His Third Victim Dies.

IRWINVILLE, Ga., June 27.—Fighting to the last from his barricaded home, W. H. Bostwick, who killed two men yesterday and wounded three others, one mortally, was captured to-day by two companies of State Militia as he lay dying from a bullet and after he had exhausted his own ammunition.

Capt. Charles A. De Lang, commanding the Fitzgerald Guards, upon arriving at Bostwick's home this morning, first called upon him to surrender, offering him protection from the mob which had gathered. Bostwick refused. De Lang then demanded that Bostwick's five children, who were with him, be sent from the house. Again Bostwick refused.

Capt. De Lang ordered his men to fire a volley into the roof of the house, following which another demand for surrender and release of the children was made upon Bostwick, who replied with a shot from one of the three weapons with which he was armed.

Then came another volley from the soldiers. Bostwick asked that the lives of the children be not endangered, and sent them out. They were taken in charge by the soldiers. They would answer no questions. The oldest daughter, Jennie, who had spent the long night attempting to shield the other children, cried because one of the younger boys had been compelled to leave the house without his trousers, and the oldest boy was ill.

The children were taken to a place of safety, and Capt. De Lang again demanded that Bostwick surrender. The only reply was a shot from the besieged man. Then the soldiers fired a volley into the lower portion of the house. A moment later officers observed that a shingle had been removed from the roof, probably by Bostwick in order to fire to better advantage. A hail of bullets was thrown into the roof, followed by a thud which indicated that Bostwick had fallen or jumped to the floor. Observers then called attention to the fact that an object was seen moving through a hole in the floor, and a volley was fired in that direction.

A rush of troops was then ordered, the belief being that Bostwick had been injured, but this was stopped by a shot from the building, which struck James Gill. De Lang's men fired into the building repeatedly, and then several men attempted to enter the building, but were greeted by a final shot from Bostwick. The Albany company of militia then appeared on the scene, and a rush was made upon the building from all directions.

The doors were broken open and Bostwick was found wounded upon the floor. He died within a short time. A Coroner's jury was impaneled, and its verdict was that Bostwick killed himself in order to prevent his capture. Whether he died from self-inflicted wounds, from wounds received during the earlier fight with citizens, or from the fire of the guardsmen may never be known.

The children are being cared for by women of the neighborhood. Mrs. Bostwick and one other child, who were driven from home on Friday, did not go back there to-night.

The battle of last night was one of the bloodiest and most picturesque in the history of the States. The affair began Sunday afternoon when Sheriff McInnis and a posse went to arrest Bostwick. He shot dead both Chief of Police Davis and Deputy Sheriff Sheffield of Occilla, and Sheriff McInnis and two Deputy Sheriffs fell badly wounded.

A new posse was formed and another attack made, the troops being ordered out meanwhile. It was known that Mrs Bostwick had fled with one child, but the father kept the remaining five in the house with him. One of the children he sent out to get the revolver the dead police chief had dropped, knowing that the posse would not fire on the boy.

The posse of local citizens kept up the fire all night.

Sheriff J. P. McInnis, one of the men he shot, died to-day about the same time as Bostwick. The two living victims of his bullets are expected to recover.

Many acts of heroism were recorded during the siege. Sheriff McInnis, seeing his deputy, T. C. Bass, fall, rushed from cover and was dragging Bass to a place of safety when he received a mortal wound. He staggered to a telephone and attempted to communicate with Adjt. Gen. Scott at Atlanta. Unable to talk aloud, however, he dictated in whispers the message, which caused the Adjutant General to order out the troops.

It is said that several months ago Bostwick shot his brother-in-law, C. G. Fields, and was arrested charged with assault with intent to murder. He was put under a peace bond, but his bondsman recently told the Sheriff that he wanted to be relieved from responsibility. On Friday a deputy went to Bostwick's house to arrest him, but Bostwick told him he would never submit to arrest, but would die rather than be taken.

SCRUBWOMEN'S PLEAS WIN.

Borough President McAneny Decides to Retain Them for the Present.

Borough President McAneny has rescinded for the present the order issued by him last week under which he discharged forty-four women cleaners employed in the public buildings and offices of Manhattan. In doing so he says that such representations have been made to him about the circumstances of the women concerned that he feels that the taxpayers will not object to his carrying them on the payroll over the Summer, or until they can be disposed of gradually.

"To lay off employes whose personal circumstances are such as these is always a hard thing to do, but I have practically no alterantive course," said Mr. McAneny. "The excessive cost of the janitors' work throughout the borough was one of the counts in the complaint against Borough President Ahearn, resulting in his removal. I do not, of course, intend to continue such a condition; but, possibly, a necessary correction may be worked out more gradually. Little harm can result, in any event, in carrying these women through the Summer.

"The reorganization of the bureau's general methods will continue meanwhile. Circumstances prevented a satisfactory start in this matter until two or three weeks ago. The buildings that have been in poor condition will be thoroughly cleaned and kept clean."

The reforms along this line, he says, will save the city $60,000 a year. He insists that the cost of cleaning city buildings in the past has been much higher than that of private office buildings.

HORSE POISONER TO PRISON.

Leader of the "Arsenic Club" Gets Fifteen-Year Sentence.

Judge Dike of the County Court, Brooklyn, sentenced yesterday Louis Levine of 184 Moore Street to Sing Sing for fifteen years for attempting to extort $25 from a teamster on the threat of poisoning his horses.

Levine, the police say, was the leader of the "Arsenic Club," a gang of horse poisoners which terrorized horse owners in all sections of Brooklyn. If horse owners refused blackmail their horses were poisoned.

Half a dozen members of the gang have been convicted and are now in prison. Levine's wife was in court, and when she heard the sentence imposed on her husband she fainted.

SCARED AWAY THE ROBBERS.

Newark Pennsylvania Station Agent Ready to Fire When They Fled.

An attempt was made early yesterday to rob the ticket office of the Market Street Station of the Pennsylvania Railroad in Newark. Robert Boettner, the night agent, closed the office about 2:30 o'clock and took a nap before opening the office for the early morning train from Philadelphia. He was awakened as the thieves effected an entrance through a window opening on the station platform, which is a few feet above the screened roof of the ticket office. They had removed the screen and lowered themselves by a rope, when Boettner reached for his revolver. As he was about to fire a shot one of the intruders saw him and an iron bolt at him. Then they beat a hasty retreat.

Boettner summoned another station employe, who turned on the lights. An investigation made by Capt. John Coakley of the railroad detectives revealed the fact that the thieves had rifled a contribution box for the benefit of the Newark Babies' Hospital which was fastened to a wall in another part of the building.

About the same time the attempt was made to rob the Pennsylvania station thieves got into the Union News Company stand in the Roseville station of the Lackawanna Railroad and stole $10 in cash and some candy and cigars.

ALMOST KILLED LITTLE GIRL.

Child Frightfully Beaten by Youth While Her Mother Was Out.

"It is very strange," said Magistrate Steinert to Sidney Keegan, who was arraigned yesterday in Harlem Court, charged with felonious assault on eleven-year-old Margaret Ryan, "that a cur like you can come here without a scratch after beating a little girl nearly to death.

"If it wasn't for Mayor Gaynor I'd have knocked his head off," said one of the officers who had seen the blood-spattered walls of the Ryan apartment at 152 East 106th Street. Keegan was held in default of $3,000 bail.

Supt. Walsh of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children said it was one of the most horrible cases he has ever known. Dr. William H. Stratford, who examined the child, said that her head, face, mouth, throat, teeth, neck, arms, shoulders, and back were all injured, and she is in a critical condition.

Little Margaret said that she was at home when Keegan, who is the son of the janitress, came in an asked where her mother was. She told him her mother was out, whereupon, she says, Keegan attacked her savagely, thrusting his hand down her throat trying to tear her tongue out.

Her screams were heard by a neighbor, who called two men to come up stairs to the room. Mrs. Helen O'Hara, in the house next door, heard the screams and called out, "What's the matter, Margaret?" "A man is killing me," was the child's reply.

Mrs. O'Hara went out on the fire escape and the man fled.

The police, who arrested Keegan at 105th Street and Third Avenue, said his hands were covered with blood.

COLEMAN PERJURY CHARGES.

Second Witness Arrested Over Doubted Testimony About John R. Marshall

BOSTON, June 27.—The second arrest on a charge of perjury in connection with the recent trial of William J. Kelliher, for aiding George W. Coleman to loot the National City Bank of Cambridge, was made at the Federal Building to-day, when John A. Cunniffe of Dorchester walked into the United States Marshal's office. Cunniffe was secretly indicted last week by the Grand Jury. When he heard of the indictment he decided to surrender and appear before Judge Colt in the United States Circuit Court for arraignment.

Cunniffe testified at the trial that he accompanied one John R. Marshall from a hotel to the Western Union Telegraph Company's main office, where an order for $200 was sent to Coleman in Kansas City. The Government disputes the truth of Cunniffe's statement, maintaining that Marshall was a fictitious name.

ALBANY GRAIN MEN HELD.

Durant and Others to be Tried on Charges of Grand Larceny.

ALBANY, June 27.—Edward A. Durant, President, and Gibson Oliver, Treasurer, of the firm of Durant & Elmore, grain merchants; Henry C. Palmer, formerly freight agent of the Delaware & Hudson Company, and William R. Conley, grain Inspector for the Albany Board of Trade, were arraigned before County Judge Addington to-day on indictments charging them with grand larceny, as the result of alleged irregularities growing out of the failure of Durant & Elmore. All were admitted to bail.

By using bills of lading as security over and over again, it is alleged, the firm, which had offices in Albany, Chicago, Buffalo, and Boston, was able to borrow hundreds of thousands of dollars from banks in Albany and other cities.

Durant is well known in local business circles, and four years ago was the fusion candidate for Mayor against the late Charles H. Gaus.

RAISES CLERKS' WAGES.

New Haven Orders 8 to 15 Per Cent. Increase, Affecting 2,300 Men.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 27.—An advance of from 8 to 15 per cent. has been ordered in the wages of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad clerks, the new schedule being effective from June 11.

The agreement was reached at a conference to-day between the Adjustment Board of the clerks' organization and General Manager Higgins of the road. About 2,300 clerks will be benefited.

BUILDING STRIKES AVERTED.

Dismissal of Unrecognized Electrical Workers Saves a Struggle.

Strikes which were threatened on buildings by the New York Building Trades Council because of the employment of electrical workers belonging to a union not recognized by the council were averted yesterday by the discharge of the electrical workers and the employment of members of the Inside Electrical Workers' Union, which is affiliated with the council.

Among the buildings were the Manhattan Hotel and buildings at Seventeenth Street and Seventh Avenue, Lexington Avenue and Sixty-third Street, and Cedar and Nassau Streets.

American Church Army Incorporated.

Supreme Court Justice Giegerich approved the incorporation yesterday of the American Church Army, which will take over the work of the American Salvation Army. The Salvation Army recently obtained a permanent injunction restraining the officers and members of the American Salvation Army from using that name. The American Salvation Army has no connection with the Salvation Army of which Gen. Booth is the head, and the injunction was to prevent the confusion of the organizations in the public mind.

The blue serge Suit defies nature's law that clothes in light colors are coolest.

Popular belief ascribes heat absorption to the darker colors. Blue serge is the exception that proves the rule.

Grateful to the eye, a well-tailored Suit of blue serge is as dressy as it is comfortable. And as a restful change from the suit of "fancy" material it has no satisfactory substitute.

But because blue serge Suits are so staple in character, do not allow yourself to think that all of them are of the humdrum type. Our tailormen create garments, even the lowest priced of which will quickly convert you from that belief.

"Snappy" may be inelegant—but it is an apt description of the models we present in a wide assortment of blue serge Suits of various weaves, unlined, quarter lined or eighth lined.

BUCKET SHOP CASE UP AGAIN.

Adler Had a Wire Leading to Standard Stock and Grain Company.

The hearing in proceedings instituted for the removal of Louis A. and Angelo Cella and Samuel W. Adler from this district to the National capital, where they are under indictments for operating an alleged bucket shop on New York Avenue, was continued yesterday afternoon before United States Commissioner Shields.

Adler, who is the head of the firm of S. W. Adler & Co., which had offices at 32 Broadway, admitted that there were private wires connecting his office with that of the Standard Stock and Grain Company in Jersey City. He said also that his company had wire connections with Boston, Pittsburg, and other cities. On cross-examination Adler said that on one occasion the clerks of the Standard Stock and Grain Company used his offices on lower Broadway, but he could not recall that the sudden change was due to a raid made by the New Jersey police.

Angelo Cella said that he was the stock and bond clerk for the S. W. Adler Company, at a salary of $60 per week. He denied that he had any connection whatever with the bucket shop in Washington, and declared that he had no business relations with his brother, Louis. He admitted visiting the offices of the Standard Stock and Grain Company in Jersey City.

Louis Cella denied that he communicated daily with his brother, Angelo, by means of a secret telegraph code, or that he received daily reports concerning the business transacted by the Standard Stock and Grain Company.

The hearing will be continued to-day.

PARENTS DESERT THEIR BABY.

"Call Her Florence Hall," Says a Note They Left In Their Rented Room.

A four-weeks-old girl baby, abandoned by its parents in a room on the second floor of 163 East Sixty-third Street, was found yesterday afternoon by Pauline Izenburg, the caretaker, who had let the room on Friday for $4 to a man who did not tell his name, but said he would bring his wife later. For several days thereafter a woman's voice was heard in the room, but no one saw her.

The baby was well dressed in white lawn, a white coat trimmed with cord, and a white lawn hat. In the room were found two notes and a $5 bill. The first note read:

Please call it Florence Hall. Find $5. Please take good care of baby, or put it in home or asylum. We have tried to do otherwise and failed, and find it necessary to do this for certain reasons, although it breaks our hearts. We can see no other way, and may God protect her. Don't ill-treat her; it isn't her fault.

On the other note was written:

Mr. Bower, Sixteenth Street and Third Avenue, Charities Department.

The baby was taken to Bellevue Hospital, and detectives were assigned to seek its parents.

CONTROLLER ANSWERS AITKEN

Gives Specifications Showing His Discharge Was Not Due to Politics.

Controller Prendergast issued a statement yesterday in contradiction of the allegations made by Peter Aitken, whom he removed as Collector of City Revenue last week, in which Aitken declared that politics caused his discharge. The Controller says:

"The causes for Peter Aitken's dismissal are fully set forth by me in the communication addressed to the Municipal Service Commission on June 24. They are incompetency and mismanagement. One of these charges relates to the defalcations he mentioned, which commenced very late in December, 1908, and were continued every month up to the time of their discovery in the first week of May, the money being abstracted in small amounts. The principal part of the $2,100 misappropriated was taken during the last year of Mr. Metz's administration, during all of which time Mr. Aitken was in charge of the bureau. Further, he did not discover the defalcations. They were discovered by the Deputy Collecter of City Revenue, Mr. Fred Goetz, an appointee of mine."

BOSSES STILL SET ON BALKING HUGHES

Rumblings from Washington and Oyster Bay Have Had No Effect So Far.

DIRECT PRIMARIES DOOMED

Strengthening of Graft Inquiry Resoluton and Tax Measures Also Expected to Go by the Board.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 27.—Despite all intimations from Washington and Oyster Bay to the effect that the recognized leaders of the Republican Party in Nation and State are keenly desirous, for party reasons, of having the Legislature heed the demands of Gov. Hughes for the passage of a Direct Nominations bill and a broadening of the graft investigation resolution, the second week of the extra session, which the legislative leaders hope will be the last, opens with the distinct prospect that these two Hughes propositions will be defeated.

Speaker James W. Wadsworth, Jr., of the Assembly, whose firm grip on the House machine was strong enough to bring defeat to the Governor's cause at the regular session, was the only one of the legislative leaders to put in an appearance at the Capitol to-day. He said with a great deal of emphasis that he could see no reason for making the graft resolution any stronger, as Gov. Hughes has recommended, and he declared that there was no change in the situation so far as the Cobb Direct Nominations bill was concerned. It was beaten by an overwhelming vote in the Assembly at the regular session, after the Senate had made it a party measure and passed it.

As for the revenue measures now pending before the Legislature, the statement of Speaker Wadsworth strengthened, if anything, the impression that has been abroad at the Capitol that these measures were not framed with any serious intent of having them passed, but merely for the purpose of having a discussion in these days of direct primary strife that would impair the prestige of Gov. Hughes with the farmers and property owners upState, who are bitterly opposed to any form of direct taxation and who have been the Governor's warmest supporters.

"As for the State income tax," said Speaker Wadsworth, "it is too big a proposition, in my opinion, to be considered at an extraordinary session. I understand also that there will be serious opposition to the other direct tax bill that has been introduced. If any serious attempt is made to pass these measures it will prolong the extraordinary session by at least three weeks."

The legislative leaders have already made up their minds to get through this week if possible. There will be perfunctory sessions every day, and a full attendance has been called for Thursday evening. It is not likely that the Legislature will adjourn sine die then, but every effort will be made to have the final adjournment on Friday.

When the question of direct nominations was broached, Speaker Wadsworth said he had read in the newspapers that President Taft was in favor of passing some bill with that end in view, and intimations that Col. Roosevelt, as leader of the Republican forces in the State, would take sides with Gov. Hughes in the matter.

"I cannot accept these reports as anything but rumors," said the Speaker. "I have not heard officially from either the President or Col. Roosevelt on the subject. Should President Taft give out an authorized statement and accept the full responsibility for it, it might change some votes. At present I can see no change in the situation."

Referring to the contention of Gov. Hughes that the graft investigation resolution should be shorn of some of its restrictive provisions, Speaker Wadsworth said he could see no reason for making any change in it.

"In my opinion it cannot with propriety be made any more far-reaching than it is, no matter how we change the language," said the Speaker. "I think it will remain just as it is."

Speaker Wadsworth said he had read in the newspapers of a prospective conference between President Taft, Col. Roosevelt, and Gov. Hughes, but that was all he knew about it.

"If the Governor should decide to accept a nomination for a third term," said Mr. Wadsworth, "I will be for him, as I stated some weeks ago, before he accepted the appointment to the United States Supreme Court."

Speaker Wadsworth said he had not been invited to any conference of the Republican leaders in New York to-day nor had he any information that one was to be held. Majority Leader Edwin A. Merritt, Jr., of the Assembly, who was mentioned in some newspaper articles this morning as one of the prospective conferrees, is at his home in St. Lawrence County, where he will have a county convention to keep him busy to-morrow.

There has never been such secrecy at the executive chamber since Gov. Hughes took office as there is now with reference to the report that Col. Roosevelt has asked him or is going to ask him to take a third term. The Governor, for the first time in months, was taking a rest to-day after his hard work in connection with the thirty-day bills. In his absence it was said that "there was nothing to say" in connection with recent reports regarding his prospective meeting with Col. Roosevelt and the third-term rumors.

While no date has yet been fixed for Gov. Hughes's visit to Sagamore Hill, his engagements will not permit its being made before the latter part of this week at the earliest. The Governor will leave Albany at midnight Tuesday for Cambridge so as to be present at the Harvard Commencement on Wednesday. He will deliver the Phi Beta Kappa address on Thursday. Whether he will visit Col. Roosevelt before returning to Albany has not been determined.

While the leaders at the Capitol are inclined to look upon the report from Oyster Bay as a monumental bluff on the part of Col. Roosevelt and do not believe the Governor could be prevailed upon to change his mind about the Supreme Court appointment, they would give a lot to get some exact information on the subject.

NO CONFERENCE ARRANGED.

White House Knows of No Meeting of Taft, Roosevelt, and Hughes.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—It was stated at the White House to-day that nothing was known there of a prospective meeting of Gov. Hughes, Col. Roosevelt, and President Taft at Beverly this week or at any other time in the near future. It is said positively that no such arrangement has been suggested at the Washington end.

Representative Parsons of New York, who was at the White House to-day, said upon leaving that he did not think any one would be able to convince Gov. Hughes that he ought to give up his place on the Supreme Court bench and again run for Governor.

Mr. Parsons said that, at the request of Gov. Hughes, he was looking for a permanent home for the Governor in Washington, to be occupied by him this Fall when he comes to enter upon his duties on the Supreme Court bench.

STOCK STAMP BILL UP AGAIN.

Measure in Assembly to Stop Practice by Which State Loses Millions.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 27.—At the session of the Assembly this evening State Controller Clark Williams caused to be introduced a bill aimed at the traffic in New York City in stock transfer stamps below par, through which it is said the State has lost annually more than $1,000,000, while many messenger boys in the Wall Street district have been made dishonest through the opportunity held out by a class of "brokers" by which this traffic is conducted.

The bill makes it a misdemeanor to sell below par, except in extraordinary cases and with the permission of the State Controller, tax stamps used in the transfer of stocks.

Controller Williams said this afternoon that the so-called "brokers" who are in the below-par stamp business get messenger boys to remove and sell to them uncanceled stamps from securities in transit between offices, substituting for these canceled stamps that have been washed or doctored. Through the detectives working for the Controller's office confessions have been obtained from many boys, and a majority of the illicit stamp dealers have been driven out of business, but some still remain. The bill to stop this traffic was beaten at the regular session.

The bill was introduced by Assemblyman Hinman of this city, who also put in, on behalf of the Controller, the bill providing for the increase in the franchise tax on corporations which was defeated at the regular session.

Assemblyman Murray of New York will offer to-morrow a concurrent resolution providing for a legislative investigation to determine whether and how retrenchment in State expenditures will be feasible, whether taxes levied are properly collected, and to devise some means of providing necessary additional revenues in the manner least burdensome to the taxpayers.

There were about a score of members out of 150 present at the Assembly session to-night. Four Senators attended the session of that house in the forenoon. No business was transacted beyond the introduction of the financial bills.

MADRIZ LOSES ACOYAPA.

$200,000 Forced Loan—Orders That Foreign Interests Be Protected.

SAN JUAN DEL SUR, Nicaragua, June 27.—According to reports reaching here the town of Acoyapa has been captured by the revolutionists.

The announcement is also made that the Port of San Ubaldo, on Lake Nicaragua, has fallen into the hands of Gen. Mena's men. The Government has sent a strong force to reoccupy the towns.

Special telegraphic instructions have been forwarded to the Governors of the various departments to give particular attention to the protection of foreign interests, in order to avoid the slightest pretext for complaint.

A forced loan of about $200,000 has been levied.

Dispatches from Bluefields printed yesterday announced the capture by the provisional forces of San Ubaldo, La Libertad, and Juigalpa, all important towns in the Department of Chontales. The town of Acoyapa, in the same department, was at that time held by Gen. Vasquez with 400 men. The dispatches stated that Gen. Mena, commanding the provisionals, had surrounded Vasquez and was awaiting his surrender.

CHINA NOT TO HAVE A PARLIAMENT YET

Government Decides to Refuse Demand of Delegates of Provisional Assemblies.

EIGHT PLEDGED TO SUICIDE

And Other Delegates Have Declared That They Will Remain in Peking Until What They Ask Is Granted.

PEKING, June 27.—An imperial decree issued yesterday refuses the popular and insistent demand recently made for the immediate convocation of a national parliament.

The urgent petition, which was presented by delegates to the Provincial Assemblies and was supported by organizations of merchants throughout the country, was considered at the first meeting of the Council of the Empire held in the Regency of Prince Chun. Following the deliberations, the Government's decision is now made known.

It appears that the Regent proposes to adhere to his original programme, which provides for a general legislative body to be summoned nine years after the first meeting of the Provincial Assemblies, which were constituted by a decree of the throne made last May 9. Concurrent with the summons to the National Assemblies to meet on Oct. 3, announcement was made of the names of ninety-six members, representing all classes, and the people were instructed to prepare for a constitution and parliament.

The delegates, however, wished the immediate establishment of a general popular legislative body, and in this ambition they were encouraged by many merchants, who have refused to pay the stamp tax, hoping in this way to influence Prince Chun.

The agitation crystallized early in June, when the delegates met in the capital and, memorializing the throne, declared their intention of remaining in Peking until their demands were granted. Eight of the number were pledged to suicide in the event of a refusal being met with.

The delegates included several from the Chinese colonies in the Philippines, Australia, and elsewhere, and as they were believed to represent the revolutionary element among Chinese living in foreign lands, they were closely watched by the palace spies. The leaders of the movement, however, made it known that they did not propose to employ drastic measures, lest an anti-dynastic revolution result in the introduction into China of the armies of foreign powers.

STERNBURG IN A BIG PLOT?

Arrest Said to be Connected with That of Academy Librarian.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 27.—The arrest of Baron Sternburg, who is charged with delivering secret documents to a foreign State, is said to have a connection with the recent arrest of M. Maslovsky, librarian of the Academy. The General Staff of the army and the diplomatic representatives are showing the keenest interest in the case, owing to the imputation against the Austrian Embassy.

Sternburg, who is correspondent of a semi-official Austro-Hungarian news agency as well as of one English and several Continental newspapers, has retained a St. Petersburg lawyer to defend him.

CHILE COAST STORM-SWEPT.

Several Vessels Wrecked, Including German Steamer Irmingard.

VALPARAISO, Chile, June 27.—Storms in the South and along the coast have done much damage.

Several vessels have been wrecked. The German steamer Irmingard is ashore off Corral and is believed to be a total loss. The crew were saved.

The Irmingard sailed recently from Valparaiso. She was of 2,700 tons register.

Fourth of July

Funds Needed for a Sane Celebration

Mayor Gaynor has appointed an Independence Day Committee to arrange for a safe and sane Fourth of July of the old-fashioned sort, and New Yorkers are urged to help toward its success.

Considerable funds are necessary in order to realize the object of the Mayor's appointment. The Committee is designing a Military and Civic Parade, arranging for district celebrations in the Parks and Playgrounds, and for exercises in connection with the hundredth anniversary of the opening of the City Hall.

Thus New Yorkers who take a pride in their great city are asked to give expression to their aspirations by contributing to the expenditure for appropriate decorations, bands, and entertainments, and the Committee anticipates a prompt and generous response to this appeal.

It is estimated that about $50,000 will be needed. Of this the city has given $15,000 for fireworks. The rest must be raised by popular subscription.

The programme of the day will include a reception in the Aldermanic Chamber to celebrate City Hall's Centennial.

Children's celebrations in 240 recreation centres.

Reading of Declaration of Independence from City Hall steps by Col. W. D. H. Washington, followed by patriotic ceremonies.

Military and civic parade.

First Interborough Flag Relay Race under the auspices of the Public Schools Athletic League, teams of twenty boys to contest on the Speedway for Borough championships; silver medals.

Review of parade from City Hall steps by Mayor Gaynor.

Athletic rallies in eighteen parks, with gold, silver, and bronze medals as prizes.

First Flag Relay Race for championship of Greater New York, forty blocks down Fifth Avenue from the Hundredth Street, contestants being the winning teams of twenty boys in borough contests. Prizes, a handsome silk flag, given by Mrs. Clarence Mackay, and silver cups for each member of the winning team.

Automobile parade of decorated cars up Fifth Avenue, Broadway, and Riverside Drive.

Displays of aerial fireworks from city parks.

Subscriptions may be forwarded to James S. Cushman, Treasurer Independence Day Committee, Room 611, Pulitzer Building, New York City.

JOHN H. FINLEY,
Chairman Independence Day Committee.

HAMILTON CHASED BATS IN NIGHT FLIGHT

Accident to His Engine Stopped Spectacular Performance, His Manager Says.

WAS IN THE AIR 25 MINUTES

Searchlight and Motor's Hum Alone Reveal Him—A Diamond Medal Rewards His Feat.

Charles K. Hamilton returned yesterday to New York, after a week in Nashville, where he gave a series of exhibition flights at the military tournament. The aviator brought back with him a badly damaged engine on his biplane, but he had, too, a large, diamond-studded medal, given to him by the Nashville Board of Trade for a twenty-minute flight last Wednesday night, the first night flight ever made in a heavier-than-air machine.

In his night flight Hamilton almost wrecked his engine, his aeroplane, and himself. While he was circling the fair grounds at an altitude of 600 feet—the only token of his presence being the humming of his motor and the beams of a strong searchlight which he had affixed to his lower plane—the head of the fourth cylinder on the left side blew off with a terrific explosion. The 20,000 spectators were instantly aware that something was radically wrong with the machine that had but a few moments before made one of its startling swoops right in front of the grand stand.

The searchlight's rays were pointed downward at a dangerous angle to the earth, and the fear spread that Hamilton would be dashed to pieces as his machine came hurtling downward. But when close to the earth Hamilton managed to right the machine and bring it to a safe landing fifty yards across the field from where he had started on his midnight flight. As a result of that experience, Hamilton said, he was prepared to fly day and night, if necessary, in THE NEW YORK TIMES-Chicago Evening Post twenty-five-thousand-dollar race between Chicago and New York.

"That night flight," P. L. Young, Hamilton's business representative, said yesterday, "was the most wonderful thing I ever saw. I've seen Hamilton do so many hair-raising stunts that I'm getting used to them. He's always doing the unpected, so I am not much surprised at anything, but when he decided to take his machine up at night above the field of Camp Dickinson, where the military tournament had been held, and fly through the inky blackness that was made deeper by the large electric lights in front of the grand stand—well, it got me going, all right.

Decided to Fly in the Dark.

"Hamilton had made a series of flights that afternoon, and at 7 o'clock the grounds were almost deserted. He remained at the grounds instead of motoring into Nashville for dinner, and about 8 o'clock he got restless. It was pretty dark then, but he decided to amuse himself with a flight in the dark. So he had his biplane wheeled out, and flew for twenty-five minutes, to the delight of those who were gathering for the evening performance of the troops.

"When he descended Hamilton made up his mind to go aloft when it was still darker—'when,' he said, 'there won't be any doubt about my having gone up long after nightfall.' I tried to dissuade him, and so did a number of his friends, including Secretary of War Dickinson, for whom the camp had been named, but Hamilton said he was going up, and he went; but he did accede to our wishes sufficiently to put a searchlight on his machine, so that he could see pretty clearly ahead of him.

"It was just 11 o'clock when he left the ground. One could follow his course by the searchlight as he circled higher and higher. He rose steadily until he had attained a height of 600 feet, and at that altitude went soaring away across country for almost three miles. Then he made what seemed to be a very sharp turn and came hurtling back through the night, his searchlight looking like the headlight on a monster locomotive coming directly at the stand. As he passed over the house of the Superintendent of the park Hamilton made one of his wonderful dips, the first of his night flight, and, it appeared to us, went within two or three feet of the chimneys of the house.

Chasing a Bat.

"The house is on an eminence, so that it stood out in relief against the sky. The Superintendent had gone to bed, thinking that with the termination of the scheduled events at 10:30 the entertainment had been ended for the night. But he heard the clatter of Hamilton's motor and soon his house was a blaze of light. As Hamilton circled past it his machine stood out for a moment very clearly and then disappeared into the inky night, the only signs we had of his being aloft being the engine exhaust and the searchlight.

"Finally Hamilton tired of chasing night birds—he told us his searchlight attracted a large bat that flew directly in his path for some time, try as he would to overtake it—and come dipping past the grand stand. The arc lights, arranged to light up the field, were about thirty feet above the ground, and he did not miss them by more than two yards. He circled and again came down toward the ground at the sharpest angles I've ever seen him take.

"Men yelled and women screamed; some women fainted. I wasn't in any too happy a frame of mind myself as I saw the machine's nose pointed down at such a terrific angle. Several of us started to run to the spot where we believed Hamilton was going to fall, for there were few who didn't believe he'd meet with an accident if he kept up his hair-raising stunts. But he didn't. Just before his deflector seemed certain to hit the lights it was swung quickly upward and the biplane, answering immediately, soared away for another lap of the field.

Lands Safely After Accident.

"It was on this last circuit that the cylinder head blew off, and Hamilton made a mighty fast and fortunate descent. Luckily he was directly over the infield, where the turf was level, when the accident happened, and he made a safe glide to earth. When we got to him he was tinkering away at his engine as if nothing had occurred. All he seemed to care about was that his flight had been interrupted.

"'If that hadn't happened I'd have stayed up hour,' was his greeting to me, and he seemed much put out that an immediate reascent was not possible."

The medal given to him by the Nashville Board of Trade was presented by Secretary of War Dickinson at a banquet Saturday night. It is about one and a half inches in diameter and almost a quarter of an inch thick. In the centre is a diamond of several carats. It depends from a cloth-of-gold band, grasped in the claws of a large bat, whose outstretched wings are of gold, with veins and ribs of silver. In his presentation speech Secretary Dickinson said:

"Hamilton has proved that he belongs in the air as much at night as in the daytime, and that, following his midnight flight, the first ever made in an aeroplane, it is impossible to think of him other than as a human bat, as ready to fly by night as to soar by day."

Hamilton left yesterday afternoon for New Britain, where on July 2, "Hamilton Day," the aviator will give the citizens of his native town an extended exhibition flight.

AERIAL TRACK READY FRIDAY.

First Contests on New Garden City Course Set for the Next Day.

The preliminary surveys for a two-and-one-half-mile aviation track at Garden City, on the field which will be used until the one a mile further east for the international meet of next October is in shape, were completed yesterday, as were the preparations for the erection of a high wooden fence to inclose it and an inner one of woven wire, and a grandstand to seat 5,000 persons.

Under the supervision of Gage E. Tarbell, general manager of the international aviation meet, and Byron R. Newton, his assistant, the engineers ran their lines around the newly cleared land and announced at 6 o'clock last evening that everything was in readiness for the laborers to start this morning. The track, which will be only half a mile shorter than the one on the international field, will be marked by fifteen-foot standards, from which brilliant-colored flags will be flown.

Along the west side of the field a fence, six feet high, will be erected, with gates for motor cars and for the flying machines themselves. Fifty feet east of this fence there will be the barricade of wire. Between the two fences will be the parking spaces for automobiles. The fences will be continued in an easterly direction at the north and south ends of the field, and no one will be permitted inside of them except the fliers and their assistants.

In the centre of the west end the grandstand will be put up, with entrance through a special gate built in the outer fence. It is the intention to charge a nominal admission fee to the stand, and each person in an automobile will be charged a like amount. A small percentage of the proceeds will be deducted to cover the cost of the fences and stands and policing the field. The balance will be put up as prizes for short, middle, and long distance races and races against time. Every other week an endurance contest will be held, to start at sunrise and end at sunset.

All of the sheds and tents in which the flying machines are stored will be set flush on one street on which no spectators will be permitted. Barricades will be erected at both ends of it and between the sheds, so that aeroplane owners and their helpers will not be bothered.

It is planned to get the fences and stands ready by Friday night and to hold the first contests next Saturday, Sunday, and Monday, starting at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The Long Island Railroad, it was said yesterday, will run extra trains to within a quarter of a mile of the grandstand. Automobilists, of course, will be able to enter their parking spaces without any trouble.

A large silver trophy already has been put up for open competition among professionals and amateurs at the Garden City field for the longest flight in the first fifteen days of July. Mr. Tarbell, W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., Col. Asa Bird Gardiner, and other residents of the neighborhood, as well as the Garden City Hotel, will help the competitions with similar donations.

EIGHT FLIGHTS AT MONTREAL.

Wright Biplanes Carried Off Honors at Aviation Meet Yesterday.

MONTREAL, Quebec, June 27.—Eight successful flights were made by heavier-than-air machines at the aviation park this evening, the feature of the day's performances being the work of the Wright biplanes. Four of these machines are here for the meet, and each of the four was in the air to-day for periods varying from five to thirty-five minutes. The longest flight was made by Ralph Johnston, formerly a trick bicycle rider, who went up in his Wright machine late in the afternoon, and went through an amazing series of spectacular tricks. He was up thirty-five minutes, soared to a high altitude, came down again, dipped his machine, made quick turns, and rocked the machine from side to side in a way that recalled his dexterous handling of a bicycle.

The Wright machines carried off the honors of the day for the greatest altitude flight, the longest flight, and the fastest flight. Walter Brookins made a preliminary try at his Old World's record for height. He went up steadily for twenty minutes, and declared that he reached a height of 3,500 feet, according to readings of an instrument on his machine. However, the official measurement was only 1,650. Brookins floated out over Lake St. Louis, and from his greatest height started down on a long glide to the aviation park with his power shut off.

He landed perfectly in front of the stand. La Chappel, also in a Wright forty horse power machine, made the swiftest flight, circling the course twice in 3 minutes 29 seconds, the total distance being about 12,100 feet.

De Lesseps, in his light Blériot monoplane, did the same two turns in 4 minutes 35 seconds. The Count made two very successful flights during the afternoon. Two of his machines arrived today. The one he has been working with is a new machine he ordered just before leaving France, and he expects with the older and heavier machine to press the Wrights hard for the laurels of the meet.

PAYING OUR NATIONAL BILLS.

At last the country is paying its bills as it goes along. Our last excess of receipts over disbursements was in 1907. In 1908 there was a deficiency of over $58,000,000. Last year there was an excess of disbursements at this time of $66,000,000. Yesterday we published the expression of the official hope that when the year was completed the deficit would be nothing worth considering, even if there is not a small surplus.

These figures apply to ordinary expenditures. The deficit is larger if the expenditures on account of the Panama Canal are reckoned, as they should not be in any account of income and outgo alone. The Panama Canal ought to be paid for partly at least by those who will profit by it, and not out of the Treasury's pocket money, the proceeds of taxes which burden everyday life and business. If the Panama expenditures were to be reimbursed from the proceeds of bonds, and charged to capital account instead of to cash paid out, the deficits of the past several years would still stand on the record, but the Treasury would be obtrusively solvent, instead of publishing figures exposing the country to the charge of living beyond its income.

This agreeable reversal of the preliminary estimates of a deficit of $34,000,000 promises to be reached, according to Secretary MACVEAGH'S present expectation, by a reduction on both sides of the account, but by a larger reduction in disbursements. The growth of receipts on which the Administration prides itself is less agreeable to those who pay it than to those who receive it. A growth in proceeds of taxation is distinguishable from a growth of profits. It is a deduction from private profits, and is a handicap upon all industry. The reduction in expenditures will be wholly welcome, if it is a true reduction, and not a carry-over to another year. With the Treasury in this robust condition, and with this view of taxation, it is difficult not to regret that some unnecessary taxes were laid, and of a sort open to more objection than those based on economics.

A RUMOR SURELY ILL-FOUNDED.

Nothing could be less consistent with the record of Gov. HUGHES and his well-earned reputation for thinking deeply before he acts than his rejection at this late day of his appointment to the bench of the United States Supreme Court. That such a declination of a seat in the Nation's highest court would be without precedent may have little to do with the case. Gov. HUGHES is the kind of a man who makes his own precedents. But he did not decide to withdraw from the turmoil of New York State politics without careful consideration of the matter in every aspect, and he did not accept President TAFT'S appointment without abundant reflection.

Undoubtedly he could have been nominated for a third term at Albany if he had seen fit to remain in the field. His election would have been more likely than that of any other candidate his party can name. The Republican leaders would do well to try to secure another man of the Hughes type to lead their campaign in the Autumn. But Gov. HUGHES will surely leave the Executive office in September to take up his new and important duties in Washington.

TWO ORDERS.

Mayor GAYNOR'S Administration is known throughout this country as an Administration of reform. We therefore call his attention to the order dated June 13, 1910, and signed by his Commissioner of Public Charities, Mr. MICHAEL J. DRUMMOND, retiring from the Scientific Advisory Council to the department physicians bearing the distinguished names of EDWARD G. JANEWAY, HORST OERTEL, WILLIAM T. BULL, (deceased,) JOSEPH BLAKE, W. GILMAN THOMPSON, SIMON FLEXNER, PRINCE A. MORROW, DANIEL M. STIMSON, CLINTON L. BAGG, and JOSHUA VAN COTT. These men were appointed in 1908 by the order of Commissioner ROBERT W. HEBBERD, and through their influence the scientific development of the public hospitals was fostered and the great philanthropic foundation for medical research, provided by Mrs. RUSSELL SAGE, was brought into effective co-operation with these hospitals.

The men who advised Commissioner HEBBERD were known wherever the science of medicine is known. They formed the department's advisory committees on hospital construction: on the medical administration of the hospitals and teaching, medical supplies, classification of patients and statistics; on appointments to the medical boards of the hospitals; on nursing, and on anatomical and pathological material and its proper distribution, with supervision of the morgues of the department. For such men, who undertook the performance of such duties, Mr. DRUMMOND'S order substitutes this list of appointees:

RICHARD KALISH, M. D.
C. E. QUIMBY, M. D.
E. D. KLOTS, M. D.
C. G. CHILD, Jr., M. D.
A. L. ROOT, M. D.
W. F. HONAN, M. D.
RUDOLPH BLOCK.
N. TAYLOR PHILLIPS.
WARREN LESLIE.
ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
C. F. BARBER, M. D.
ORLANDO S. RITCH, M. D.

Why was the substitution made? Was it made in the interest of science? A mystified public will want to know.

MR. LODGE AND MR. AMES.

Congressman BUTLER AMES'S manifesto, announcing his candidacy for the United States Senate, to succeed Mr. LODGE, foreshadows lively politics in Massachusetts. Mr. AMES is a popular man and a clever politician with a large following. His well-written arraignment of Senator LODGE comes out at a critical moment. Mr. LODGE is held chiefly responsible for the recent report of the Senate committee appointed to investigate the high cost of living. The assumption in that document that the Payne-Aldrich tariff has nothing to do with the high prices is not convincing and is not generally accepted.

It is not news that Massachusetts is no longer the stronghold of Protection it once was. It does not necessarily follow that the State will prefer Mr. AMES to Mr. LODGE as one of its representatives in the Senate. The Senator has many qualities that entitle him to high esteem. But he will be forced to fight for his place, to overcome newly awakened forces which indicate that Republican arrogance and self-satisfaction are to be rebuked in New England as well as in the West.

REGULATION OF PROFITS.

The tariff and the railway regulations are alike in the fact that both undertake to regulate profits. The tariff promises a "reasonable profit" by means of most unreasonable schedules. And while the country is rising en masse against this monstrous proposal the party which is unable to perceive the heinousness of the idea comes forward with a proposal to separate such an essentially commercial matter as the management of railways from all other commercial questions, and to regulate it uncommercially. There is and can be no objection to any regulation of railways upon any approved principle. But an unregulated regulation without any declaration of principle to guide official discretion arouses doubts of where we are at and whither we are drifting.

Law deals—or used to deal—with universal rights, and there is no right to profits, reasonable or otherwise. Yet our legislators are tumbling over each other to claim credit for a proposal to regulate profits while leaving costs unregulated. Rates generally are reasonable, says the Inter-State Commerce Commission officially, and yet rates are to be further regulated—meaning reduced—because rising costs reduce profits in general.

There is no legal remedy for decrease in profits. Everybody recognizes the enormity of the trades union idea that a worker has such a right to his job that if he won't work no other man shall take his place. The present law is a proposal of the shippers' union that railways must reduce profits because shippers are dissatisfied with their profits. The interest of the commonwealth is that both shall deal with the public in the manner of the railways—meaning increase of profits by reduction of costs and charges and enlarged volume of trade—rather than in the manner of the critics of the railways, that is by seeking legal limitation of profits of others.

THE DANGEROUS HOUSEFLY.

Musca domestica, the "typhoid fly," which is the more accurate name for the common housefly, is now classed as the most dangerous of the enemies of mankind. "Regarded in the light of recent knowledge," Dr. DANIEL D. JACKSON says in The Review of Reviews for July, "the fly is more dangerous than the tiger or the cobra." It is known to be the chief cause of intestinal epidemics in cities. From intestinal diseases alone more than 7,500 persons died last year in this city, while the deaths from malaria in Greater New York were less than 100. This country spends annually hundreds of thousands of dollars to destroy the malarial mosquito, practically nothing to quell the universal scourge of flies.

All flies bear disease-breeding germs. Their origin is in filth. They live in filth. Where conditions of filth exist the progeny of one fly may mount into the sextillions in a single season. They bear into the homes and food, water, and milk supplies of the people not only the germs of typhoid and cholera, but of tuberculosis, anthrax, diphtheria, ophthalmia, smallpox, staphylococcus infection, swine fever, tropical sore, and the eggs of parasitic worms. In combating the pestilent evil the Merchants' Association of this city has issued a "fly poster" reading as follows:

RULES FOR DEALING WITH THE FLY NUISANCE.

Keep the flies away from the sick, especially those ill with contagious diseases. Kill every fly that strays into the sick room. His body is covered with disease germs.

Do not allow decaying material of any sort to accumulate on or near your premises.

All refuse which tends in any way to fermentation, such as bedding straw, paper waste, and vegetable matter should be disposed of or covered with lime or kerosene oil.

Screen all food.

Keep all receptacles for garbage carefully covered and the cans cleaned or sprinkled with oil or lime.

Keep all stable manure in vault or pit, screened or sprinkled with lime, oil, or other cheap preparation.

See that your sewage system is in good order; that it does not leak, is up to date, and not exposed to flies.

Pour kerosene into the drains.

Cover food after a meal; burn or bury all table refuse.

Screen all food exposed for sale.

Screen all windows and doors, especially the kitchen and dining room.

Burn pyrethrum powder in the house to kill the flies.

Don't forget if you see flies, their breeding place is in near-by filth. It may be behind the door, under the table, or in the cuspidor.

If there is no dirt and filth there will be no flies.

If there is a nuisance in the neighborhood write at once to the Health Department.

But flies are something worse than a nuisance. They should be shunned as the plague is shunned.

LABOR, CAPITAL, AND TRUSTS.

It is a curious mischance which causes the publication simultaneously of the establishment of a pension system for the employés of one steel company and the report to the Senate that another steel company underpaid and overworked its employés. The company certified by Mr. GOMPERS to be the "greatest enemy organized labor has" contributes an addition of eight million dollars to a fund of four million dollars established some years ago in order that its employés may be pensioned in their old age and disability. It is the company which was not distinguished by Mr. GOMPERS'S attack which works its employés eighty-four hours a week, and pays a shilling an hour. One company is known as a trust and the other company as an independent.

The comparison is casual, and with no intention of disparaging one company at the expense of the other. The reason for making comment is to utilize the opportunity to enforce the need of caution in indulgence of either sympathy or prejudice in judgment of current economic events. There is too free condemnation of trusts because they are trusts, and without regard to their conduct. And the sympathy for wage-earners may too easily lead to disapproval of those who are doing their best to be fair in the troublesome relations between capital and labor. But instead of meeting capital half way, labor is too prone to reject proffered boons as bribes. Wage increases are demanded as a right, regardless of the economic considerations involved, and profit-sharing schemes are represented to be doles, which ought rather to be used in raising wages above the market rate than in making it hard for underpaid employés to leave their employment in a manner embarrassing to employers. In other words, there is a greater solidarity of feeling on the part of employers than of employés, and salaried troublemakers think they earn their pay better by making trouble than by allaying it.

FREE MUSIC IN PUBLIC PLACES.

Park Commissioner STOVER'S plan to have music on appointed Summer evenings in the ample space under the New York approach to the Queensboro Bridge is admirable. The place is accessible to a crowded neighborhood. His other plan for promenade concerts on the Williamsburg Bridge seems at first thought less commendable. There will be danger of overcrowding and much confusion. To keep the people moving away from the band may be difficult. But doubtless the Commissioner will neglect no precautions.

Free music in the parks and public places is desirable for the rational entertainment of the multitude. The exact measure of the moral and aesthetic uplift received by the 8,000 persons who heard the music of RICHARD STRAUSS'S "Salome" in Central Park Sunday afternoon it would be difficult to ascertain. But this is unquestionably up-to-date, "advanced," and expensive music. The fashionable opera houses afford nothing more costly and precious, and the park and bridge audiences may well be left to judge for themselves whether they prefer STRAUSS'S orchestral marvels to BEETHOVEN and WAGNER and MASSENET'S mellifluous "Meditation." Sunday's audience certainly seemed deeply impressed, and doubtless felt that it had received the best the contemporary musical repertory offers. The increased appropriation for public music was well considered. We cannot have too many free performances of good music to offset the not too elevating influence of the other entertainments of a Summer in town.

There are times when one would like to believe that * * * OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES will retain fame for his "Autocrat at the Breakfast Table," his "Old Ironsides," and his "Chambered Nautilus," and not for his "Father William" only.—The Evening Post.

There are also times when one would like to believe that BRYANT will retain fame for his "Thanatopsis" and "Lines to a Water Fowl" and not for "Has Anybody Here Seen Kelly?" But there is no reason why SOUTHEY'S estimable and moral verses about Father William should be despised, even when they are attributed to HOLMES.

The report that New York's high-priced restaurants are to adopt this Fall the ancient European custom of "couvert" or "table money" is probably without foundation. The modern American hotels would be as likely to charge for lights and service in the bills. Prices can be raised with less aggravating fuss. But if they are raised much more it is probable that New Yorkers will shun the restaurants and the avowedly cheap hotels will get larger patronage.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Reason for Charlton's Extradition.

In considering the Charlton case it should be remembered that the murdered wife was just as much an American citizen as is the husband who killed her, and that therefore the Italian Government has not only its own reasons, punitive and preventive, for punishing a crime committed on its territory, but is under a further obligation to give us satisfaction for an injury done there to one of our "nationals."

It is not with any intimation of indifference on Italy's part to this obligation that attention is called to this fact. The situation, however, is so embarrassing for both Governments that all its phases must be taken into account, and the victim's citizenship certainly has its bearing on the question whether we should break our established custom and give up an American for trial in another country. Had Mrs. CHARLTON been killed by an Italian we would have expected Italy to take prompt and effective measures to execute its own laws on the criminal, and any failure to do so would have been viewed with grave disapproval. Diplomatic representations on the subject would have been made at once, and further delay would have been interpreted as an "unfriendly act," a phrase which in the language used between nations has a very grave significance.

But of course we cannot at the same time refuse to extradite young CHARLTON and demand that Italy clearly demonstrate its appreciation of the seriousness of the wrong under international law which we have suffered in the murder of Mrs. CHARLTON. It is an extremely puzzling case, and yet the more thought it receives the more is one impressed with the illogic of refusing to extradite our citizens to any country, merely because there are some countries where confidence in their receiving a fair trial is weak or altogether lacking. To grant the privilege in one instance and to refuse it in another would, indeed, have its embarrassments, since all Governments with which we are at peace are on nominally equal terms, but nominally and actually are two different things, and the reality of the difference will have to be recognized sooner or later. In fact, we do it already by insistence on extraterritorial courts in countries the ability or inclination of which to try foreigners fairly we doubt or deny.

Hoping to Improve Aeroplanes.

Some of the competitions announced as on the programme for the coming aviation meet at Garden City will involve so much of danger to the contestants that the wisdom, and even the justification, of such tests may be doubted. The art of flying is still so new, and its most eminent practitioners really know so little about it, that they should not be tempted at present to take the unknown risks involved in touching captive balloons or other objects with or from their machines. The proposal to hold slow-speed races—races, that is, in which the prizes go to those who take the longest time in covering a given distance—is, on the contrary, a highly commendable one, since it will tend both toward the mechanical improvement of the aeroplane, apart from its motor, and to the discovery of what can be done with the machines as they are.

Generally speaking, the smaller the aeroplane the more rapidly must it be driven through the air in order to sustain itself, while as the area of the "wings" is increased, the less swift need be its motion. The larger the planes, however, the more power does it take to overcome atmospheric resistance to forward motion, and it is obvious that with a given engine there is a rather narrow limit within which alone is increase or decrease practicable. Already the aviators are talking of contrivances by which, while in the air, they will be able to do what a sailor would call reefing—will be able, in other words, to lessen their supporting surface when they go fast and add to it as speed is lessened. Theoretically there is nothing in the way of this, but the device would be rather complicated, and it would multiply the possibilities of accident, already sufficiently numerous to satisfy even an abnormal hunger for thrills and perils.

If automobiles could go only at full racing speed they would be of no practical use in ordinary road conditions. This is not true of the aeroplane, but there will be great conveniences in developing an ability to travel at less than thirty miles an hour, which is about the least that the largest of them can safely make in still air. The birds avoid this difficulty, so far as they do avoid it, which few of them except the humming bird do completely, by the facility, lacking in the aeroplane, with which they can beat the air from different directions with their wings. Human aviators can only alter the angle of their flight.

Distinction Has Its Penalty.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT the Younger has had many excuses since his widely advertised marriage for wondering whether it is an advantage or a disadvantage to have a great and famous father. This is an old question, with much to be said on both sides, and though it has been much discussed, no conclusion has ever been reached. Probably none ever will be.

The eminent father can provide many opportunities for his son and open many paths for him which for other boys remain forever closed unless they do the opening themselves. The eminent father does this without much exertion; indeed, he can hardly help doing it by the mere fact of his eminence. But in utilizing the opportunities and in following the paths, the great man's son finds himself held to standards of achievement that are unjustly and cruelly high, unless by rare chance he happens to have in him the making of another great man. Other boys pass for having done well enough if they behave themselves with propriety and attain an average success in whatever they undertake, but if the great man's son does no more than this he is very likely to find himself an object of silent reproach or open derision. And that is pretty hard.

Particularly troublesome, and not infrequently injurious, to the sons of distinguished fathers is the curiosity with which they are examined by the vulgar and the more courteous but inevitable attention which they receive from more civilized observers. Nobody says that the Colonel's children have been hurt by this, but TEDDY junior is suffering from it, and since his wedding he has been forced to ask again and again to be let alone by the public and its representatives, the reporters. The appeals have been good-natured, evidencing the young man's sense and his appreciation of the kindliness with which everybody regards himself and his bride, but the fact that he felt forced to register at a Chicago hotel under an assumed name shows that he has found the reflection of his father's glory a heavy burden.

NEW STYLE WORLD'S FAIR.

A "Dispersion Plan" for This City's Celebration in 1913.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The chief objections to a world's fair in New York in 1913, aside from the selfish ones of some individual interests, are to a world's fair of the old style, of which we admit we have had a plenty. New York possesses all the essentials for an unrivaled exhibition, unique in plan, feature, and character.

Instead of concentrating exhibits under a few vast roofs in temporary structures, let some special features of the fair be located in each borough, making all New York a vast fair ground. The present museums, theatres, public halls, armories, institutes, parks and beaches, the race tracks, rivers, bays, and islands, each would provide a site and space for some class or department of exhibits.

Coupon or combination tickets, sold like Subway tickets, in a strip, would permit each visitor to choose the particular features they desired to study at a cost of but a few cents for each separate inclosure entered. This would vastly increase the educational value, as students would choose to specialize rather than try to "do" the whole fair.

This dispersion of sightseers over the whole city would avoid the traffic congestion which timid Gothamites profess to fear.

With electric current from Niagara and from wave motors along the shores; with illumination of the whole city; with naval, land, and aviation parades, marine and submarine exhibits; with our present museums co-ordinated with the necessary annex and extensions, a world's fair beyond the dream of rivalry can be held in New York.

A Fair Directory would give location and means of reaching each division or unit of exhibits, and the discriminating visitor could each day choose the secton or sections to which that day would be devoted. To such an exhibition the objections advanced do not apply.

H. B. SALISBURY.

New York, June 27, 1910.

ROOSEVELT AND PROSPERITY.

As President He Might Increase This Admirer's Earnings.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Previous to one year ago as a commission wage-earner I was making over $3,000 per year; to-day I am earning at the rate of $2,500 per year and working much harder than I have ever worked in all my life. Something is wrong. Not with me, for I am following up my business as never before. It is my belief that Theodore Roosevelt has accomplished more good and prevented more crime and graft by his timely action than any President that we ever had in the White House. For the "medium rich" and for the masses he is undoubtedly the man of the hour.

I would like to see the salary of the President of the United States raised to $100,000 to enable him to live well and entertain as he should. I would also like to see the Constitution amended and the term of the President's office increased to eight years. It is sheer folly to upset the business stability of this country every four years as we have done by a Presidential election and mud throwing. After these reforms are accomplished I want to see Theodore Roosevelt elected as our next President by the largest majority that has been given any candidate for that office. There are thousands upon thousands of voters from all parties who have never voted for him before but who would be only too glad to support him.

AN ANTI-TRUST MAN.

The Charlton Dilemma.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

You say, under date of the 25th inst., "under our laws a person cannot be tried for a crime committed out of our jurisdiction." Not disputing this, it is important to note that our Constitution claims jurisdiction over children born to American citizens traveling abroad, (or out of our civil jurisdiction.) Those children are considered citizens of the United States, fully subject to our laws of citizenship, fully privileged with the rights and protective influence of such consideration. If our laws guarantee protection to their citizens against crimes committed against them, why should they not, with legitimate consistency, equally extend the arm of punishment upon their crime-committing citizens? The argument raised against such a course is, that since our citizen committed a crime against the laws of the empire in which he resided at the time, he is subject to the avenging laws governing the punishment thereof. But, looking at the matter in a broader light, is not a crime a crime wherever committed? Is not a murder in one country as much an offense against its society as it is against society in general?

By his own confession Porter Charlton is guilty of murder, a crime just as much at variance with the laws of Italy as with those of our own Nation. Are we incompetent to try him—to sentence him? Perhaps present statutes forbid such a step on our part, but does it not seem reasonable to expect an amendment at some future time dealing with such cases as above suggested?

M. HILLEL FELDMAN.

New York, June 25, 1910.

Paying for the House.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

"G. J. M.," writing in the issue of June 27, seems to have struck a poor proposition. If his contemplated house is worth $4,750, how is it he can only get a first mortgage of $2,500? Even in Brooklyn he ought to be able to get a mortgage of at least 60 per cent., which would be $2,850, and if the house is worth the price asked, he ought to get $3,000. This would reduce his second mortgage to $750, and his yearly payment against principal would be $100 less, in addition to which he would save $5 per year in interest. This would make his total annual payments as follows:

Interest on first mortgage, $3,000 at 5%..	$150
Interest on second mortgage, $750 at 6%..	45
Payments on second mortgage	100
Taxes, &c.	56
Total	$351

or about 30 per cent. of his income. This is rather a high proportion for rental, but with economy is not too risky. The main thing for "G. J. M." to look out for is that he does not pay more for his house than he can sell it for.

New York, June 27, 1910. INTERESTED.

Novel Features in Public Service.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Quite a number of novel features have been introduced in the public service during President Taft's Administration. A short time ago it was government by magazine. The latest, just introduced, is "government by apology." Veto messages would have been much more satisfactory to the people, and would have given assurance that their interests were being looked after, and that the economy promised would be practiced. Celui qui s'excuse s'accuse. President Taft has lost an opportunity.

Coatless Essentials.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I wish to say just a few words regarding a reader's article in to-day's TIMES on the subject of men going without coats on hot days. As far as I am concerned, let them go without coats, but let their shirts and collars be immaculate and have no ugly suspenders strapped o'er their shoulders, but a neat leather belt encircling their waist to hold in place their pretty figured shirtwaist.

CONSTANT READER.

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 27, 1910.

GRESSER REPLIES TO DENTON.

Declares False Statement Municipal Justice Made About Vouchers.

Borough President Lawrence Gresser contradicted in an interview yesterday the testimony given by his former friend and political associate, Municipal Justice Alfred E. Denton, before Commissioner of Accounts Raymond Fosdick in the Queens County graft inquiry. In the report of Commissioner Fosdick, Judge Denton, who was Commissioner of Public Works under Gresser, is quoted as saying that he became suspicious of several contracts for repairing culverts to the amount of $4,000 put through by then Under Sheriff John M. Phillips of Queens, and that when he refused to sign the vouchers Phillips threatened him with a revolver. Judge Denton said he called the attention of President Gresser to the vouchers.

"The story that Judge Denton called my attention to these particular five Phillips vouchers," said President Gresser, "is false. During that month I signed the whole series, from 1,162 to 1,201, and from 1,245 to 1,345, making a total of 148 vouchers for the month and a total expenditure of from $30,000 to $40,000 in small amounts. It would have been a physical impossibility to examine all the details of the work, and I had to depend on the work of my subordinates. I had no reason to think the Phillips vouchers were different from any of the others, and no one called my attention to them in any way."

Judge Denton, who is now away on his vacation, will have another opportunity to tells his story before the Queens County Grand Jury to-morrow, if District Attorney De Witt locates him.

The Grand Jury went over the evidence for a second time against Matthew J. Goldner, who served as Superintendent of Sewers under former Borough President Cassidy, and against whom two indictments were returned charging grand larceny. These indictments were dismissed by Justice Stapleton on a technicality last week. It was said that the results of the reconsideration by the Grand Jury yesterday were satisfactory to the prosecution. Goldner is now touring Europe with his wife, but has several hundred thousand dollars' worth of property in Queens which would insure his return to face any charges, in case he should be reindicted.

BUTCHERS MUST REFORM.

Driscoll Tells Them That Hereafter They Must Give Honest Weight.

Chief Driscoll of the Bureau of Weights and Measures held another hearing yesterday at City Hall on the question of the prohibition of the use of all wooden spreaders and skewers in meat, unless their weight is deducted from the total. Several score of butchers and representatives of wholesale meat concerns were present.

Before opening the hearing Mr. Driscoll gave a practical demonstration of just what he expects of the meat dealers in the future. He had his Inspectors set up an official scale, and then produced several packages of ham, bacon, and beef clearly marked with the packer's weight.

A ham marked thirteen and a quarter pounds weighed eleven pounds and fourteen and a half ounces. Another marked ten and a half pounds, weighed nine pounds and seven ounces. A side of bacon marked five and a quarter pounds weighed only five pounds. The wrapper was then stripped off and the bacon actually weighed only four pounds and ten ounces.

Several retailers said they were compelled to pay for wooden spreaders, some of which weighed as much as a pound and over. "When we retailers are abused in this way," said one, "we have to abuse the public to make up our losses. We ought not to have to buy wood at the price of lamb."

Mr. Driscoll informed the wholesalers that in the future the meat in this city will have to be sold by honest weight. The hearing was adjourned subject to further call.

PARK MEETING PLACES.

Commissioner Stover Announces List of Sites for Public Gatherings.

Park Commissioner Stover sent to societies and organizations yesterday a letter designating the parks in which public meetings may be held and the conditions under which he would grant permits.

The suffragettes have applied for permission to hold meetings on the Central Park Mall, and while the Commissioner has not denied them, he has given them a list of places where they may meet. He says in the meantime he will consider letting them use the Mall. All applications for permits must show the name of the organization and of some responsible person, the purpose and programme of the meeting, and the date, hour, and location desired.

In the circular he says:

The following places in parks can be used for public meetings: Battery and Hamilton Fish Parks, Abingdon, Tompkins and Union Squares. Seward Park is not included, but if particular requests for meetings in this park come to the department each case will be considered by itself.

TAKE ATHENIAN OATH.

College of the City of New York Students Act on Mayor's Speech.

A delegation from this year's graduating class of the College of the City of New York called yesterday upon Mayor Gaynor at City Hall, and informed him that as a result of his speech on civic patriotism they had decided to take the old Athenian ephebic oath. An engrossed document, including the oath, was presented to the Mayor. It read:

We will never bring disgrace to this our city by any act of dishonesty or cowardice, nor ever desert our suffering comrades in the ranks; we will fight for the ideals and sacred things of the city, both alone and with many; we will revere and obey the city's laws and do our best to incite a like respect and reverence in those above us who are prone to annul or set them at naught; we will strive unceasingly to quicken the public's sense of civic duty; thus, in all these ways we will transmit this city not only not less, but greater, better, and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us.

This is practically the wording of the old oath which was administered to the Athenian youths when they came out of their "gymnasiums" and entered upon the estate permitting them to wear lavender edges to their togas.

WESLEYAN IN CARNEGIE FUND.

President Announces That Foundation Trustees Have Accepted University.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., June 27.—President Shanklin of Wesleyan University to-day announced that his institution has been accepted by the trustees of the Carnegie Foundation, and that the university, as in the past, will be allowed to have thirteen of its trustees elected by conferences and other religious bodies of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Dr. Shanklin said that Wesleyan should have been admitted at the very first, for its charter is in entire accord with Mr. Carnegie's views on the subject. He stated, however, that Wesleyan is the only institution on the foundation retaining this privilege. Wesleyan is the oldest Methodist collegiate institute in this country.

THE POINT OF VIEW.

"Vanity" is what my friends
All have in abundance,
"Self-respect" is that which lends
To my charm redundance.
Evil, unchecked "temper" makes
Many people vicious.
"Righteous anger" in me wakes
When men grow pernicious.
"Selfishness" too often blights
Others whom I meet,
Wise insistence on my "rights"
Keeps my nature sweet.
Many faults, in short, I see
In my friends and brothers—
I am glad there's none in me,
Tho' many are in others.

NEW JUDGMENT PLAN FOR METROPOLITAN

Claimants for Personal Injuries Against Traction Line to be Classed with Bondholders.

APPROVED BY THE COURT

Sale of the Road Postponed Until Sept. 27 to Give Public Service Commission Time to Act.

Through an order filed by Judge Lacombe yesterday in the United States Circuit Court it became known that the present plans of the Bondholders' Committee of the Metropolitan Street Railway regarding the holders of accident judgments on the Metropolitan system is to place them on the same basis with the holders of the bonds which the committee represents. These accident creditors have claims against the New York City Railway system, which under the decisions of Judge Lacombe in various proceedings connected with the traction receiverships are not enforceable legally against the Metropolitan Street Railway. They now stand likely if the bondholders' plan goes through to become security holders of the reorganized traction system.

How the new securities would be issued did not appear from the papers accompanying the order of Judge Lacombe, but from the petition of the Bondholders' Committee on which the order was rendered it developed that the committee expected to have its reorganization plan ready for submission to the Public Service Commission by July 11. The reorganization sale, which was set for July 1, has therefore been adourned by Judge Lacombe until Sept. 27 on account of the representations made by the Bondholders' Committee.

The Bondholders' Committee asked for the extension by reason of several considerations; first, it will, in their opinion, be desirable to determine the issuance of securities before the sale is held. Second, that a corporation must be formed to operate the railroad after the sale; further, that it is desirable to have the approval of the Public Service Commission to the plan of reorganization before such a sale is held, and finally, that this approval of the commission cannot readily be obtained in so complicated a situation in a limited time.

The most important part of the petition of the bondholders is the paragraph which relates to the provision for the accident judgments against the New York City Railway, and in this connection the petition says:

"In addition to the provision for the outstanding securities to be therein mentioned, said plan (of reorganization) subject to the authorization and approval by the Public Service Commission of such provisions for the said issues to the holders of securities mentioned, will specifically tender the privilege of participating thereunder to the holders of the personal injury claims against the Metropolitan Street Railway and the New York City Railway, filed on or before March 2, 1910, with the Special Master appointed by this court, on the most favorable terms accorded by such plan to either of the classes of bonds represented by any of the said committees, the right to be reserved to require the holders of all such claims who may avail themselves of such tender to assign their respective claims to said committee or their nominee as in said plan may be provided."

Judge Lacombe, in the opinion accompanying his order, expressed his concurrence with the argument upon which the postponement is asked and then goes on to say regarding the personal injury claim:

"The application particularly commends itself to the court because of the statement in regard to the provision for the Metropolitan Street Railway personal injury claims. From the very inception of the receivership the situation of this group of creditors has been a matter of much concern. It is well settled under the authorities that they are not preferred creditors; moreover, they are not creditors of the Metropolitan Street Railway, which own the property, but only creditors of the impecunious lessee which operated the road.

"These mortgage creditors of the Metropolitan are under no obligation to give them any interest in the property covered by these mortgages; that they are willing to treat them as if they were not only creditors of the Metropolitan, but also as creditors holding a first mortgage on the property is most commendable. It shows an appreciation of fairness and legality which speaks well for the plan, whatever it be, which they are about to submit."

It was not possible last night to get a further discussion of the plans of Metropolitan reorganizers, and the petition quoted from and Judge Lacombe's opinion comprised the available data on that subject. Much interest, however, was attracted to the feature of the proposition as appearing in the petition by which the holders of personal injury claims against the Metropolitan Street Railway, as well as those against the New York City Railway, were both included in the scheme to settle the accident judgments on the basis of securities to be issued in the reorganization.

The accident judgments against the New York City Railway have, of course, under the decisions of the Federal Court no standing against the Metropolitan system.

Judge Lacombe filed a memorandum yesterday regarding the payment of the Federal corporation taxes due on the property of the New York City and Metropolitan Street Railways. He says that the proper course would seem to be for the receivers to pay these taxes, thus avoiding all possible penalties, and leaving the ultimate adjustment to be made hereafter. The payment is to be made, however, under an order of the court, in which the lessor company throughout the system is to agree in each case that if it be finally decided that the lessor must pay the excise taxes instead of the lessee it will reimburse the receivers for the money so advanced. The excise taxes on the Metropolitan and its allied companies amount to only about $18,000.

BOY IS KIDNAPPED BY WOMAN IN AUTO

HIS FIRST WIFE SUSPECTED

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 27.—While at play in the extensive grounds of his father's estate in the fashionable Kenwood Heights section of Albany, Michael McLaughlin, the 8-year-old son of Michael L. McLaughlin, a wealthy Brooklyn real estate dealer and contractor, was forcibly carried off to-day by a woman whom the police believe to be the divorced wife of Mr. McLaughlin and the boy's mother.

The woman, whoever she was, drove up in a big red automobile, accompanied by two men. Jumping from the car, she took the boy in her arms and hugged him. Then she hurriedly entered the car again, and before the astounded servants who had seen the occurrence could gather their wits and start in pursuit the automobile raced through the grounds at breakneck speed and, gaining the public highway, disappeared in a cloud of dust.

The boy's father and his second wife were absent when the kidnapping occurred. They left for New York last night. In their absence the boy was left in the care of Mrs. Mary Dowd, an aged woman, who is employed as a housekeeper by the McLaughlin family. In addition to her and the servants there was a caretaker, George Schilling, who with his family occupies a lodge near the large gates through which access to the grounds is gained from the road.

According to the caretaker and the servants, the kidnapping had been planned very thoroughly and was carried out with great boldness. When Schilling notified the police, Sergt. Seitz was sent on horseback to the estate, which is about six miles from Police Headquarters.

On his way there Seitz met the caretaker in pursuit of a man who, he told the policeman, had taken part in the kidnapping, but had not joined the party in the automobile. Seitz took both Schilling and the stranger to Police Headquarters, where Chief of Police Hyatt questioned the stranger closely. According to the police, he was J. R. Hatherly of Homer, an attaché of the Department of Agriculture.

"He showed to our satisfaction that the boy had been taken by his mother, who had a right to him, and that at the most it was a case for the civil courts," it was said at Police Headquarters. "We are not looking for the party that took the lad away."

Hatherly was not detained. Commissioner of Agriculture Pearson said this afternoon that nobody named Hatherly was on his payroll.

At the McLaughlin home the servants told the police that the kidnapping had been preceded by an attempt during the night to gain forcible entrance to the house.

Mrs. Leonora McLaughlin, the second wife of Michael L. McLaughlin, declared last night her belief that the boy had been taken by the first Mrs. McLaughlin, who is now the wife of Henry P. Holt of 2,423 Church Avenue, Brooklyn. Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin arrived in Brooklyn yesterday morning from Albany, and are staying at 2 Clark Street.

Mrs. McLaughlin said the affair was the climax of a dispute as to the possession of the child, which has been going on ever since Mr. McLaughlin was divorced. He came to Brooklyn in 1900, and was prominent in real estate transactions for a time. It is said that he was the agent for the transfer of $40,000,000 worth of Brooklyn property in a few years, and he gained the reputation of being wealthy. At this time he was still married to Mrs. Celia McLaughlin, and they lived together in Linden Street, Flatbush.

In 1906 the divorce action was begun by Mrs. McLaughlin, although she continued to live in the same house as her husband. The decree was signed in January, 1907, by Justice Jaycox, and according to Mr. Holt, the second husband of the first Mrs. McLaughlin, the custody of the boy was given to her. An agreement, however, was drawn up between McLaughlin and his former wife, by which, according to the present Mrs. McLaughlin, in consideration of a gift of $60,000 worth of real estate and notes for $40,000 for the education of the boy, she was to give up the child to a third party in case of her remarriage. Both parties were married a second time, McLaughlin to Miss Leonora Jackson, a violinist of some note, and Mrs. Celia McLaughlin to Henry P. Holt, whom she had known before her first marriage.

Mrs. McLaughlin married in the Summer of 1907, and in conformity with the agreement the boy was sent to live with her sister, Mrs. Payne, at Edmiston, N. Y. On the following Thanksgiving Day Mrs. Holt, Mrs. Leonora McLaughlin said last night, came and took him away.

"All that Winter," said Mrs. McLaughlin, "the lad lived with his mother on Church Avenue. Mr. McLaughlin continually went down to see him. He did not think his son was properly looked after, and when he had chickenpox, scarlet fever, and pneumonia his mother, who is a christian Scientist, refused to call in a physician. On one occasion when Mr. McLaughlin went there he had an altercation with Mr. Holt, and they had a terrible time on the street.

"At last, about June, 1908, Mr. McLaughlin sent his lawyer to see Mrs. Holt, and the boy was given up to us. Since then he has lived with us, but Mrs. Holt has tried several times to get him away. We sent him to the Pennington Seminary, and after that to a Catholic institution as a boarder, to be sure that he might be safe. We took him on a trip to Asbury Park, and so on last Winter so that he might get to know something. Last April, when we were living at the St. George Hotel, Mrs. Holt made another attempt to get possession of him and came up to our rooms.

"Whoever has taken him must have been keeping a close watch on our movements at our country place in Albany, for as soon as we had left he was taken away."

"From what I have heard over the long distance telephone," said Mr. McLaughlin, "the boy fought back as hard as he could and submitted only when the men in the automobile threw blankets over his head. I intend to do everything I can to get him back again."

Mr. Holt declared last night at his Church Avenue home that he had little doubt that his wife had kidnapped the child, although he had no actual knowledge of it.

"I have been away from home," he said, "for five days on business and have only just come back. My children tell me that my wife left last night for Albany and that she might be away for two days. Mrs. Holt has a perfect right to the boy, if she has taken him. The custody of the child was given to her by Justice Jayoox, and it was McLaughlin who stole the boy from her. Since then she has not been allowed to see him. I did not employ detectives to watch the McLaughlins in Albany, though some time ago we had them watched.

"I do not believe Mrs. Holt will bring the boy here, although I expect her home at any time. I believe she will place him in the Pennington Seminary, not far from Trenton, and it will not be so easy for the McLaughlins to get him away from there."

Mr. Holt said he took no stock in the alleged agreement whereby Mrs. Holt gave up the boy on her remarriage. He knew of no such agreement, and, in any case, it had not been legally filed.

WIDOWER WEDS AT 74.

Charles G. Green, Brooklyn Druggist, Married to Mrs. Townsend, Widow of 58

Charles G. Green, 74 years old, who owns two drugstores in Brooklyn, and Mrs. Ida V. Townsend, a widow, 58 years old, were married yesterday afternoon by the Rev. S. Parks Cadman, pastor of the Central Congregational Church. Both bride and bridegroom were married before, but husband and wife of the first marriage have been dead several years.

Their marriage yesterday followed a romance which began a year ago, when the couple met. After the ceremony they left on a wedding trip through the Central and Southern States. Mr. Green said yesterday that he and his bride would be at home on Oct. 1 at the Mansion House at 197 Hicks Street, where they will take up their residence.

WEDDED IN HASTE AFTER BROKEN TROTH

Marriage of Miss Mary L. Bogert and E. I. Huntington in Grace Church a Surprise.

FAMILIES NOT NOTIFIED

Only Two Witnesses to Ceremony—Bridegroom a Broker and Only Son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Huntington.

Miss Mary Ludlow Bogert, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lawrence Bogert of Flushing, L. I., and E. Irvington Huntington, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Huntington and a grandson of the late Daniel Huntington, the famous painter, and one of the founders of the Century Association, were married at 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the chantry of Grace Church. The Rev. Alexander W. Bostwick officiated.

The engagement, together with that of Miss Bogert's brother, Henry L. Bogert, Jr., to Miss Elsie Sanford, was announced a year ago last March 18 in THE TIMES, but was broken off some time afterward, and, not having been announced again, the relatives and friends of the young people were much surprised to learn yesterday of their marriage. Neither family was notified that the event was to take place, and it was not approved by either of the bride's parents. Only Garrow T. Geer and another witness were present. Neither Miss Bogert nor Mr. Huntington had any attendants, and there was no reception. The former wore a blue traveling dress.

Mrs. Charles R. Huntington, mother of the bridegroom, is a grandniece of Washington Irving, and for some years has managed the Saturday Evening Dancing Class. Her son is a broker, and he and his bride will make their home after their honeymon in this city.

The wedding of H. L. Bogert, Jr., and Miss Sanford was celebrated at Hewlett's, L. I., a week ago last Saturday, and Miss Bogert was one of the bridesmaids.

JOIN THE THEATRE OWNERS.

California, Iowa, and Kentucky One-Night Stand Managers In Open Door.

Last night the National Theatre Owners' Association announced that Will S. Collier, manager of theatres in Cedar Rapids and Iowa City, Ia., and Charles Scott, manager of the Lexington Theatre, Lexington, Ky., had been admitted to membership in the association. It was also announced that Frank A. Giesea, who controls a chain of California theatres, including houses in Stockton, Sacramento, San José, and Bakersfield, and A. F. Flory, manager of the Hanford Opera House, Hanford, Cal., have affiliated their interests with those of the Theatre Owners' Association.

Albert A. Weis, who controls a circuit of theatres in Texas, Mississippi, and adjoining States, yesterday assumed control of the Grand Opera House, Atlanta, Ga., and the Grand Opera House, Macon, leasing them from Henry L. De Give, who is retiring from the theatrical business. Mr. Weis is a member of the Theatre Owners' Association.

NORDICA FOR CHICAGO OPERA.

Philadelphia and Chicago to Have Opera Season of Ten Weeks.

Andreas Dippel, the manager of the Chicago Opera Company, announced yesterday that he had added Mme. Nordica to his list of singers for the coming season. Mr. Dippel spent yesterday in Philadelphia conferring with the Directors of the Philadelphia Opera House.

Ten weeks of grand opera will be given in Chicago and ten weeks in Philadelphia, instead of twenty weeks in Philadelphia, as in previous years. Fifty performances will be given in Philadelphia, forty-two by the Philadelphia-Chicago Company and eight by the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York.

Mr. Dippel will sail to-day on the Kronprinz Wilhelm.

Edna May Spooner in Vaudeville.

The vaudeville début of Edna May Spooner in a comedy sketch was the feature of the programme at the new Brighton Theatre, Brighton Beach, yesterday. The piece is called "An Obstinate Family," and in Miss Spooner's support were her mother, Mrs. Mary Gibbs Spooner, Augustus Phillips, Hal Clarendon, Philip Leigh, and Katherine Francis. Other acts on the bill were G. Molasso's new pantomime, "At Monte Carlo"; Coglin, Steele and Carr, the Six American Dancers, Stelling and Revell, Marshall Montgomery, Ballerini's canines, and Florence Troy.

Opera Baseball Clubs Matched Again.

The Metropolitan baseball team of the Metropolitan Opera House will meet the team of the Boston Opera House tomorrow on the American League Park grounds. When the two teams met last week in Boston the Boston team won the game, 13 to 3. Many of those who have been connected with the Metropolitan Opera House will be present at the game.

"Up and Down Broadway" Shown.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, June 27.—"Up and Down Broadway," a new musical review, was produced at the Shubert Theatre to-night. The cast is headed by Eddie Foy, who plays the janitor of the Highbrow Club on Mount Parnassus. Emma Carus is one of the principals in the company of 150.

Reward for Murderers of Sachs.

The Jewelers' Board of Trade offered a reward of $1,000 yesterday for information given to the police which shall lead to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who murdered Moses Sachs, whose body was found in a trunk in the hallway of a Goerck Street tenement house June 18.

WEEK'S BILLS AT THE THEATRES.

Polaire began her fourth week at Hammerstein's Victoria Theatre yesterday, still presenting her sketch, "Le Visiteur." Bedini and Arthur's burlesque of "Madame X," Harry De Coe, Gus Edwards's "School Boys and Girls," and Luciano Lucca are other attractions.

At the American Music Hall "The Barnyard Romeo" remains as the principal feature of the programme. Other numbers on the bill are "La Danse de la Robe du Nuit," Cissie Curlette, Conway and Leland, Lamberti, and Maria Lo.

Bessie Wynn, with a number of new songs, headed the bill at Keith & Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre yesterday. Others on the programme were Jarrow, the Russell brothers, John P. Wade and company, Stella Morrisinni's Siberian hounds, and the Pelots.

The programme for the closing week at the Alhambra Theatre contains Belle Blanche, an imitator; "A Night in a Turkish Bath," Jane Courthope and company, the Charles Ahearn troupe, Harry Pilcer and Gertrude Vanderbilt, Taylor, Krantz, and White, Tom Mahoney, the Musical Avollos, and Christy and Willis.

Brighton Beach Music Hall has Bert Leslie and company in "Hogan in Society" as the principal attraction, with Stuart Barnes, Joe Keno and his manicure maids, the Arlington Four, Buford, Bennett, and Buford, Rice, Sully, and Scott, and the Gartelle brothers to fill out the programme.

"The College Girls" company began its third week at the Columbia Theatre yesterday afternoon with a new burlesque of Polaire's sketch as an added feature. This is called "Mlle. Hotaire," and is presented by Toma Hanlon and Joe Fields.

KEENE ON THE STAND AGAIN.

Called On to Explain a Promised Loan in the Hocking Pool.

James R. Keene was questioned again yesterday at the hearing in the bankruptcy proceedings of Lathrop, Haskins & Co. regarding his share in the disastrous Hocking pool. At the conclusion of his examination it was arranged that he should appear before the referee again on July 18. This time, however, it was agreed that if Mr. Keene's absence from town prevented his presence on that date the hearing should be postponed until his return.

Mr. Keene expressed his pleasure at this arrangement, for at the last hearing he had requested that he might be allowed to go abroad, complaining that his health required a European trip. He said that the repeated examinations were a hardship on him, saying:

"I have been examined so much that my head is in a whirl."

The questioning to which he submitted yesterday had to do principally with a loan which he declared he had never made and never had promised to make to Haskins. He said there had been no talk of a loan between them, except that he told Haskins he would take 1,500 shares of Hocking stock if Haskins could get other brokers to take the 2,000 shares remaining of a lot which the broker wanted to dispose of. It developed that Mr. Keene never took the 1,500 shares.

This afternoon at 3:30 Mr. Keene's bookkeeper will be examined and Edward Popper of Popper & Sternbach will be called. Popper has refused to answer some questions which Mr. Elkus, attorney for the creditors, considers essential. The case of refusal has been brought before Judge Hough in the United States District Court, who instructed Mr. Elkus to get a certificate from the referee in case of any further refusal, so that Popper may be brought up for contempt of court. It was intimated by Popper's counsel that the broker will be ready to answer to-day.

BANKER ACCUSES A BANKER.

Spezio Held for Sending a Black Hand Letter on Martino's Complaint

Joseph Spezio, formerly a banker at 385 Metropolitan Avenue, Brooklyn, and living at 294 Union Avenue, was accused by Pasquale Martino, another banker, before Judge Chatfield in the United States District Court, that borough, yesterday with sending him a Black Hand letter demanding $3,000. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $3,000 bail for trial.

Spezio bought out Martino's banking business a month ago for $2,000 cash and a $3,000 mortgage. It appears that Spezio has had difficulty in paying his debts. His creditors petitioned the United States District Court recently to declare him a bankrupt, and Judge Chatfield signed an order to that effect last week.

About the time that Spezio's creditors pressed Martino received a Black Hand letter telling him to put $3,000 in a stone-breaking machine at Manhattan Avenue and Leonard Street at 10 o'clock on a certain night. The letter bore the signature of E. Fragella. The author warned Martino that his life would not be worth anything if he failed to give up the money.

Martino had some papers relating to the sale of his bank to Spezio, and he thought he detected Spezio's handwriting in the letter. United States District Attorney Youngs employed a handwriting expert, who was of the same opinion, and Spezio was indicted by a Federal Grand Jury on the charge of using the mails unlawfully. He lives at 2,815 West Fifteenth Street, Coney Island. Martino lives at 634 North Second Street.

Collector Loeb Ordered to Accept Bond on "Merry Widow" Gowns.

Henry W. Savage won yesterday a victory when the Board of General Appraisers directed Collector Loeb to accept his bond on costumes used in the "Merry Widow" and brought into this country when the company returned from Canada.

The costumes, which had come from France, had been used only twice, and Collector Loeb exacted duty, although Mr. Savage contended that entry should have been granted under a bond. General Appraiser Hay in his decision said:

"The tender was tantamount to giving the bond in so far as the same was necessary to comply with regulations. The law gives to the protestant the right of free entry of merchandise upon compliance with the regulations. He did all in his power to comply with these regulations, and he cannot be deprived of his rights by the Government officer's refusal to permit him to comply with the conditions precedent to the right of free entry.

"The protest is sustained and the Collector directed to grant free admission to the articles in question upon the protestant giving bond as provided in the customs regulations of 1908."

MEMORIAL TO DR. DIX.

Trinity Vestrymen Decide to Erect a Chapel to the Late Rector.

The vestrymen of Trinity Church have decided to erect a chapel on the north side of the chancel of Old Trinity as a memorial to the late Dr. Dix, who for forty-six years was rector of the church. The chapel will be lined with stone and will resemble as closely as possible the architecture of the church itself, of which it will be a part. It will extend thirty feet or more into the historic old graveyard and will seat forty persons. The entrance will be in the north porch.

Not only will it serve as a fitting memorial to the late Dr. Dix but it will be of great service in the work of Trinity, as the early daily celebrations of communion will be conducted in it as well as wedding and funeral services, thus relieving the church, which is taxed to the utmost during the entire year.

The new chapel will also be the repository of the large number of historical tablets and monuments, including the tomb of Bishop Onderdonk, now in the north porch of the Church. In the memorial chapel they will always be on view.

Comedies to Close for the Summer.

"The Arcadians," at the Knickerbocker, and "Her Husband's Wife," at the Criterion, will close for the Summer next Saturday night. The former will reopen at the same theatre on Monday, Aug. 1, and will continue there until Aug. 27, when the musical piece will be taken to the Colonial Theatre, Boston. Most of the principals of the company will spend their month's vacation in Europe. "Her Husband's Wife" will open again in New York early in September for a short run before going to England.

W. H. Crane to Make Air Ship Trip.

William H. Crane yesterday cabled to Charles Frohman's office from Munich that he and Mrs. Crane had engaged passage for the first trip on the new airship line between Munich and Oberammergau. This new line uses a Zeppelin airship and will be conducted like the line established last week. The fare between Munich and Oberammergau is $38, and the distance is 60 miles.

BO'S'N IS A JAPHET SEEKING A FATHER

CROCODILE GOT HIS TOE

Devoted Parent Had It Nipped Off to Supply His Heir with a Charm Against Ills.

An Oriental Japhet in search of a father is Abdul Howat, the slim, swathy bo's'n of the British freighter Bloemfontein, which now lies at Bush's Stores, South Brooklyn, with a cargo from the Far East.

The yarn of the Arab begins when he was 10 years old, when he lost his father, or, rather when he lost the little toe of his left foot, for the loss of that toe looms large in his story. The search has already taken him into many countries and he speaks many languages, including English. Seated on the deck of the steamship, amid the activities of unloading, the high-born one yesterday spun his yarn. In order to make it more impressive and to pose for a photograph, he donned his Arab robes.

Abdu Howat, son of an Arabian Sheikh, was born thirty-five years ago. His mother died when he was very young and his father brought him up, or, rather, about, for Abdul the elder was a nomad. When the son was 10 years old his father got into a dispute with the British authorities and, as it ended disastrously, the Sheikh decided to efface himself. There is an old superstition among the Arabs, to quote the bo's'n, that a person who has been maimed by a Nile crocodile and escaped with his life will thereafter be immune from sickness and come unscathed through any danger.

Before disappearing from Aden the father took the son to Sawakin, on the Red Sea, and from there crossed to an encampment near Berber. There with much ceremony a young crocodile was pressed into service to make the Sheikh's heir immune for life. The left foot of the struggling lad was swathed in bandages all except the little toe. The member was then held out as a tempting titbit to the crocodile, which promptly nipped off the wiggling toe. It took as many to hold the crocodile as it did to hold the boy to prevent him from maiming his devoted parent. The crocodile amputation over, the father robbed the saurian of his plunder and suspended it with a string about the boy's neck. This was to be his identification mark. The bo's'n did not venture to exhibit this talisman.

Like the poetical Arab, the Sheikh then silently folded his tent and departed into the Nubian desert. In the land where clothes are few and there is no problem as to the cost of living, Abdul grew into a strong, wiry youth. As he grew older he began to think of his father, and a magic word written by his father on his neck ornament haunted him.

Then the modern Japhet started on his search for a father. Leaving the banks of the Nile, he became a driver of camels, then a dragoman in Northern Africa, a small merchant in Cairo, a handy man in Calcutta, a porter in Colombo, and a sailor. In his wanderings he picked up a bit of Chinese, Hindustanee, Japanese, English, and some Indian dialects.

Once he heard from an old Arab that his father was in Tibet. Why he should go into Tibet puzzled the son, but he started out on the track which leads through India, across the Himalayas into the Land of Mystery. Near Lucknow he picked up information that the report was false and again he turned his face and his nine toes south.

The bo's'n was telling of that journey south when one of the officers interrupted to direct him to give an order to the Malay firemen, who were squatted forward on the deck. He gave the order. It sounded not unlike a repetition of the word on the talisman. Then he returned, gathered his Arab robes about him, tucked his short black and white checked skirt under him, pushed his fez over his left ear, and resumed his story.

One day along shore in Colombo an Arab who had been here with a circus troupe told him he thought his father was in America. He got his berth as bo's'n because of his knowledge of languages and sailed for American waters.

"My father must be an old man now," he said, but Allah tells me that he is still alive. Will I see him again?" Abdul looked reflectively at the place where his little toe ought to be and said: "Does Allah reign?"

Abdul will sail away in a few days and take up his search nearer the sacred spot by the Nile. Until convinced that the old Sheikh is dead he will go about the world crying "Lashtizia, lashtizia," whatever that means.

FALLS FROM STEEL BUILDING.

Laborer Strikes Iron Girder Before Reaching Cellar and Is Saved.

While Henry Haviland, a laborer, was at work on the second story of the Heidelberg Building, which is being erected on the site of the old Metropole Hotel, at Forty-second Street and Broadway, late yesterday afternoon, he lost his footing and fell 100 feet to the cellar.

On the way down he struck an iron girder, which broke his fall. Dr. Thompson of the New York Hospital, who responded to the ambulance call, found Haviland unconscious, though the only outward trace of his fall was a slight bruise on the wirst. The ambulance surgeon said that it was the drop through the air that caused Haviland to lose consciousness. It is expected that he will recover.

LIQUOR DEALERS PUZZLED.

Activity of Capt. Reidy in Brooklyn Causes Them to Anticipate Trouble.

Following the report of Police Captain Michael T. Reidy of the Stagg Street Police Station, Brooklyn, yesterday of sixty-three cases of excise violations in his precinct on Sunday, liquor dealers began wondering what might be in store for them next Sunday. All the other Captains in Brooklyn could find were sixteen violations, and they, too, are looking for something to break as a result of Capt. Reidy's record. The general opinion was that the commanders will show an unusual activity next Sunday.

Earl Moore, pitching almost better than he ever did before, served the Giants with a nice cluster of "goose-eggs" at the Polo Grounds yesterday, while a big Monday crowd looked on and was not a bit in sympathy with the Quaker boxman's sterling performance. He didn't let the Giants get anything that looked like a run, and three measly hits represent the New York stick work. Red Ames, while he wasn't so stingy with his hits, kept them from being turned into runs until the seventh, when some ragged support coupled with a brace of hits made the Phillies' runs an actuality. Both Moore and Ames started well, but Moore kept up the good work and Ames didn't. The score was 2 to 0.

The Giants got men on the bases several times and had large rosy chances of pushing over runs, but in each instance the necessary hit was missing, which, from a non-partisan point of view, of course, reflects more or less credit on Mr. Moore. Nevertheless there were those in the assemblage who had a profound desire to see Moore blow up, faint, throw the ball over the grandstand, or do something to help the Giants, for in no other way could they win while he was burning them through with an untouchable hop.

Ames frequently got himself into bad holes, but brilliantly wormed out of them. But he faltered once too often, and the crash came. In the first inning he walked Titus, who was sacrificed by Knabe, and then walked Grant. He forced Magee and Ward to hit into the sod and they were executed at first.

If Moore could only wave the ash as well as he can peg the ball he would have driven in a few more runs. In the second Walsh fanned, Doolan singled, and was out trying to gobble second. Morlan singled, and it was up to Moore. He fanned. Again in the fourth, Doolan singled and Moore stepped up and struck out. Once again in the sixth he did it. With two on, he fanned for the third out.

With one down in the second, Markle crashed the ball into left for two bases. A few inches more and it would have broken the seats in the bleachers.

The Phillies sent their first run across in the seventh. Titus singled to centre and Knabe beat out a bunt. Grant sacrificed them along a base. Magee sent a fly to short right which Murray grabbed and made a fine peg home in plenty of time to catch Titus, but Meyers permitted the ball to roll past him and Titus ran in from third. Ward fouled out to Meyers.

The next run came in the eighth. Walsh fanned and Doolan smashed out his fourth hit of the afternoon. Doolan rushed down to second and Bridwell had the ball in plenty of time, but he let it drift away from his mitts. Doolan went to third on Moran's out at first, and then Moore, after three failures, finally refrained from striking out. This time he whacked a single to right field, scoring Doolan.

With one out in the eighth, Moore got shaky and walked Devore and Doyle. Grant threw Murray out to Ward, and Seymour couldn't quite get it over Walsh's head in centre. Willie Keeler, batting for Fletcher in the ninth, shot a grounder at Grant. The ball took a bad bound and Keeler beat it out to first. Merkle flied to Knabe. Meyers smashed the ball to the left field bleachers for two bases, sending Keeler to third. Crandall, who had succeeded Ames in the ninth, was thrown out at first by Knabe.

Wish we could shoot off a sale like this every day.

21,500 pairs of pure silk socks at 35 cents a pair.

Last summer we got from one of our German manufacturers some pure silk socks which we sold at 50 cents.

That was then an unheard of price for all-silk socks, and the 13,000 pairs, which were all we could get, were all too few.

Since then there have been some other good silk socks sold at 50 cents, so we decided we must do better.

Increased competition among German manufacturers helped us, not to speak of the scare they've had from the production of competing lines in America.

They are pure silk by our own test.

Nine plain colors, with plenty of blacks.

35 cents a pair.

Brooklyn Supports Scanlon Well.

BOSTON, June 27.—Scanlon's good pitching and errorless support gave Brooklyn a 3-to-2 victory over Boston to-day. Two singles, a muff by Sweeney, a sacrifice fly and a two-bagger by Lennox netted the visitors two runs in the third, and put them in the lead. Manager Dahlen was put off the field for objecting too vigorously the umpire's decisions. Score:

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 27.—Chunky little Jack Quinn was the hero of the opening game of to-day's double header, which the Yankees won from the Senators after a desperate ten-inning struggle by 4 to 3. Washington has never beaten Quinn, and although he was hit harder than Walker, managed to keep the safe swats well spread out. The second game was a pitchers' battle between Manning and Groom. The former was invincible until the sixth inning, when he weakened a little, and McAleer's braves bunched three hits. The contest ended in favor of Washington 2 to 1.

Errors were frequently made by both clubs and counted in the run-getting. Two misplays at critical stages lost Washington a chance to grab the curtain-raiser, while a "boot" by Jack Knight, with men on bases, paved the way for the Yankee defeat in the second contest.

When it was announced that Quinn would twirl the first game the big crowd groaned. Things did not look so bad after the opening inning as the Senators, by clean hitting, sent in a run. Then for four innings both sides went down in order.

In New York's half of the fifth inning Gardner was safe on Conroy's error. Knight's grounder forced Gardner at second. Austin laid down a single and Sweeney smashed the ball to deep right, sending home Knight. Quinn's roller to McBride forced Sweeney at second, but Austin scampered home on the play.

Washington forged ahead in the second half of this chapter on hits by Unglaub and Lelivelt, together with errors by Gardner and Knight.

Indications pointed to a local victory when the ninth inning opened and Laporte, the first man up, fouled to Street, but Gardner came across with a vicious three-base clout to left and Knight's liner was muffed by Milan, permitting Gardner to cross the plate and tie the score.

The home rooters appealed for some old-fashioned batting, but little Quinn was invincible, and not a Senator saw first base. New York won the game in the tenth. Sweeney again started the trouble with a safe drive to centre. Quinn's sacrifice sent him to second. Hemphill drove a hot grounder at McBride, who threw to Conroy in an attempt to nip Sweeney at third. The ball struck between Sweeney's broad shoulders and rolled to the grand stand. Before it could be recovered the Yanks' husky backstop was over the plate with the much-needed run, winning the game.

Groom got off to a bad start in the second game and more gloom surrounded the home fans. After Hemphill had fanned in the first chapter Wolter crashed to short centre. The ball got past Milan and rolled to the fence, allowing Wolter to reach the three-quarter stretch. Capt. Hal Chase rapped out a pretty single and Wolter scored New York's only run, as Groom tightened up and pitched gilt-edged ball during the remainder of the contest.

It looked bad for the home team in the sixth inning, when the Yankees had the bases loaded and two men retired. A hit by Mitchell would have won the game, but his best effort was a fly to Lelivelt.

Washington got to Manning in the sixth inning. Lelivelt and Elberfeld laid down singles. Killifer's grounder was fumbled by Knight just long enough to allow every runner a safe journey to the next sack, and McBride blasted the pellet through Austin, scoring Lelivelt and Elberfeld.

Sweeney was the heavy hitter in the opener and in addition caught a splendid game. Hal Chase, as usual, brought the crowd to its feet by several sensational stops.

Athletics Win a Double Header.

PHILADELPHIA, June 27.—Philadelphia defeated Boston in both games of to-day's double header by scores of 6 to 2 and 8 to 1. Splendid pitching by Krause and Bender and errorless fielding in both games gave the victories to the home team. Scores:

J. R. KEENE'S BALLOT BEATS KING JAMES

Notter Keeps His Mount in Front Throughout in Race for Advance Stakes.

James R. Keene's great six-year-old Ballot amply atoned for his defeat in the Suburban Handicap at Sheepshead Bay yesterday, when he easily won the Advance Stakes, the feature race of an excellent programme offered by the Coney Island Jockey Club. Of the seven that were carded to start five were withdrawn, and the race narrowed to a match between S. C. Hildreth's King James and the Keene horse. The Advance is a weight-for-age race at the trying mile and five-sixteenths distance, and the clever manner in which Ballot took the measure of the son of Plaudit and Unsightly left no doubt of his superiority over the Hildreth horse.

King James was a rarely good horse himself, but he had found his master over any distance. Shilling made no mistakes, and although the early pace was fast he had his mount well in hand to the head of the stretch, depending upon the gameness of his mount to outfight Ballot through the last quarter. King James responded nobly to the drive, but Ballot had a great deal left when Shilling called on his mount, and it was not necessary for Notter to even hurry Ballot to withstand the challenge.

Next in racing importance to the Advance was a handicap at a mile, in which Sir John Johnson, from the Beverwyck Stable, was returned the winner. The race was marred by a bad start, and Restigouche had little chance, while Candleberry, the Richard T. Wilson, Jr., starter, might as well have been in the stable for any chance he had. It was a battle royal all the way between Sir John Johnson and George Odom's Nimbus, and the big sprinter just lasted long enough to score after standing a furious stretch drive. The summaries:

FIRST RACE.—For two-year-olds, selling; five and a half furlongs, Futurity course.

Charges Against Evers.

PITTSBURG, June 27.—The Pittsburg National League Baseball Club to-day preferred charges against Second Baseman John Evers of the Chicago Club. The complaint, which was sent to President Lynch of the National League, is that Evers's conduct in Saturday's game with Pittsburg was unbecoming a player. It is charged that Evers "made faces" at spectators in the grand stand when they "rooted" in ridicule of Chicago's playing.

PLAY POLO FOR TWO CUPS.

Meadow Brook First Team and Rockaway Victors at Westbury.

Special to The New York Times.

WESTBURY, L. I., June 27.—Some exceedingly fast and clever polo was seen on the estate of J. S. Phipps at Westbury this afternoon, when four teams lined up, each playing for two different cups.

In the first match the Meadow Brook First played the Meadow Brook Freebooters for the Meadow Brook Club Cups. The first team won by a score of 10 goals to 7½ for the freebooters, who lined up with E. S. Reynal, Lawrence Waterbury, Devereaux Milburn, and J. G. Milburn, Jr., with a total team handicap of 25 goals. On the winning team were J. S. Phipps, J. M. Waterbury, Jr., Harry Payne Whitney, and Harold C. Phipps, with a total handicap of 27 goals.

Rockaway four, with Robert J. Collier, Rene La Montagne, Jr., John E. Cowdin, and J. Cheever Cowdin, played against Meadow Brook for the Westbury Challenge Cup and won by a total score of 8½ to 2½ goals.

Upholding the colors of Meadow Brook were Raymond Belmont and J. A. Burden, Jr., who were the star players for their team, and C. C. Rumsey and W. G. Lowe, who also did some masterful work. Although the conditions of the match called for a game without handicap, the Meadow Brooks until the last three minutes of play showed championship form and led by a quarter of a goal. At this point of the game Rene La Montagne was struck on the knee by the ball and time was called for a few minutes. When the game was resumed Robert Collier got the ball after an effective play, and with two well-directed strokes made a beautiful goal and won the game for Rockaway.

HARRY LEWIS WINS TITLE.

American Beats Young Josephs for Welterweight Championship of England

LONDON, June 27.—Harry Lewis, the American fighter, defeated Young Josephs of England in the eight rounds of a twenty-round contest before the National Sporting Club to-night. The fight was for the welterweight championship of England and a purse of $3,000 a side. Lewis led all the way, Josephs's seconds throwing up the sponge after he had taken the count three times.

Fairmont's Boxing Card To-night.

An all-star boxing show has been arranged for the members of the Fairmont A. C. to-night at the clubhouse, 231-233 East 137th Street, near Third Avenue. The centre of interest will undoubtedly hinge on the ten-round bout between Jack Dorman, the Bronx lightweight, who recently made such a good showing with Jack Goodman, and Danny Goodman, the popular east side boy. Another bout that should please the spectators will also be of ten rounds between Matt Wells, an English lightweight, who has won three contests since coming to this country, and Charley Lawrence, while Young Ahearn will meet Mike Grady in a six-round bout.

Giants Lose Albany Claim.

CINCINNATI, June 27.—The National Baseball Commission to-day handed down a decision in which it exempted the Albany Club from any liabilities in regard to its failing to play the New York National League team in Albany on April 24 last. The New York Club asserted that Albany had elicited a game and it had agreed to play. The evidence showed that no agreement between the two clubs had ever been reached. New York's claim for $500 damages was disallowed.

REGATTA PARTIES REACH NEW LONDON

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 27.—From the early arrivals in this spacious harbor here it is evident that in quality and quantity the spectacle made by craft on the Thames incident to the Yale-Harvard regatta on Thursday will easily be the most brilliant that ever assembled here. Already boats are arriving and taking up anchorages in the river.

The first of the large Government boats to reach here was the dispatch boat Dolphin, with George Von L. Meyer, Secretary of the Navy, aboard. Secretary Meyer's son, George, Jr., is in the Harvard freshman eight.

Because of the crush to obtain places in the river, four United States revenue cutters have been assigned. The first of the quartet, the Gresham, came into the harbor this afternoon. The others are due to-morrow. The most rigid rules in the history of Yale-Harvard boat races will be necessary to police the course, and the revenue cutters have hard service cut out for them.

The Tarolinto, owned by Chester W. Bliss, has been reported in the harbor. The yacht came up to the Harvard quarters to-day and the entire party, who are keen Harvard rooters, came ashore and called on the oarsmen, and Robert Bacon, '80, Ambassador to France, who with his wife and two daughters, are at Redtop.

Commodore James of the New York Yacht Club is in the harbor in the Commodore's yacht Alpha, but has not been officially reported.

Special to The New York Times.

GALES FERRY, Conn., June 27.—No disappointment was felt at the Yale crew quarters to-day because whitecaps churned the surface of the Thames until rowing was an impossibility on the regular course. The rough water kept the rowing squad indoors this morning, except for making a few racing starts and engaging in a paddle of three miles in the sheltered cove just above the quarters.

Yale's rowing to-night was more strenuous than was expected. Coach Kennedy took out the 'Varsity eight alone and drove it up the river three miles. The crew returned at a 32 stroke, that was raised to 36 in the last half mile. The form shown was the best of the year.

The freshmen eight rowed two miles up the river and back, and the fours went up a mile and back. The unusual amount of work done was because of the cool weather.

Yale's quarters are filling up rapidly with guests, including former oarsmen who are here to row on the graduates' eight against Harvard Wednesday afternoon.

Niedecken, who rowed No. 7 ten years ago, arrived to-night. He will pull the same stroke in the Yale "gentleman's eight" on Wednesday. Other guests are Bobby Burch, the former Yale football Captain; Jack Perrin, who was President of the Yale Navy last year, and Ben Sanderson, 1909. Averill Harriman, son of the late Edward H. Harriman, came up the river to-night with a Yale party in his power boat. They followed the Yale crews up the river this evening. Young Harriman is a Yale freshman, and was a member of the freshman crew until April, when it was decided he was too light in weight and he gave up rowing.

Yale has abandoned the graduates' eight race which was scheduled for Wednesday afternoon with the Harvard alumni octet. Because of the fact that Yale held her commencement exercises last Wednesday it has been found impossible to get enough alumni together to form the eight.

Special to The New York Times.

RED TOP, Conn., June 27.—A case of sea sickness, which prostrataed Keays, Lincoln, and Warren of the Harvard freshman eight, prevented the crimson boat from going out this morning, but this evening Medical Examiner Ladd had the trio in condition, and they were in the shell as usual. They became indisposed during their sail yesterday on Long Island Sound.

All of Harvard's work to-day was of the lightest order, and was devoted to racing starts and paddles. The Harvard second eight was disbanded because the Yale second 'Varsity eight refused its challenge for a race. Smith and Wiggin went home, but Hooper and Waite were kept here as 'Varsity substitutes.

WRIGHT TO PLAY WILDING.

American Reaches Final Match in All-England Tennis Championship.

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 27.—Beals C. Wright of Boston qualified for the final singles in the all-England tennis championship tournament to-day, defeating A. H. Lowe in the semi-finals 6-3, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Wright's opponent in the finals will be A. F. Wilding, the New Zealander, who was a member of the Australasian team which successfully defended the Davis trophy a year ago.

LIQUIDATION ON DECLINE

Bearish Operations and Rumors Decided Factor in Day's Trading—Crop News More Reassuring.

In the many telegrams from leading bankers in the Dakotas and Minnesota printed in this newspaper yesterday morning, as well as in the day's advices direct from the Spring wheat fields, there was found by the financial community encouragement for the belief that the Spring wheat crop, as it now stands, is by no means to be added to the very few failures of the past. Between the transmission of the telegrams from the bankers and their publication yesterday the situation as a whole underwent considerable improvement, owing to the fairly substantial rains which fell in South Dakota and in Minnesota. In North Dakota alone does the drought remain unbroken, but yesterday's grain markets seemed not unduly disturbed over the position there, since wheat prices were little more than firm most of the day, with a final advance of something over a point upon covering by nervous shorts rather than as a result of any fresh word from the fields. It must be admitted, however, that uncertainty still exists over the outcome upon wheat of the trying weather to which it has been submitted, and working upon this yesterday, and calling to their assistance in addition the customary disquieting rumors regarding matters far removed from the crops, including the health of Mr. Morgan, an active group of bearish speculators made havoc of prices on the Stock Exchange. Declines of 3 points or more were effected in such stocks as Union Pacific, St. Paul, Northern Pacific, Southern Pacific, Reading, and United States Steel, and before half of these losses had been sustained there had, of course, been provoked a volume of liquidation sufficient to account for the rest of the declines.

It is a standing matter of comment in conservative Wall Street quarters that those in authority on the Stock Exchange do not strain every resource to run down and punish those responsible for the circulation of such reports as that which was circulated yesterday concerning Mr. Morgan. It is understood that some sort of an investigation of this "rumor factory" has been under way, but the product has in no wise been curtailed, nor will it be until far more drastic proceedings have been undertaken. Needless to say, Mr. Morgan appeared at his office at his usual hour and in his usual health, but the uneasiness created by the morning reports had already brought prices to a level where further liquidation was inevitable. The market closed weak and at practically the lowest quotations of the day. Real news outside that bearing on crop prospects, which it should be said are of unusual promise everywhere save in the Northwest, was of little more than passing interest, although the gradual and healthful slowing down of the business machine was indicated in two items, one having to do with the proposal of the Amalgamated Copper Company properties to shut down on Sundays hereafter and the other with the agreement of fifty-eight large cotton mills of the South to suspend all operations for four weeks during July and August.

Local money market conditions were unchanged. An early rise in demand sterling in the foreign exchange market petered out before the end of the day. The banks reported a somewhat heavier loss than usual to the Sub-Treasury on routine transactions, the drain having amounted to a trifle over $2,000,000 since Friday last. Money was somewhat harder in London, in connection with the current Stock Exchange settlement and the midyear disbursements. The stock market was reported heavy, the cables noting the circulation of rumors there somewhat akin to those which were features of our own market.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 27.—Heavy selling and sharp declines in United States Steel and Lehigh Valley were the chief movements of an otherwise dull session on the Stock Exchange. The sales of Steel during the first hour alone totaled nearly 7,000 shares. The drop was merely a reflection of what was going on in Wall Street, but, nevertheless, some of the selling came from significant sources. Lehigh Valley was much less active than the arbitrage stocks, but it was down nearly 3 points at one time.

MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS.

MISSOURI, KANSAS & TEXAS RAILWAY COMPANY.

NOTICE OF SPECIAL STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a special meeting of the Stockholders of Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway Company has been called by the Board of Directors of said Company, to be held at the general office of the Company, in the City of Parsons, Kansas, on Saturday, the 30th day of July, 1910, at 90:90 o'clock A. M., for the following purposes;

(a) To consent to, approve and authorize an increase of the bonded indebtedness of the Company by the creation of mortgage gold bonds of the Company, to be limited to a principal amount at any one time outstanding of not exceeding $125,000,000 in gold coin of the United States; such bonds to bear interest from April 1, 1910, at such rate or rates, not exceeding five per cent. per annum, as the Board of Directors of the Company may, from time to time, determine; to mature at such date; to be issuable for such purposes and in such denominations; to be payable, both principal and interest, at such place or places, in such currency or currencies and at such fixed rate or rates of exchange, and to be in such form and to contain such terms and provisions as said Board may determine;

(b) To consent to, approve and authorize the execution and delivery to secure said bonds of a mortgage and deed of trust on and of the railroads, equipment, franchises and property, including corporate stocks and obligations, owned by the Company at the date of the execution and delivery of such mortgage and deed of trust, or at any time thereafter acquired by it by the use of any of such bonds or their proceeds;

(c) To approve the form and terms of such mortgage and deed of trust, or to authorize the Board of Directors, in its discretion, to determine the form and terms thereof and the property of the Company to be embraced therein;

(d) To ratify and confirm and to authorize and consent to any action theretofore taken or authorized by said Board of Directors and which may be submitted to the meeting, whether for the purposes of or in connection with or in contemplation of any of the matters aforesaid or otherwise; and

(e) To transact such other business as may be brought before the meeting.

The stock transfer books of the Company will be closed for such meeting on Thursday, the 30th day of June, 1910, at 3:00 o'clock P. M., and will be reopened on Monday, the 1st day of August, 1910, at 10:00 o'clock A. M.

Dated, Parsons, Kansas, May 31, 1910.
By order of the Board of Directors.
EDWIN HAWLEY,
Chairman of the Board.
C. N. WHITEHEAD, Secretary.

To the Stockholders of the

A. M. FRASER, Secretary.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Curtailing Copper Output.

Coincident with the news from Butte that the Amalgamated Copper Company had decided to discontinue Sunday work were reports of sales of copper metal by interests outside the larger selling agencies at a trifle under 12½ cents a pound. The two happenings were altogether unconnected, although in a way the curtailment indicated by the Amalgamated's action might be supposed to point to unmarketable supplies of copper. The feeling in the trade seems to be that the Amalgamated's step will mean a curtailment in production of not less than 10 per cent., but this after all is not a great percentage of the output of the country, and will not get stocks down very substantially unless, indeed, it leads to similar action on the part of other large producers. No real attempt was made to explain the closing of the Butte works on Sunday, although there was a suggestion that the step had been taken because the smelters were unable to handle the additional output of the recently purchased Clark mines.

Discouraging the Land Boom.

A good deal of interest was created in banking circles yesterday by a dispatch from Topeka to the effect that insurance companies making a specialty of investment in farm mortgages had raised their rates in the central part of Kansas to 7 per cent., the highest interest demanded since 1895 on this class of security. Some uneasiness has undoubtedly existed over the speculation in land in the West, and this speculation had been very materially fostered by the liberality of insurance companies and State banking institutions in advancing money upon mortgages. Any sign, therefore, of a tendency toward conservatism on the part of lenders on land is hailed here as a good sign.

Stocks Near Year's Lowest.

The pressure put upon the market yesterday was severe enough to bring a number of stocks almost to the lowest prices of the year, while a few issues sold lower than at any previous time since Jan. 1 last. Rock Island Company common and preferred both made new low records, and such active and conspicuous stocks as Amalgamated Copper, American Smelting, and United States Steel were within small fractions of their previous low record for the year, the first and last named of these three stocks going within a quarter of their previous low point and the other within a half of its lowest. Besides these a number of other stocks, including Atchison, Great Northern, and St. Paul, were only from one to two points above the lowest level to which they had declined in the previous selling movement which culminated in the first week in June.

Morgan Rumors Again.

While J. P. Morgan was occupying himself with his usual energy in his inner office at Broad and Wall Streets yesterday rumor had him dead. It was also said that he had undergone a serious operation, and the more conservative channels of gossip conceded his illness at least. Meanwhile the Governing Committee of the Stock Exchange has adjourned for the Summer, and it is understood that the talk of a month ago, when rumors of Mr. Morgan's ill health while he was abroad were being industriously used to depress the market, that the Exchange would probe to the source of these loaded fakes came to nothing. While the stories undoubtedly helped the decline in yesterday's market, they were too promptly denied to have been a real factor in the sustained weakness.

***

First Bale of Cotton Here.

The reports of last week that the appearance of first bales of cotton were being properly celebrated in various centres of Texas were confirmed yesterday by the arrival here of a real bale of new cotton at the Exchange. It was grown near Medcedes, Texas.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, June 27.—The weakness in the New York market to-day had its effect upon prices in Boston, and under the lead of Amalgamated, which declined 2 points, the general list is all from a fraction to a couple of points lower. Among the issues active in the day's trading were Amalgamated, Lake Copper, and North Butte. The market closed weak at the decline.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Happenings of a Day in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, June 27.—Money was in good supply and fair demand to-day. Discount rates were easy.

The Bank of England obtained the bulk of the $4,000,000 South African gold arrivals.

Traders on the Stock Exchange were principally occupied with the settlement. American carry-over rates are quoted at 4½ per cent. Consols eased a quarter of a point on realizing, but most of the other sections were steady, especially rubbers and Canadians.

American securities opened dull, and then advanced on light covering. Later New York selling depressed the leaders from 1 to 2 points, and the market closed easy.

Bar silver steady at 24 11-16d per ounce.

Money, 2½ per cent.; rate of discount in the open market for short bills, 2½ per cent.; for three months' bills, 2⅝ per cent.

Gold premiums are quoted as follows: At Madrid, 7.4c; at Lisbon, 7.

PARIS June 27.—Trading was dull and prices generally heavy on the Bourse to-day.

BERLIN, June 27.—Prices were firm on the Boerse to-day on favorable New York advices.

Money, 3½ per cent.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Redmond & Co. are offering to yield 4⅝ per cent. first mortgage 5 per cent. bonds guaranteed by the Southern Pacific Company and secured by a direct first mortgage at the rate of only $15,700 a mile on 191 miles of road of the Southern Pacific system. The bonds are listed on the Stock Exchange.

Halligarten & Co. are offering at 99 and dividend from June 15 the unsold balance of $2,000,000 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock of the Pabst Brewing Company. A large part of the issue has already been placed here and in Europe. Subscriptions will be opened at 10 o'clock to-morrow and close at 3 o'clock or earlier. An initial payment of $10 per share must accompany all subscriptions and the balance will be payable on July 1.

Farson, Son & Co. are offering at par and interest $400,000 first mortgage 6 per cent. bonds of George W. Jackson, Incorporated, dated June 15, 1910, and maturing serially at the rate of $50,000 per annum up to June 15, 1919. These bonds are a first obligation on Chicago improved real estate valued at over $1,250,000.

GETS FRISCO LINE'S BONDS.

Drexel & Co. Take $1,000,000 of a 4 Per Cent. Refunding Issue.

The Kansas City, Fort Scott & Memphis Railroad, which is part of the St. Louis & San Francisco system, has sold to Drexel & Co. of Philadelphia a block of a little over $1,000,000 4 per cent. refunding bonds. This is understood to be the first time that Drexel & Co. have purchased bonds of the Frisco system, and thus the transaction represents an extension of the financial connections of that line.

It is not understood in banking circles here, however, that this sale means any change in the financial relationships previously established by the Frisco. That any such inference was to be drawn was denied yesterday by a representative of the Frisco interests. Speyer & Co. have been the purchasers of all the St. Louis & San Francisco general 5s, but other recent sales of bonds by this system have been taken by other bankers too.

THE COMMODITIES MARKETS.

There were a few scattered rains over Sunday in the Northwest, but none of any importance, and the wheat market after some irregularity early developed decided strength in the afternoon, with sensational advance in Winnipeg. The close was at extreme prices, with all deliveries at Chicago over the dollar mark. The Northwest was up 2c to 8c and Winnipeg nearly 5c. The excitement in the Spring wheat markets was directly due to the weather and crop news. This was of an extremely pessimistic character, and there seems to be a growing confidence that the damage will be very material, indeed, if there are no rains within the next week or ten days. Conservative estimates now assert that there has been from 15 to 20 per cent. damage in the American Northwest. Winter wheat markets showed only moderate advance. There was a decrease in the visible supply of 1,958,000 bushels, and the total supply in the country is only 13,142,000 bushels, against 11,280,000 bushels at the end of the crop year 1909. Dispatches from Winnipeg claimed that there had been serious damage through the Canadian Northwest on account of the dry weather, and that rain was urgently needed. The reports regarding the yields of Winter wheat are very satisfactory, however, and there is scarcely a word of complaint from any portion of the Winter wheat belt. There were fairly good rains over Sunday throughout nearly the entire region. This is not unfavorable unless the rains should continue. Foreign markets were somewhat higher, but still show a decided indifference. Cash wheat was dull. Exporters reported 12 carloads Manitoba wheat late Saturday. No. 2 red was quoted at $1.06, cost, insurance, and freight, to arrive; $1.07⅛, free on board, nominal; No. 1 Northern Spring, $1.26¼, nominal, and No. 2 hard Winter, $1.10¼.

Corn was active and weak at the opening on the good rains through the corn States over Sunday. Prices were down from 1c to 1¼c, the market slowly rallying during the day, but closed at a net loss of about 1c. The improvement in the weather conditions was general in the corn States, and had a decided influence on the situation. The visible supply increased 81,000 bushels. No. 2 corn in elevator was quoted at 68c, nominal, and the same price, nominal, free on board, afloat.

Oats opened down 1c to 1½c on the weather conditions. There were good rains in a large part of the oats raising territory, and some rains in the Lower Northwest. These rains have relieved the crops over a large area, although there is still a great deal of anxiety regarding the Northwest. The market rallied and closed with most of the loss regained. Cash oats were quoted with natural white at 45@47½c, white clipped at 46½@49c.

Provisions were dull and slightly easier. The market was influenced somewhat by the better weather conditions for feeding grain and a little disposition to sell by local operators West.

COTTON.

There was a drooping tendency in the cotton market. Prices were influenced by the weather, the cables, and the trade returns. The cables were dull and lower, and the advices from Manchester and the Lancashire district generally were adverse. The Manchester trade is very slow, while stocks of yarns are reported increasing, and there were private cable advices of financial difficulties in the Lancashire district. The reports from New England showed no improvement in the trade situation, while curtailment is increasing and the short time on the part of the mills is expected to be larger the next two months than any time yet. Advices from the South also indicate a rather important curtailment during July and August. The weather conditions over Sunday were more favorable. There were more rains in the Western districts, with somewhat more favorable reports from the middle Gulf districts. The reports regarding the boll weevil in Louisiana are, however, causing a good deal of anxiety, but the cotton area in that State is a small one this year. There is also a good deal of complaint from the Carolinas. There was some selling of July, thought to be against spot cotton, and it was reported that the notices Tuesday would be possibly 10,000 or 12,000 bales. The amount of cotton certificated during the past month has been only about 10,600 bales. There was a further decrease in the certificated stocks, and the total is now less than 100,000 bales. It is understood that there are several lots more of cotton to go out in the next ten days. Southern spot markets were unchanged, to 7-16 lower.

New York spot cotton dull, 10 decline; middling uplands, 15c.; middling Gulf, 15.25c.

COFFEE.

Coffee was moderately active with sales of 25,750 bags, of which 6,000 bags were in the form of exchanges from September to May at 5 points and from September to December on even basis. Prices early were 5 points higher for June, and unchanged for other positions, but near the close there was considerable liquidation in the July position, and final figures were net 5 points lower for the near positions, and unchanged to 5 points higher for the later months. Trading was mostly of a local character, and the undertone was generally steady. Havre was ¼ to ½f higher, Hamburg was unchanged to ¼ pfennig advance, and in Brazil, Rio was unchanged and Santos unchanged to 25 reis higher. Receipts at Rio and Santos were 21,000 bags, against 17,000 bags last week, and 41,000 bags last year. Advices from Havre stated that it had been announced in Europe on June 13 that the final 50,000 bags of valorization coffee to be sold this season had been disposed of in America. This was the first intimation the trade had received that the sale had been made.

Warehouse deliveries of Brazilian coffee at United States ports last week were 77,415 bags, compared with 86,617 bags the previous week, and 57,266 bags last year. The visible supply of Brazilian coffee in and afloat for the United States is 2,744,695 bags, against 3,296,601 bags last year, and 3,432,983 bags two years ago. Spot coffee steady, 8 5-16c for Rio No. 7.

Attention is directed to a letter of Colonel Gustave Pabst, President of the Company, which he has summarized as follows:

The Company was established in 1842 with a total output of about 300 barrels during the first year. The sales of the Company have increased with few exceptions, annually. The total output for 1910 is conservatively estimated at about 1,000,000 barrels.

The Company owns 428 properties in 187 cities and 209 ice houses in 209 cities.

The Gross Assets of the Company aggregated on December 31st, 1909, about $16,000,000, not taking into account the very valuable Goodwill, Brands, etc., which are not carried on the books as an asset.

Real Estate Investments and Buildings exceeded at very conservative valuation $8,000,000, which alone—after allowing for the bond issue—is equivalent to nearly three times the par value of the preferred stock.

The Sundry Capital Assets of the Company amounted to on December 31st, 1909, about $2,000,000 and the Quick Assets to about $6,000,000.

The average annual surplus earnings for the last five years, after deduction of bond interest, were $877,513.07.

The surplus earnings for the fiscal year ending December 31, 1909, after deduction of bond interest, were $943,480.14, which is equivalent to over 47% on the new issue of Preferred Stock, or about SEVEN TIMES the amount required for the dividend thereon.

The five months of the current fiscal year show an increase in net earnings over the same period of last year of about $150,000.

All legal particulars in connection with the above issue have been approved by our counsel, Messrs. Cravath, Henderson & de Gersdorff.

Application will be made to list the preferred stock on the New York Stock Exchange.

Temporary Certificates will be issued pending delivery of Definitive Certificates.

Having placed a large amount of this issue for permanent investment here and in Europe, we will receive subscriptions for the unsold balance at 99 per cent. and accrued dividend from June 15th, 1910, to date of delivery.

The subscription will be opened at 10 o'clock A. M. on Wednesday, June 29th, 1910, and closed at 3 o'clock P. M. the same day or earlier, the right being reserved to reject any application and to award a smaller amount than applied for. The undersigned reserve the right to close the subscription at any time without notice.

A first payment of $10 per $100 share subscribed for must accompany all subscriptions. The balance of the amount due on stock allotted upon subscriptions will be payable on July 1st, 1910, at the office of the undersigned, against temporary certificates exchangeable for engraved certificates as soon as ready.

If no allotment be made, the first payment will be repaid in full, and if only a portion of the amount applied for be allotted, the balance of the first payment will be applied towards the amount due on July 1st, 1910. No interest will be allowed on such first payment. If any further balance remains, such balance will be repaid. Failure to pay the second installment, when due, will render the previous payment liable to forfeiture.

International Traction Company

REPRESENTING FIFTY-YEAR 4% COLLATERAL TRUST GOLD BONDS

To the Holders of Bonds of the Above Issue:

At the request of a large number of the holders of the Fifty-Year 4% Collateral Trust Gold Bonds of the International Traction Company, secured by its indenture to the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, as Trustee, bearing date July 1, 1899, the undersigned committee has been organized to represent the interests of such bondholders.

The Traction Company, a corporation organized under the laws of the State of New Jersey, owns all of the stock of the International Railway Company, which is deposited under the above-mentioned collateral trust indenture and constitutes the main security for the Fifty-Year 4% Collateral Trust Gold Bonds. The Railway Company owns and operates the railway properties known as the International Traction System, all of which are located in the City of Buffalo and its vicinity.

The Traction Company has issued all of the bonds under the collateral trust indenture reserved for extensions and betterments of the property. There remain unissued $11,663,000 of bonds reserved exclusively for the acquisition or retirement of underlying bonds secured by liens on the property of the Railway Company.

For the payment of such underlying Railway bonds, the collateral trust indenture contemplated the issue and sale of an equal amount of the Fifty-Year 4% Collateral Trust Gold Bonds of the Traction Company reserved for such purpose. As the collateral trust bonds have a limited market and are selling much below par, they cannot provide sufficient funds to meet such underlying obligations, of which many will mature in the near future.

In view of this situation and of the fact that under the collateral trust indenture no more bonds can be issued for extensions or betterments demanded by the rapid and steady growth of the locality served by the International Traction System and required in the immediate future by the public authorities, there is urgent need for a prompt and complete reorganization of the finances and the legal status of the International Traction System. The urgency of this need is indicated by the foreshadowed inability of the Railway Company to pay the dividend on its stock necessary to enable the Traction Company to make its interest payments due next July on the Fifty-Year 4% Collateral Trust Gold Bonds.

This condition of the Railway Company has resulted, not from lack of earning power, but, on the contrary, from the rapid growth of its business, and the consequent necessity of devoting to improvements and extensions publicly demanded a large part of its earnings which have been the only resource of the Traction Company for such capital requirements since the exhaustion of collateral trust bonds reserved for such purposes. A statement received from the officers of the Company is appended hereto for the further information of bondholders upon this point. (See Appendix A.)

These facts will suggest the desirability of a prompt decision whether or not you should deposit your bonds under the agreement of which a copy is now sent to the several bondholders. The agreement recognizes the impendency of a default in the payment of the July interest on the collateral trust bonds, that foreclosure proceedings may ensue without delay, and that the interests of the bondholders will require protection through the Committee, empowered to acquire the pledged stocks of the Railway Company at the foreclosure sale, and to cause to be organized under the laws of the State of New York a new railroad company owning and operating some other railroad line which, by merger, shall acquire first the stock and then the physical properties of the Railway Company, (subject to its prior mortgages.) Under this agreement such new company is to execute a refunding mortgage constituting a first lien upon portions of the property of the International Railway Company, and a lien upon the other properties owned or controlled by the Railway Company, as embraced in the reorganization, subject to bonds secured by direct liens thereon, which mortgage is to authorize the issue of bonds secured thereby to be used for the purposes of the plan, and also is to contain proper provisions for the refunding of such outstanding bonds and for the issue, under carefully drawn restrictions and with the consent of the Public Service Commission, of bonds for future extensions, betterments and improvements. All of such new bonds are to bear interest at the rate of five per cent. per annum and to mature not earlier than the first day of July, 1940, that being the date of maturity of the present Fifty-Year 4% Collateral Trust Gold Bonds of the Traction Company.

The agreement contemplates further that, upon consummation of the plan, or earlier at the option of the Committee, in exchange for their deposited bonds, the depositing collateral trust bondholders, at their option, shall receive either (a) five per cent. refunding bonds of the new company to the amount of eighty per cent. of the par value of such deposited bonds, and accrued interest in full in cash on the deposited bonds from the date of the last interest payment thereon to the date from which the new bonds shall draw interest, or (b) cash to the amount of seventy per cent. of the par value of such deposited bonds, and also accrued interest in full on the deposited bonds from the date of the last interest payment thereon to the date fixed by the Committee for such cash payment.

Thus, ultimately, in place of such bonds the depositing bondholders would receive new bonds yielding as much interest on the investment and which should command a greater market value, the security being a direct lien on the physical property of the International Traction System instead of a collateral lien on stock, or else, should they prefer not to accept the new bonds, they could make sale of their present bonds at seventy cents on the dollar, a sum in excess of the present market price.

It will be observed that the agreement authorizes the Committee in its discretion to make provision for the stockholders of the Traction Company in the stock of the new railroad company.

If for any reason, whether because of a declination of the Public Service Commission to give the necessary prior consent to a satisfactory plan for the organization of the new company and the issue of its mortgage bonds or otherwise, the Committee shall deem it inexpedient to proceed with the plan, the bonds deposited with the Committee are to be returned to the depositors without expense.

Arrangements have been effected whereby J. P. MORGAN & CO. of New York City will act as depositary for the Committee, and on behalf of the Committee will issue transferable receipts for all deposited bonds.

APPENDIX A.

Capital Expenditures necessarily made from July 1, 1899, to December 31, 1909 ..... $12,070,000.00

Chargeable as follows:

(a) To sales of bonds and securities	$6,644,000.00
(b) To current assets	3,004,000.00
(c) To net earnings of the property	2,422,000.00
		$12,070,000.00

All the Fifty-Year 4% Collateral Trust Gold Bonds of the International Traction Company reserved for improvements have been sold, and the proceeds are included in subdivision (a) of the above statement.

Additional capital expenditures for the years 1910 and 1911, amounting to $2,750,000, will be necessary to meet Municipal contracts and Public requirements.

In view of past experience and the present condition of the property, the normal capital requirements of this growing system must now be estimated to be $1,000,000 per annum. The larger amount, $2,750,000, as indicated by the proposed capital expenditures for 1910 and 1911, is due to the fact that, because of the exhaustion of the 4% Collateral Trust Bonds provided for such purposes, the capital expenditures for the two preceding years, 1908 and 1909, were abnormally and harmfully low.

On the basis of the reorganization of the property, as now proposed, net earnings as at present would indicate a satisfactory margin over the amount necessary to pay the fixed charges of the reorganized company. The normal increase in net earnings should be more than sufficient to meet the additional fixed charges for future capital requirements.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Activity in Bronx Shown by Sale of Two Entire Blocks in Williamsbridge and Eight Lots on Timpson Place for Factory—Deals in Loft Zone.

Further indications were seen yesterday that so far as the Bronx is concerned there is plenty of activity in the real estate market. Indeed, there seems to be renewed activity on the part of investors to secure large plots, and to the sales of this character recorded during the last week was added yesterday the sale of two square blocks consisting of about eighty-four lots in Williamsbridge and fronting on Bronx Park East and Barker Avenue, between Wilgus Street and Britton Street. The Jere Altieri Company was the purchaser and Mella Hylekema the seller. D. A. Trotta was the broker in the sale.

The same broker has also sold for a client three five-story flats known as 1,567 Wilkins Avenue and 1,444 and 1,448 Crotona Park East. These sales aggregate over $350,000.

Buy Bronx Corner for Factory.

In addition to the above large transaction J. Clarence Davies sold eight lots in the Bronx on the northwest corner of Timpson Place and 145th Street for Breuchaud & King to Fisher Brothers, cabinetmakers. The buyers intend to utilize the plot for commercial purposes at once, erecting a large mill and factory.

19th Street Plot Changes Hands.

An important sale in the loft zone district was made yesterday by I. B. Wakeman, who sold for the Douglas Realty Company the two old dwellings at 151 and 153 West Nineteenth Street, on plot 46.7 by 90.10, between Sixth and Seventh Avenues. The plot will probably be improved with a mercantile building.

Sells Loft in 24th Street.

The plot 50 by 89.9 at 148 and 150 West Twenty-fourth Street, with the twelve-story loft now in course of construction on the property, has been sold by Alfred Rau to a Mr. Brown. The property is 150 feet east of Seventh Avenue.

West Side Apartment Deals.

Du Bois & Taylor, in conjunction with White & Pierce, have sold for Leonard Weill the five-story new law apartment house 204 West 148th Street, on plot 37.6 by 100. The purchaser, a client of Du Bois & Taylor, buys for investment.

Moore & Schutte have sold for Joseph P. Jacobs to a client for investment the six-story new law flat, on plot 25 by 100, at 247 West 143d Street.

Ferdinand Nagel has sold for Mrs. K. Fanning 1,788 Amsterdam Avenue, a five-story flat, on plot 75 by 100, to Ritterhoff & Block.

Resells Matthews Mansion.

Franklin Pettit has resold the old Matthews mansion at the northeast corner of Riverside Drive and Ninetieth Street, on plot 111 by 160. The property was recently purchased by Mr. Pettit from John B. Russell.

The Private House Market.

C. J. Elgar has sold for a client 18 West 128th Street, a three-story and basement private dwelling on plot 17.6 by 100, to Veronica Ford.

Brooks & Momand have sold for the Barney Estate Company to Sylvester G. Bryan 559 West 141st Street, a three-story and basement dwelling, on lot 25.4 by 100.

Will Build 14 Houses On Heath Av.

Lionel E. Levy has sold for a client of Morris B. Hayman to the University Heights Construction Company the plot 283 by 100 at the northeast corner of Heath Avenue and 229th Street. The buyer has obtained through the same broker a building loan for the construction of fourteen two-family houses.

Bronx Sales.

Barry Brothers have sold through Alexander Gerhardt, as broker, the four-story brick and brownstone apartment house at 1,550 Minford Place, on plot 30 by 37 by 100, to Mrs. M. Meyer. This is the last house of the row of similar buildings recently constructed by the sellers.

S. Cowen has sold a lot 25 by 100 on the west side of Longfellow Street about 125 feet south of Seneca Avenue, for S. S. Lincoln and a plot 50 by 100 on the south side of Garrison Avenue, seventy-five feet west of Bryant Avenue, for Mr. Govan.

Alexander Selkin, successor to the Prospect Realty Company, has sold 1,354 Teller Avenue for I. Brown to a client.

Recent Buyers.

Louis Levy is the buyer of the twelve-story loft building 114 and 116 West Twenty-seventh, Street, sold recently by M. A. Lazareff for Jacob Wolf in a trade for Eastern Parkway Hall, a two-story building, covering the triangular block bounded by Stone Avenue, Dean Street, and Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn. The loft building figured in the trade at $280,000.

Flow Realty Company, Henry L. Wolff, President, is the buyer of 764 West End Avenue, A. W. Corse was the broker.

Lowenfeld & Prager are the buyers of the block front on the west side of Audubon Avenue, between 187th and 188th Streets, sold recently by Patrick S. Tracy, G. A. Derschuch, W. J. Nolan, and the Columbian Board of Brokers negotiated the sale.

Jamaica Auction a Big Success.

The sale of 200 lots on Hillside Avenue, Grand Avenue, Highland Avenue, and Hillcrest Avenue last Saturday in the Jamaica-Hillcrest development, Jamaica, L. I., was a tremendous success. Every lot was sold, the average price being a little over $1,000. Jamaica residents and builders in the vicinity were among the largest buyers. Rodman W. Kellogg, a Jamaica attorney, paid $4,050 for the first plot offered. Among the other buyers were James C. Van Sicklen, who purchased a plot of ten lots at the northwest corner of Hillcrest and Highland Avenues; H. Lincoln Rogers, Willard Meyers, F. K. Seggerman, David J. Wagner, W. B. Cottell, Stephen Van Allen, Richard T. Hughes, Mrs. Mary Furney, Thomas A. Harvey, P. Crowley, M. Crashof, Edward J. McManus, A. J. Eggers, Jamaica Real Estate Co., and C. L. Sunnickson.

Throgg's Neck Lots Averaged $1,200.

At the sale of the 261 lots of Throgg's Neck Gardens last Saturday by Joseph P. Day, which was adjourned at 7:30, eighty-four lots were disposed of at a total of a little over $102,000, an average of $1,200 a lot. Mr. Day says that he is well satisfied with the interest taken in the sale. The shore-front lots with riparian rights sold for $2,000 to $3,000, and inside shore-front lots brought from $2,000 to $2,700. The former Turnbull residence and seven lots were disposed of for $14,600.

Buyers for Staten Island Lots.

George W. Bard of Mount Vernon had a very successful sale at auction of the lots at Arrochar, S. I., last Saturday afternoon. There was a large attendance and the bidding was brisk. Two hundred and thirty-two lots and three houses were sold. The amount realized was $74,753.

Nepperhan Tract Resold.

Oscar J. Mayer, who recently bought from E. D. Shephard & Co. their development of 400 lots at Nepperhan Heights, Yonkers, has resold the property to the Park View Realty Company of New York. The latter company has disposed of ninety-two lots.

Newtown Plot Transferred.

John W. Paris and others have conveyed to the Flushing Inlet Realty Company, subject to a mortgage of $30,000, a tract of land at Newtown on the east side of Jackson Mill Road, adjoining land of Isaac Rapelye. The premises front 823 feet on Jackson's Mill Road.

Dr. Garmary Buys at Bay Shore.

Dr. Jasper Jewett Garmary of New York City has purchased through Mrs. E. W. King as agent from the MacDonnell estate the property on the south corner of Clinton Avenue and Main Street, Bay Shore, L. I., consisting of two acres of ground with a large house and garage. It was occupied at one time by ex-Sheriff Frank D. Creamer of Brooklyn.

Suburban Sales.

Franklin C. Norton and others have contracted to sell to the New York City Water Front Company, for $65,000, three parcels of land at Arverne that have been in litigation for a number of years. The buyer secures a clear title. One parcel fronts on the ocean, the second is on the north side of Arverne Boulevard, 361 1-3 feet west of Frank Avenue, and the third parcel is on the south side of the Arverne Boulevard, adjoining the westerly line of the preceding parcel.

George E. Kilgore bought the Ocean House property at Far Rockaway, sold at auction on Saturday by Joseph P. Day in partition, together with an adjoining two-story cottage, for $45,000. Mr. Kilgore also bought the block front on the east side of Kensington Gardens, between Cedar Lane and Edgewater Crescent, 323.10 by 173 by 227, for $4,500.

Joseph P. Day sold at auction on Saturday at Long Branch the seventeen-room house and stable at 226 Bath Avenue, on plot 154.6 by 418.3, to George J. Roll for $11,750, and the adjoining house and stable at 242 Bath Avenue, to William A. Stevens for $10,000.

The T. B. Ackerson Company has recently sold at Brightwaters, fronting on the Great South Bay at Bay Shore, the following plots: 100 by 150 feet on Baldwin Boulevard; plot 100 by 150 feet, with a bungalow; 200 by 150 feet, on the corner of Potter Boulevard and Montauk Drive; plot 100 by 169.3 feet, on the corner of the Venetian Concourse West and Corinthian Court, and 100 by 218 feet, on the corner of Windsor Place and the Venetian Concourse.

Preparing for 23d Street Widening.

Plans have been filed for alterations to the four-story and basement store, office, and apartments at 20 East Twenty-third Street. The plans call for removing the front stoop, filling up the area to the street level, making a street level entrance, and putting in a new store front, at a cost of between $3,000 and $4,000, for the Woodlawn Cemetery Company, which is the owner.

More Room for Terminal Stores.

Plans have been filed for adding two stories to the seven-story brick warehouse of the Terminal Stores Company, on the north side of Twenty-seventh Street, 50.10 feet west of Eleventh Avenue, at a cost of $30,000. Otto M. Beck is the architect.

Receiver of Rents.

Justice Giegerich of the Supreme Court has appointed Max Altman receiver of the rents of 2,042 First Avenue, a six-story tenement, pending a suit brought by Emma Hyams against the Liberty Land and Improvement Company and others to foreclose a mortgage of $7,000. There is a prior mortgage on the property amounting to $26,000.

George G. Hooper has been appointed receiver of the rents of an unfinished six-story elevator apartment house on the east side of St. Nicholas Place, 174 feet south of 153d Street, on plot 75 by 100, pending a suit brought by the Chelsea Realty Company against the Mica Construction Company and others to enforce liens amounting to $15,000.

Notes.

Van Wyck Thorne has obtained for the Sydenham Corporation a loan of $375,000 at 4½ per cent. for five years on the six-story physicians' studio building, at the northwest corner of Madison Avenue and Fifty-eighth Street.

Harold W. Peck has formed a partnership with F. B. Sterling Pile of Bethlehem, Penn., for the transaction of a general real estate business in the City Investing Building, under the firm name of Peck & Pile.

De Blois & Eldridge have leased for the Osgood estate their villa on the corner of Bellevue and Narragansett Avenues, Newport, to Mrs. P. S. Bruguiere of New York for the season.

The Frederick W. Avery Company has rented for J. J. Mott his home on Seneca Street, Far Rockaway, to M. Rose for the season.

Dr. Charles F. Smith is the buyer of the Deane place, at Llewellyn Park, Orange, N. J., sold recently by H. W. Peck of Peck & Pile.

CONTRACT DEPARTMENT

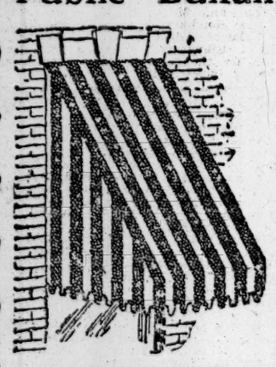
at the Lowest Prices for Office and Public Buildings, Institutions and Apartment Houses.



☞ Fourth Floor.

Our CONTRACT DEPARTMENT having obtained the order for awnings from one of the largest corporations in the world, having many exchanges in the East, procured special concessions from an awning material manufacturer, placing us in a position to sell awnings cheaper than any of our competitors. The specification of the corporation whose order we filled demanded FIRST-CLASS MATERIAL AND WORKMANSHIP, which we guaranteed in every respect.

Our CONTRACT DEPARTMENT will measure and estimate without any cost to you and we feel assured that if allowed an opportunity of figuring, that at our price we must get the order; if compared with other concerns where the best hardware, best awning material and workmanship are used throughout in the equipping of the work.

Out of town institutions, hospitals, railroad company offices, exchanges, etc., may submit to us the sizes and after we render our bid, and secure the order for the awnings, will put them in place either in or out of New York City.

We estimate that our price will be 10% cheaper than the lowest competitor.

CONTEST WITH ITALY ON CHARLTON CASE

Answering Demand for Extradition, Secretary Knox Makes Exactions of Italian Government.

WANTS PRECEDENT FIXED

Italy Declines to Pledge Herself in Similar Cases and Wife Slayer May Go Free.

The State Department at Washington and the officials of the Italian Government have been diplomatically considering the extradition or means of punishment of Porter Charlton, the confessed wife murderer now in the Hudson County (N. J.) jail, since the day of Charlton's arrest. No hint of the progress of negotiations was allowed to become public by either Government.

The Italian Government, it was authoritatively stated yesterday, asked for the extradition of Charlton a few hours after he was arrested by Chief Hayes of Hoboken. Two days later, on June 25, Secretary of State Knox replied to the Italian Chargé d'Affaires, asking him to find out whether Italy would in the future, providing Charlton was given up, consent to the extradition of Italians who commit crimes in the United States and escape to their native country.

That started a diplomatic correspondence which has been going on between the two Governments ever since. Italy, it is said, refused to accede to the demands of Washington in so far as giving positive assurance that escaped criminals would be returned to this country is concerned, falling back upon the section of the Criminal Code of that country passed in 1890 which abrogated the effects of the treaty of 1868, and which allowed an interchange of prisoners. The two Governments have been deadlocked ever since.

Secretary Knox seized with avidity upon the Charlton case to establish a precedent by which in the future Italian criminals who escaped to their native country could be brought back here and tried. The Government at Washington, it is said, intends to stand firm upon its demand that Italy interpret the terms of the 1868 treaty to the very letter. Italy at the same time has given no indication that she will back down from her well-established position.

As the question must be settled within sixty days from the time Charlton was arrested, the indications yesterday were that the murderer would go scot free. Charlton's lawyers are jubilant over the strange entanglement and hope that the present attitude of the respective Governments will remain unchanged until the time limit expires. Judge Paul Charlton, the prisoner's father, himself an authority on international law because of his position as chief counsel in the Bureau of Insular Affairs in the War Department at Washington, while not willing that his son shall take his chances with the law of a foreign country, nevertheless feels that in the interest of society he should be incarcerated. It is his desire that his son be adjudged mentally unbalanced and be placed in a sanitarium in this country for a period of time.

Charlton will be arraigned at 10 o'clock this morning before Judge John A. Blair in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, Jersey City, for a preliminary hearing. His counsel, R. Floyd Clarke of 37 Wall Street, and William D. Edwards, will ask for an adjournment of two weeks and the prosecutor will not oppose the motion.

There was a conference yesterday morning in the office of Prosecutor Garven between Mr. Vickers, his assistant, and Signor di Rosa, Italian Vice Consul in this city; the Consul's legal adviser, Umberto Molassi, and Emil Fuchs, representing Capt. Henry H. Scott, the brother of the murdered woman. All five are acting in concert against Charlton, and they discussed what evidence they would be able to present at the hearing to-day to back up their demands that Charlton be held. This evidence will consist of proof of the commission of the crime and dispatches which have passed between the United States and the Italian Governments to show that steps have been taken to have the prisoner extradited.

Signor di Rosa produced at the conference the original telegram which Paoli di Montagliari, the Italian Chargé d'Affaires at Washington, sent to Secretary Knox on the afternoon of the murder, notifying him that Italy requested the extradition of Charlton and a copy of Secretary Knox's reply. By a peculiar coincidence Signor di Montagliari was in New York last Thursday afternoon when he received the first news of Charlton's arrest. He had left Washington to go to his Summer home at Manchester, N. H., and stopped off to have a conference with Signor di Rosa. While the two were at the Italian Consulate on Lafayette Street news came that Charlton had been arrested as he stepped off the Italian liner Prinzess Irene at Hoboken. Knowing how anxious his Government was to get news of Charlton, Signor di Montgliari immediately sent a dispatch to Rome acquainting the authorities there with the arrest and asking for advice. He received a reply stating that Italy desired the extradition of the murderer. The Italian Chargé d'Affaires then sent the following message to Secretary of State Knox at Washington:

"Porter Charlton arrested to-day in Hoboken for a crime committed at Lake Como, Italy. The Italian Government requests his extradition."

Two days later Secretary Knox sent the following reply to the Ambassador at Manchester:

"Do you want a warrant, writ, or certificate? We understand if we extradite Charlton Italy will in the future consent to the extradition of Italians who commit crimes in this country and escape to Italy. Please let me know the attitude of your Government on this matter."

The Italian Ambassador immediately put himself in touch with Rome, and thus began the diplomatic correspondence. The United States Government, it was said, has come to no decision.

"The Charlton case has been lifted out of the realm of a mere murder, although that is important enough," said a man in authority yesterday who did not wish his name used. "It has assumed international importance. I would not be surprised if it would result in the formation of a new treaty. The two Governments have locked horns, of course, in a perfectly friendly way, over the terms of the 1868 treaty, and neither side is going to back down. This Government for a long time has been looking for an opportunity to bring Italy to account. Italians commit crimes over here in great number, go back to Italy, and there is no possible way for us to get them. The Italian Government dodges the direct issue by telling us that they will try the accused persons, and that we can prosecute over there. That is absurd on its face."

Lawyer Fuchs said yesterday that Capt. Scott had been working assiduously gathering evidence to offset the theory that Charlton was insane. If it is decided, however, Mr. Scott, the lawyer said, would make a strong fight to have him immured in a Government institution and not in a private sanitarium.

"Evidence is plentiful that this boy was far from being demented when he committed the crime," said Mr. Fuchs. Then he referred to a letter which M. Constance Ipolatoff, who rented the villa at Lake Como to the Charltons, found directly after the murder. It had been left for him by Charlton and read:

"My wife and I have gone away for our health. Am sorry that I could not say good-bye."

"It goes to show that Charlton was sane enough to try and cover up his tracks," said Mr. Fuchs. "Before Charlton left for America the Italian Government cabled Secretary Knox asking that the police of all American ports be required to search incoming Italian steamers, but the State Department gave no such instructions, nor made any effort to intercept Charlton. If it had not been for the activity of Capt. Scott he would have got completely away."

Judge Charlton did not visit his son in the prison yesterday, although he returned to the city from Baltimore with his son, Robert. He will visit the jail to-day.

Warden Sullivan will move Charlton to another part of the prison to-day, being worried over reports that the prisoner has tuberculosis, and other prisoners have complained. Charlton's cellmate, William, alias "Ulley" Burke, the safe blower, told the Warden yesterday that he believed Charlton was a dangerous character, and that he was afraid, not only of contracting consumption, but that Charlton might do him bodily injury while he was asleep. The Warden said he had taken a great fancy to Charlton and was convinced that his mind was not just right.

"When I went in to see him yesterday," he said, "Charlton put his arms around my neck and cried on my shoulder. He asked me if I had a mother, and when I told him she was dead he said it was too bad, for he had long missed the influence of a mother."

ITALY DEMANDS CHARLTON.

Not Much Concerned if State Department Declines to Give Him Up.

ROME, June 27.—The Foreign Office decided to-day to follow the provisions of the Italian-American extradition conventions and to ask for the extradition of Porter Charlton, leaving it with the American authorities to accept or refuse the request. The outcome of the exchanges between Rome and Washington will be followed with an interest quite outside that attaching to the murder of Mrs. Charlton.

Extradition between Italy and the United States is provided for in the conventions of 1868 and 1884, but Italy has always held that these treaties did not cover the cases of Italian subjects who, having committed crimes in the United States, escaped to their native country. In such instances the Government has insisted that the accused be tried in the courts of their countrymen. Several times requests for extraditions of Italian criminals from the American State Department have been refused.

Should the American State Department follow the precedent established by this country and refuse the extradition of Charlton, its action will be construed as a recognition of the equity of the Italian interpretation of the extradition conventions, providing, of course, that the refusal is not based upon the grounds that the prisoner is insane or for any reason other than that he is an American citizen.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—The State Department officials were much interested in the news from Rome that the Italian Government had decided to request the extradition of Porter Charlton.

As the case is one without precedent in that Italy has never before made a request for the surrender of an American citizen, serious consideration probably will be given to the request, and it may be some time before a decision is reached.

Should it be decided here that the operation of the extradition treaty should be mutual, then the request for extradition must be denied, in view of Italy's consistent refusal to surrender for trial in America Italians who have committed crimes in this country and escaped to Italy. In the event of such a decision, no protest is expected from the Italian Government, which will probably take the ground that it has done all it could to bring the fugitive to justice.

TONGS TERRORIZE CHINATOWN

Another Outbreak of the Rival Factions Expected at Any Time.

Rarely has Chinatown been keyed so high with excitement as it was yesterday. Every one there was morally certain that something tragic was about to happen. It might come any minute; it might not come for a week or a month. But one thing was assured, according to all the old heads in Chinatown—the gun men of the Four Brothers were getting ready for a killing.

The On Leong Tong men were sure of it. So were the police who were stationed at every corner and in front of nearly every restaurant, waiting for the sound of the first shot which would tell them that the gun men of the Four Brothers had started in to revenge the onslaught of the On Leong Tong on Sunday afternoon just as they were gathering to attend a dinner celebrating the acquittal of Chen Hen, a member of the Four Brothers clan who had been accused of killing an On Leong Tong man. Three men fell under the hail of bullets, two of them to their death, the other with slight chances for recovery.

Emissaries from each tong headquarters went to the Tombs Court yesterday morning, where several of the prisoners taken after the shooting affair of Sunday were arraigned before Magistrate Appleton. Two of them, Hong Hang and Hue Kom, were held without bail for felonious assault. The others, Yung Tung, Pong Low, Leong Lung, Wong Kong, and Ling Young, were released on $100 bail each as material witnesses. The fellow-members of their respective tongs furnished cash bail.

Still another prisoner was taken in Sunday's raid, but he died yesterday in the Hudson Street Hospital of his wounds. This was Sen Jim, a Four Brothers man. He was the innocent victim of two bullets from the On Leong Tong gun men.

Father Diamond, pastor of the Catholic Church of the Transfiguration, in Mott Street, only a few doors away from the place where Sunday's shooting occurred, was as active as the tong men themselves yesterday, but his energies lay in another direction. Following the shooting he decided to go to Mayor Gaynor and make an appeal for either better police protection in Chinatown or some step to put an end to the tong war there. He communicated with the City Hall yesterday morning, and was asked to call at 4 P. M. to take the matter up with Mayor Gaynor. But when Father Diamond arrived there at the appointed time he was informed that the Mayor was too busy on other matters to see him. He will see him at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

SLEUTH ON A DOG HUNT.

Hopes to Find Beast Which Bit a Boy and Disappeared.

Detective Ryan left yesterday evening the Bronx Detective Bureau to hunt for a dog described thus in a general alarm sent out by the Alexander Avenue Police Station:

WANTED—A black mongrel dog with long hair, two blue eyes, between three and four years of age, and standing about thirteen inches high.

It is not specified on what charge the malefactor is to be apprehended.

Ten-year-old Joseph Klein of 485 East 140th Street was playing tag at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon with some boys at Brook Avenue and 140th Street, when the dog joined in the game to the extent of seizing Joseph by the right leg. Then, deciding he had had enough play, he vanished.

Dr. Hoffman removed the boy to Lincoln Hospital to cauterize the wound. Later his mother took him home. It was decided that the dog ought to be examined for possible rabies, and as he had disappeared there was nothing to do but send a detective to look for him, and Ryan received the job.

MURDERS THE GIRL HE COULDN'T MARRY

SHOT HER IN THE HEART

Says That the Girl's Hand In Marriage Was Part of a Grocery Store Deal.

Pale and breathless, a young man ran into the East Fifth Street Police Station last night and proclaimed to Lieut. Judge, who was at the desk:

"I have just shot my girl!"

Then he drew a revolver from his pocket, laid it on the desk, and fell in a faint on the floor. When the police revived him he said he was Morris Nathanson, until recently a grocer at 25 East Third Street, and that he had just shot Jennie Menkoff, a seventeen-year-old shirtwaist maker, whose father, Morris Menkoff, lived on the third floor above the grocery and had recently bought the business from him.

"It was understood at the time of the sale that I was to marry Jennie," said Nathanson, according to the police, "and then, when he had the store, he refused to let me have her."

Nathanson was taken to Police Headquarters to be questioned by Capt. Carey of the Homicide Bureau, and Policeman Teizen was sent to the Menkoff house. In the hall in front of her door he found the girl dead with two bullet wounds through her heart. Her hat and small bag lay on the floor beside her, showing that she had just returned from work. Her father, mother, and two younger sisters, surrounded by several hundred tenants of that and near-by tenements, were moaning over the body.

From the neighbors, Teizer said, he learned that Menkoff on March 27 sold the grocery on the ground floor for $550 to H. Nathanson, an uncle of Morris, who turned it over to his son and nephew to start them in business. They stocked it with goods worth $1,500. On June 2, failing to find another grocery in the neighborhood, Menkoff finally succeeded, after much pleading, in buying back the grocery for $800. Young Morris Nathanson told the neighbors that a condition of the sale was that he was to marry Jennie Menkoff; but as he was seldom seen to go out with her, and as the elder Menkoff always denied any such agreement, the neighbors grew to make sport of Nathanson's matrimonial expectations.

"We had no idea that he cared so much for her," said several of them last night, "for she always showed plainly that she didn't want him."

Nathanson, in his statement to Capt. Carey, Assistant District Attorney Turnbull, and Coroner Feinberg, admitted that he had done the shooting. He said the girl, on the few occasions when she went walking with him, told him she did not want to marry him; and thereafter, he said, her father repudiated the promise made at the time of the sale. On Friday evening, Nathanson said, he made a last effort to win them over. Failing in that, he bought a cheap revolver and lay in wait for the girl when she returned from work last night.

RUNNING OUT HOTEL LOUNGERS

Hard Blow to Men Who Take That Way of Saving Money.

Broadway and Fifth Avenue hotels started a round-up yesterday to clear the hotel corridors of Summer loungers who use the lobbies of the hotels by the hour, occupying the wicker chairs and enjoying the electric fans and the ice water.

The lobby of any big hotel in town, with all the modern appliances for keeping cool, is one of the most inviting places on a hot day, and the loungers monopolize the comforts, to the exclusion of the hotel patrons.

The activity of the house detectives at the Waldorf and Knickerbocker has been such that the corridors are pretty well cleared.

Hotel proprietors say they are really sorry to deprive hundreds of men from keeping up a smart appearance by lolling carelessly about the hotel corridors and meeting their friends by appointment.

"I know from actual fact that many of these loungers are living on almost nothing," said one hotel man yesterday. "They rent a furnished room in the vicinity of the hotel at about $2 a week and eat at the cheapest restaurants. But they spend morning, afternoon, and night in the hotels, where they appear well-dressed, creating the impression that they are prosperous.

They use the hotel stationery for their business correspondence and social affairs. It may seem strange, too, but more men wander into the hotels to keep cool in Summer than to keep warm in the Winter.
